HONEA PATH, S. C.,
Sept. 6.—Six cotton textile strikers were killed and nearly a score wounded today in a riot at the Chiquola
mill.

The dead and practically all of the wounded were pickets, who, armed with clubs, attempted to prevent the day shift from going on duty.

The loyal workers, all of whom had been deputized, opened fire with shot guns and pistols, driving off
the pickets.

When the riotous scene had subsided, the ground was studded with the dead, dying and seriously wounded.

Ambulances, summoned from Anderson, nearby, rushed the seriously injured to the hospital at Anderson, where it was found that at least six pickets had suffered serious wounds. One of these was so seriously shot that his recovery was doubtful.

Russian Debt Parley Near Final Break

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Complete collapse of the debt negotia-

Soviet Russia was made known by acting Secretary of State R. Walton

He announced that an American move to revive the negotiations had failed owing to Moscow's adamant stand on excessive demands as the price for its willingness to meet
American debt and damage claims.

Confessing that the situation appeared hopeless, Moore said this

SEASIDE PARK, N. J., Sept. 6.—
Coast guardsmen today had recover-

drowned when a combination heavy
undertow and small tidal wave struck 12 New Jersey beaches be-

The dead were:
Ignatius Todaro, 16-year-old son
of assistant United States Attorney
C. James Todaro, of Philadelphia, who met death while enjoying a final dip in the ocean preparatory to ending his summer vacation today.

Richard Troutman, 22, of New

Seek To Reduce Cost Of Special Session

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—Efforts are being made to arrange a workable plan to reduce the cost of the special legislative session which convenes next Wednesday by persuading legislators to accept only part of their $500 salary, it was learned today.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot was considering the possibilities of such a plan
it was stated, and has had outlined two proposals for limiting the cost.
One plan would call upon the legislators to return to the treasury all

of the $500 over their actual food
and lodging expenses during the session plus $50 net salary. The other proposal contemplated having the legislators accept only half their salary.

There was no indication at the capitol that either of the plans would be finally adopted or that the legislators would accept them if they were. George H. Tarle, Democratic candidate for governor in upcoming convocation of a special session, said he was confident Democratic legislators would be willing to meet without pay.

Aluminum Company Workers Strike Settled

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 6.—The labor struggle between the Fellen-controlled Aluminum Company of America and the National Council of Aluminum Workers backed by the American Federation of Labor came to an end today.

Settlement of the strike approximately 8,500 workers, who forced six aluminum concerns to suspend operations was announced
by Fred Keightley, veteran negotiator for the U. S. Department of Labor. Keightley said the settlement would be "put in final form"
today.

The end of the strike called early in August came after a conference between Keightley, union leaders, and aluminum officials. At the conclusion of a series of meetings, this morning, none of the corporate would reveal how the corporate points at issue were settled.

"We are preparing a statement which will be issued later," a spokesman said.

Under terms of the settlement,
Keightley said strikers at plants in
New Kensington, Arnold, Pa.; St.
Ferry, Pa.; Massena, N. Y.; East St. Louis, Ill.; and Alcoa, Tenn., would return to work tomorrow morning.

Strike Peaceful.
The major cause of the workout on August 10 was the union demand for recognition, a request aluminum officials regarded as a
"closed shop." Representatives of the workers denied they wanted a "closed shop." Other points appearing in the two sides were demands for higher wages, the "check-off" system for collecting union dues, and seniority rights.

OUTBREAKS DEVELOP DESPITE PRESIDENT'S ACT TO BRING MEDIATION

Worst Clash Of Day Occurs In South Carolina; Six Pickets
Shot To Death; Both Sides Firm In Strike Stand De-

There'll Be No Arbitration Until All Mills Are Closed.

International News Service
Open warfare between strikers and non-strikers
flamed in the south today as the general textile strike tightened its grip on the nation's industrial areas and death toll of riots rose to ten.

Six strike pickets were killed at Honea Path, S. C.,
and nearly a score more were wounded, several seriously, when loyal workers of the Chiquola mill opened fire on a picket line seeking to prevent the day shift starting work.

Clabbing fiercely, the pickets charged the workers who refused to join the strike. Most of the latter had been deputized and opened fire with shotguns and pistols.
When the bloody outbreak ended the ground near the mill was studded with dead and dying.

At Greenville, S. C., a strike picket was shot and killed at the Duncan mill by a deputy sheriff who claimed self-defense.

Riots in Georgia swelled the death list. A strike picket died at Augusta following a fierce flareup there last night. At Trion, Ga., a deputy and a picket were killed in a clash between strikers and non-strikers.

Board Prepares To Meet
Fromally, the war in the south reached its bitterest as the special three-man mediation board named by President Roosevelt to seek a peaceful settlement of the strike
prepared to hold its first meeting

Here After Six Years Missionary Service Among Chinese People

sionary work in China was painted in words this morning by Mother
Genevieve of the St. Joseph's mother-house at Baden as she talked enthusiastically of the past six and one half years which she spent at
St. Paul's Mission in Yuencho,
Hunan, China.

Mother Genevieve said she was loathe to leave China as she had become very fond of her work among the orphans and aged principally, as
at the mission they have a boys'
school, a girls' school and an old ladies' home. The orphans and old persons are principally from the very poor class of Chinese and the dispensary, which is connected with the mission, is a busy place, as the sick of the community come here
for treatment.

At the mission are six nuns and two priests, two of the nuns are graduate nurses and two more are trained in nursing. Mother Genevieve said they become very fond of the Chinese children and they respond most kindly to the gentle treatment they receive in the home.
She said the nuns have access to all the institutions of Yuencho, where they are welcomed for their ministrations.

Aids In Establishing Mission
Mother Genevieve went to China to aid in the establishing of this mission, which is the first of its kind in the district. She told the News reporter that the Chinese language is the hardest language in the world to master, and said she had not become very fluent in its use in the time she was there, although the nuns never speak anything but Chinese to the children, as the chil-

Worst Clash Of Day Occurs In South Carolina; Six Pickets
Shot To Death; Both Sides Firm In Strike Stand Despite Bloodshed; Strike Committee Head Declares
There'll Be No Arbitration Until All Mills Are Closed.

(International News Service)
Open warfare between strikers and non-strikers
flamed in the south today as the general textile strike
tightened its grip on the nation's industrial areas and
death toll of riots rose to ten.

Six strike pickets were killed at Honea Path, S. C.,
and nearly a score more were wounded, several seriously,
when loyal workers of the Chiquola mill opened fire on a picket line seeking to prevent the day shift starting work.

Clubbing fiercely, the pickets charged the workers who refused to join the strike. Most of the latter had been deputized and opened fire with shotguns and pistols.
When the bloody outbreak ended the ground near the mill
was studded with dead and dying.

At Greenville, S. C., a strike picket was shot and killed at the Duncan mill by a deputy sheriff who claimed self-defense.

Riots in Georgia swelled the death list. A strike
picket died at Augusta following a fierce flareup there last night. At Trion, Ga., a deputy and a picket were killed in a clash between strikers and non-strikers.

Board Prepares To Meet
Ironically, the war in the south reached its bitterest as the special
three-man mediation board named
by President Roosevelt to seek a peaceful settlement of the strike
prepared to hold its first meeting in Washington.

Gov. John G. Winant, of New Hampshire, chairman of the presi-cord he will fly to the capital to meet with Marion Smith, Atlanta attorney, and Raymond V. Ingersoll, borough president of Brooklyn, recommend a plan for settlement.

The board is to report to Mr. Roosevelt by Oct. 1.

Here After Six Years Missionary Service Among Chinese People

A vivid picture of Catholic missionary work in China was painted
in words this morning by Mother
Genevieve of the St. Joseph's mother-house at Baden as she talked enthusiastically of the past six and one half years which she spent at
St. Paul's Mission in Yunchow,
Hunan, China.

Mother Genevieve said she was loathe to leave China as she had become very fond of her work among
the orphans and aged principally, as
at the mission they have a boys'
school, a girls' school and an old ladies' home. The orphans and old persons are principally from the
very poor class of Chinese and the dispensary, which is connected with
the mission, is a busy place, as the
sick of the community come here
for treatment.

At the mission are six nuns and two priests, two of the nuns are graduate nurses and two more are trained in nursing. Mother Genevieve said they become very fond of the Chinese children and they respond most kindly to the gentle
treatment they receive in the home.
She said the nuns have access to all the institutions of Yunchow where they are welcomed for their ministrations.

Aids In Establishing Mission
Mother Genevieve went to China
to aid in the establishing of this mission, which is the first of its kind in the district. She told the News reporter that the Chinese language is the hardest language in the
not become very fluent in its use in the time she was there, although
the nuns never speak anything but Chinese to the children, as the chil-

HONOLULU, S. C., Sept. 6.—Six cotton textile workers were killed and nearly a score wounded to-
mill.

The dead and practically all of the wounded were pickets, who, armed
with clubs, attempted to prevent the day shift from going on duty.

The loyal workers, all of whom had been deputized, opened fire with shot guns and pistols, driving off
the pickets.

When the riotous scene had subsided, the ground was studded with
the dead, dying and seriously
wounded.

Ambulances, summoned from Anderson, nearby, rushed the seriously injured to the hospital at Anderson, where it was found that at least six pickets had suffered serious
wounds. One of these was so seri-
doubtful.

Russian Debt Parley Near Final Break

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Complete collapse of the debt negotiations between the United States and
acting Secretary of State R. Walton
Moore today.

He announced that an American
move to revive the negotiations had failed owing to Moscow's adamant
stand on excessive demands as the price for its willingness to meet
American debt and damage claims.

Confessing that the situation appeared hopeless, Moore said this government would make no further effort to continue discussions with Soviet Russia unless Moscow took
the initiative.

Recover Bodies Of Two Drowned By Tidal Wave

(International News Service)
SEASIDE PARK, N. J., Sept. 6.—
Coast guardsmen today had recovered the bodies of a man and a boy, drowned when a combination heavy
undertow and small tidal wave
struck 12 New Jersey beaches between Asbury Park and this resort.

The dead were:
Ignatius Todaro, 16-year-old son
of assistant United States Attorney
C. James Todaro, of Philadelphia,
who met death while enjoying a
final dip in the ocean preparatory
to ending his summer vacation today.

Richard Troutman, 22, of New York city, who was carried to sea from the beach at Point Pleasant, just north of here.

Life guards at various nearby beaches effected 15 rescues during the freak undertow peril. Two guards at Point Pleasant were themselves rescued when they became exhausted from their life saving efforts.

No one was able to offer a definite explanation of the oceanic disturbance which died out during the night.

Seek To Reduce Cost Of Special Session

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—Efforts
are being made to arrange a workable plan to reduce the cost of the special legislative session which convenes next Wednesday by persuad-
of their $500 salary, it was learned
today.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot was considering the possibilities of such a plan in it was stated, and has had outlined two proposals for limiting the cost.

One plan would call upon the leg-

and lodging expenses during the session plus $50 net salary. The other proposal contemplated having the legislators accept only half their salary.

There was no indication at the capitol that either of the plans
would be finally adopted or that
they were. George H. Earle, Democratic candidate for governor, in urging convocation of a special session, said he was confident Democratic legislators would be willing to
meet without pay.

Aluminum Company Workers Strike Settled

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 6.—The labor struggle between the Aluminum Company of America and the National Council of Aluminum
Workers backed by the American Federation of Labor came to an end today.

Settlement of the strike of approximately 8,500 workers, who forced six aluminum companies to suspend operations was announced
by Fred Keightley, veteran negotiator for the U. S. Department of Labor. Keightley said the peace truce would be "put in final form"
today.

The end of the strike called early
in August came after a conference between Keightley, union leaders and aluminum officers. At the conclusion of a series of meetings this morning, none of the coverages would reveal how the principal points at issue were settled.

"We are preparing a statement which will be issued later," a spokesman said.

Under terms of the settlement
New Kensington, Arnold, Lehigh, Perry, Pa., Massena, N. Y., East St.
Louis, Ill., and Alcoa, Tenn., would return to work tomorrow morning.

Strike Peaceful

The major cause of the without on August 10 was the union's demand for recognition, a request
aluminum officials regarded as a
"closed shop." Representatives of the workers denied they wanted a
"closed shop." Other points disputing the two sides were demands for higher wages, the "check-off" system for collecting union dues and
seniority rights.

Prior to the strike call, R. A.

Governor Orders Use Of Militia

Says Power Of State Has Been Challenged In Strike Conditions

STRIKERS PARADE TO UNCLOSED MILLS

(International News Service) CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 6.—The shadow of martial law hung over strike-torn North Carolina today after Governor E. M. Bingham last night directed the adjutant general of the state to take charge of the textile area and to order out whatever national guard units were considered necessary to preserve order.

The governor's order was issued while R. R. Lawrence, president of the state federation of labor was assuring union members in a radio address "You have every reason to be jubilant over the general situation at this hour."

Reached by International News Service here immediately after receipt of the governor's order, Lawrence declared: "I think now there will be bloodshed in this state without a doubt. There is no real reason why the governor should call out the militia."

Order Follows Tour.—Governor Bingham's order followed a whirlwind tour through North Carolina of the most impressive "flying squadron" yet to descend upon textile communities. Six and one half miles long, its uncounted automobiles and 22 trucks carried an estimated 10,000 strikers to contested points.

Roaring over the highways around a 100 mile loop beginning and ending at Shelby, acquiring reinforcements as it advanced, the squadron found mills closed down before its arrival.

At Cherrydale, five plants went silent as word of its approach preceded it. The one mill at Lincoln which had operated during the day was dark when it arrived.

Power Of State Challenged.—Two mills at Maiden ceased operations, as did five at Newton, one at Conover, and two at Hickory. Squadron leaders declared that they then had eight thousand workers left tools and spinning frames along the line of march.

Their use of "persuasion" by striking workers from distant points to shut down operating mills formed the basis of the governor's decision to call on the militia, he indicated in his formal statement issued at Raleigh.

"The power of the state has been definitely challenged," he declared.

dren know no English. In the mission they do not attempt to teach English. The missionary work among the Chinese is very slow as their belief in paganism is hard to root out and even after a person has accepted Christianity and then returns to their home, they frequently go back to the old religion.

Mother Genevieve said the Protestant missionaries frequently visit them in their mission and they talk over the problems of missionaries in this far off land.

In speaking of the Chinese embracing the Catholic religion, she told of a Chinese novice who came back to America last year with one of the sisters who returned and is now in the mother house at Baden, and in two or three years, when she has taken her vows, she will return to China, to take up work among her people. There are a number of Chinese girls in the Hunan district who are anxious to become religious.

Friday Mother Genevieve will return to the mother house at Baden. She was a New Castle girl, being a daughter of the late Roddy and Bridget Ryan of this city. She attended St. Mary's school and later entered the convent at Ebensburg as a novitiate and then went to the mother house at Baden.

Funeral Services For Russ Columbo Being Held Today

All Hollywood Bows In Grief At Bier Of Radio And Screen Star

(International News Service) HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—Flags on Hollywood movie studios were at half-staff today for the funeral of Russ Columbo, radio and movie star, who was killed accidentally by an old cap and ball duelling pistol held by his lifelong friend, Lansing Brown, Jr., noted Hollywood portrait photographer.

Hollywood's grief was deep and sincere over the sudden death of the former San Francisco Italian. He of the golden voice—who had just attained stardom in the movies, and a large attendance of movie favorites was scheduled at the funeral services.

The body of the star will be taken to a mortuary after the funeral interment to await the arrival of relatives from the East and improvement of the condition of his mother, Mrs. Julia Columbo, who remains critically ill in a Santa Monica hospital.

Brown, who fired the fatal shot, was freed of blame in Columbo's death by a coroner's jury.

(International News Service)

BRIDGEPORT Conn. Sept. 6.—Five hundred strikers from the John Lee Minerva Textile mill at Bridgeport, today stormed the locked doors of the John Hoxey Textile mill and emptied the building of 100 workers.

The march of the strikers came when the Hoxey mill workers shouted out windows, "We can't get out the doors are locked."

"Oh, yeah," yelled back the embattled strikers as they launched a determined rush for the doors and smashed them in.

Augmented by the Hoxey workers, the strikers went shouting and shrieking to the nearby mill of the I. W. Smith company.

After storming the gates the workers then rushed into a yard surrounding the plant and ordered 200 workers to leave their looms.

Without resistance, the Smith Co. employees complied.

Expect Allocation Of Funds For Lawrence County To Be Made Today

No allocation of funds for Lawrence county has been received as yet by the local offices of the Emergency Relief board, but following the meeting of the state board this afternoon it is thought that a definite amount will be set out for use here.

E. H. Robinson, local director of the relief here, had not returned from Harrisburg today at noon but was expected later in the afternoon.

Projects are being submitted in satisfactory shape, according to George Mudhardt, director of the work division. Among them are proposed projects that will employ common labor, skilled labor and white collared employees. None of the projects have been given state approval yet but such approval will be asked for now that the state has an allocation of ten million dollars for September.

he was contemplating a new and heretofore untried plan which he would present to the legislature. It was not ascertained at once whether the governor was planning to request the legislature to serve without pay. Members of the house and senate will receive more than $125,000 in salaries for attendance at a special session.

Having already notified members of the legislature by mail that the assembly will convene Wednesday, the governor was utilizing the additional time to shape his call.

He has yet given no indication of whether the call will be "wide open" to social legislation as demanded by George H. Eide, Democratic candidate for governor, or restricted to relief, as demanded by most of the Republican leaders.

Pre-session conferences with legislative leaders were expected to get under way in Harrisburg shortly.

Plan To Resume Work.—Hopkins, in announcing the Pennsylvania grant, said he was prepared to confer with the governor and legislative leaders to determine the share of the relief costs which he has demanded the state share. He did not state whether the commonwealth was expected to make partial restitution for past federal outlays.

Biddle said he hoped to swing the state's new fall and winter work relief program into high gear by October. Because of the almost complete suspension of works relief, he said little of the September allotment can be used for that type of aid until the machinery is again set up.

It was learned that at the New York City bi-partisan relief meeting the governor had intended to present Hopkins with pledges from Attorney General William A. Schnader, Republican nominee for governor, and Earle that the regular legislative sessions next January would be asked to provide $14,000,000 for relief as the state's share. An additional $600,000 was expected in profits from the state liquor stores. The plan died aborning when Earle declined to attend the New York conference. The governor later offered the plan as his own but it was rejected by Hopkins.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 6.—Big business, represented by the Mellon controlled Aluminum Company of America, today recognized the principles of section 7-A of the national industrial recovery act and agreed to bargain collectively with its employees.

The agreement, which will exist for a six months' period, ended the month-old strike in the Aluminum industry and sounded the call that will send approximately 8,500 men and women back to work in six major aluminum plants throughout the country.

were hurt in the battle, so far as could be learned.

All of the dead were pickets who formerly had been employed in the mill of the Chiquola Manufacturing company.

Pickets Bar Way

A group of approximately 250 pickets were gathered at the mill when the day shift arrived to go on duty. The pickets, armed with sticks and clubs, barred the way and brought their weapons into play.

Shooting and sporadic hand-to-hand fighting broke out immediately but the battle was short lived. The pickets gave way, retreating in disorder.

Eye-witnesses said the fighting began with a sudden fury which in an instant reached tornadic proportions.

Finding their way blocked by the picket force, the loyal workers at the mill shot their way through the lines, and the pickets began wielding their clubs.

Instantly shooting broke out, and workers were locked in hand-to-hand fighting.

The deafening roar of shotgun explosions sounded amid the sharp reports of pistols. Men cursed, yelled and fought with blood streaming in their eyes.

Five Minute Battle

The battle, according to witnesses, lasted not more than five minutes, with members of the picket force breaking into a run to leave the scene.

But many were left lying on the ground, never to move again. Others writhed in pain in pools of blood, and their cries added to the sounds of shouting and the diminishing sounds of battle.

Left in possession of the field of battle, the loyal workers began moving along the dead and wounded. Ambulances were summoned and the dead, dying and wounded were removed.

But no one, apparently, thought of work, and no effort was made to place the mill in operation.

Greenville, S. C., Sept. 6.—A striker was killed at the Dunean Mill this morning. Deputy Sheriff R. L. Putnam was arrested for the killing. He claimed self defense.

Augusta, Ga., Sept. 6.—Leon Carroll, strike picket shot by police in disorders here yesterday, died early today at a local hospital.

Will Hutto and Otis Candy, two other strikers shot during the same fighting, remained in grave condition.

The men were shot when officers attempting to quell rioting at the Enterprise Mill were attacked by pickets.

Porterdale, Ga., Sept. 6.—Three strikers were shot and two policemen injured today, when non-union workers clashed with pickets in front of the mills here.

Collecting who attempted to break up the fighting were attacked and retaliated by opening fire. The riot broke when the loyal workers attempted to enter the mills.

"We will close the mills," he added, "and until then we have no inclination to talk."

"Needless Sacrifice"

But Sloan held out no hope for immediate cessation of the strike.

"It is unmistakably clear the great majority of employees in this industry wish to continue to work," he asserted. "Widespread terrorism threatens that right. Will constituted authorities permit a lawless group to set up an invisible super-government, imperiling life, liberty, property and the freedom of the average man and woman to go to their daily occupation without fear?"

Says Power Of State Has Been Challenged In Strike Conditions

STRIKERS PARADE TO UNCLOSED MILLS

(International News Service) CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 6.—Roaring over strike-torn North Carolina today after Governor E. B. Ethinghaus last night directed the adjutant general of the state to take charge of the textile area and to order out whatever national guard units were considered necessary to preserve order.

The governor's order was issued while R. R. Lawrence, president of the state federation of labor was assuring union members in a radio address: "You have every reason to be jubilant over the general situation at this hour."

Reached by International News Service here immediately after receipt of the governor's order, Lawrence declared: "I think now there will be bloodshed in this state without a doubt. There is no real reason why the governor should call out the militia."

Order Follows Tour Governor Ethinghaus' order followed a whirlwind tour through North Carolina of the most impressive "flying squadron" yet to descend upon textile communities. Six and one half miles long, its uncounted automobile and 22 trucks carried an estimated 10,000 strikers to contested points.

Roaring over the highways around a 100 mile loop beginning and ending at Shelby, acquiring reinforcements as it advanced, the squadron found mills closed down before its arrival.

At Cherrydale, five plants went silent as word of its approach preceded it. The one at Lincoln, which had operated during the day was dark when it arrived.

Power Of State Challenged

Two mills at Malden ceased operations, as did five at Newton, one at Conover, and one at Hickory. Squadron leaders estimated that not less than eight thousand workers left tools and spinning frames along the line of march.

Their use of "persuasion" by striking workers from distant points to shut down operating mills formed the basis of the governor's decision to call on the militia, he indicated in his formal statement issued at Raleigh.

"The power of the state has been definitely challenged," he declared.

The missionary work among the Chinese is very slow as their belief in pagan gods is hard to root out and even after a convert has embraced Christianity and then returns to their home, they frequently go back to the old religion.

Mother Genevieve said the Protestant missionaries frequently visit them in their mission and they talk over the problems of missionaries in this far off land.

In speaking of the Chinese embracing the Catholic religion, she told of a Chinese novice who

"We will close the mills," he added, "until then we have no inclination to talk."

"Needless Sacrifice" In New York, George A. Sloan, head of the Cotton Textile Institute and chairman of the cotton textile code authority, described the ten strike deaths as "a needless sacrifice in the conflict over the inalienable right to work."

But Sloan held out no hope for immediate cessation of the strike. "It is unmistakably clear the great majority of employes in this industry wish to continue to work," he asserted. "Widespread terrorism threatens that right. Will constituted authorities permit a lawless group to set up an invisible super-government, imperiling life, liberty, property and the freedom of the average man and woman to go to their daily occupation without fear?"

New Party Platform Is Ready For Approval At State Committee Meeting

Governor Orders Use Of Militia

Says Power Of State Has Been Challenged In Strike Conditions

STRIKERS PARADE TO UNCLOSED MILLS

(International News Service)
CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 6.—The shadow of martial law hung over strike-torn North Carolina today after Governor Ehringhaus last night directed the adjutant general of the state to take charge of the textile area and to order out whatever national guard units were considered necessary to preserve order.

The governor's order was issued while R. R. Lawrence, president of the state federation of labor was assuring union members in a radio address "You have every reason to be jubilant over the general situation at this hour."

Reached by International News Service here immediately after receipt of the governor's order, Lawrence declared:

"I think now there will be bloodshed in this state without a doubt. There is no real reason why the governor should call out the militia."

Order Follows Tour
Governor Ehringhaus' order followed a whirlwind tour through North Carolina of the most impressive "flying squadron" yet to descend upon textile communities. Six and one half miles long, its uncounted automobiles and 22 trucks carried an estimated 10,000 strikers to contested points.

Roaring over the highways around a 100 mile loop beginning and ending at Shelby, acquiring reinforcements as it advanced, the squadron found mills closed down before its arrival.

At Cherrydale, five plants went silent as word of its approach preceded it. The one mill at Lincoln which had operated during the day was dark when it arrived.

Power Of State Challenged
Two mills at Maiden ceased operations, as did five at Newton, one at Conover, and two at Hickory. Squadron leaders estimated that not less than eight thousand workers left tools and spinning frames along the line of march.

Their use of "persuasion" by striking workers from distant points to shut down operating mills formed the basis of the governor's decision to call on the militia, he indicated in his formal statement issued at Raleigh.

"The power of the state has been definitely challenged," he declared.

dren know no English. In the mission they do not attempt to teach English. The missionary work among the Chinese is very slow as their belief in pagan gods is hard to root out and even after a person has embraced Christianity and returns to their home, they frequently go back to the old religion.

Mother Genevieve said the Protestant missionaries frequently visit them in their mission and they talk over the problems of missionaries in this far off land.

In speaking of the Chinese embracing the Catholic religion, she told of a Chinese novitiate who came back to America last year with one of the sisters who returned and is now in the mother house at Baden, when she has taken her vows, she will return to China, to take up work among her people. There are a number of Chinese girls in the Hunan district who are anxious to become religious.

New Castle Girl
Friday Mother Genevieve will return to the mother house at Baden. She was a New Castle girl, being a daughter of the late Rody and Bridget Ryan of this city. She attended St. Mary's school and later entered the convent at Ebensburg as a novitiate and then went to the mother house at Baden.

She is a sister of Mrs. James Matthews, Leasure avenue; Mrs. William Delaney, Northview avenue; Mrs. William Weaver, Mrs. Mary Janess, Croton avenue; Mrs. Margaret Griffin of Youngstown, Ohio, and John Ryan, of Craiton.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—Flags on Hollywood movie studios were at half-staff today for the funeral of Russ Columbo, radio and movie star, who was killed accidentally by an old cap and ball duelling pistol held by his lifelong friend, Lansing Brown, Jr., noted Hollywood portrait photographer.

The body of the star will be taken to a mortuary after the funeral interment to await the arrival of relatives from the East and improvement of the condition of his mother, Mrs. Julio Columbo, who remains critically ill in a Santa Monica hospital.

Strikers Chase Employes From Silk Mill Looms

(International News Service)
BRIDGEPORT Conn., Sept. 6.—Five hundred strikers from the John Lee Minerva Textile mill of Bridgeport, today stormed the locked doors of the John Hoxey Textile mill and emptied the building of 100 workers.

The march of the strikers came when the Hoxey mill workers shouted out windows, "We can't get out the doors are locked."

"Oh, yeah," yelled back the embattled strikers as they launched a determined rush for the doors and smashed them in.

Augmented by the Hoxey workers, the strikers went shouting and shrieking to the nearby mill of the I. W. Smith company.

After storming the gates the workers then rushed into a yard surrounding the plant and ordered 200 workers to leave their looms.

Without resistance, the Smith Co. employes complied.

Preparing For Work Projects

Expect Allocation Of Funds For Lawrence County To Be Made Today

No allocation of funds for Lawrence county has been received as yet by the local offices of the Emergency Relief board, but following the meeting of the state board this afternoon it is thought that a definite amount will be set out for use here.

E. H. Robinson, local director of the relief here, had not returned from Harrisburg today at noon but was expected later in the afternoon.

Projects are being submitted in satisfactory shape, according to George Mudhardt, director of the works division. Among them are proposed projects that will employ common labor, skilled labor and white collared employes. None of the projects have been given state approval yet but which approval will be asked for now that the state has an allocation of ten million dollars for September.

STATE IS GIVEN FEDERAL RELIEF FOR SEPTEMBER

he was contemplating a new and heretofore untried plan which he would present to the legislature. It was not ascertained at once whether the governor was planning to request the legislature to serve without pay. Members of the house and senate will receive more than $125,000 in salaries for attendance at a special session.

Having already notified members of the legislature by mail that the assembly will convene Wednesday, the governor was utilizing the additional time to shape his call.

He has yet given no indication of whether the call will be "wide open" to social legislation as demanded by George H. Earle, Democratic candidate for governor, or restricted to relief, as demanded by most of the Republican leaders.

Pre-session conferences with legislative leaders were expected to get under way in Harrisburg shortly.

Plan To Resume Work.

Hopkins, in announcing the Pennsylvania grant, said he was prepared to confer with the governor and legislative leaders to determine the share of the relief costs which he has demanded the state share. He did not state whether the commonwealth will be expected to make partial restitution for past federal outlays.

Biddle said he hoped to swing the state's new fall and winter works relief program into high gear by October. Because of the almost complete suspension of works relief, he said little of the September allotment can be used for that type of aid until the machinery is again set up.

It was learned that at the New York City bi-partisan relief meeting the governor had intended to present Hopkins with pledges from Attorney General William A. Schnader, Republican nominee for governor, and Earle that the regular legislative sessions next January would be asked to provide $14,000,000 for relief as the state's share. An additional $6,000,000 was expected in profits from the state liquor stores. The plan died aborning when Earle declined to attend the New York conference. The governor later offered the plan as his own but it was rejected by Hopkins.

ALUMINUM COMPANY STRIKE IS SETTLED

Hunt, president of the Aluminum Company, flatly refused to grant employes any concessions while upholding the company's wage scale and treatment of its employes.

The strike on the whole was exceptionally peaceful. The company made no attempts to operate its plants. Picket lines were maintained and no violence of a serious nature took place while conferences seeking an agreement were underway.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 6.—Big business, represented by the Mellon controlled Aluminum Company of America, today recognized the principles of section 7-A of the national industrial recovery act and agreed to bargain collectively with its employes.

The agreement, which will exist for a six months' period, ended the month-old strike in the Aluminum industry and sounded the call that will send approximately 8,500 men and women back to work in six major aluminum plants throughout the country.

SIX ARE KILLED IN STRIKE RIOT AT COTTON MILL

were hurt in the battle, so far as could be learned.

All of the dead were pickets who formerly had been employed in the mill of the Chiquola Manufacturing company.

Pickets Bar Way

A group of approximately 250 pickets were gathered at the mill when the day shift arrived to go on duty. The pickets, armed with sticks and clubs, barred the way and brought their weapons into play.

Shooting and sporadic hand-to-hand fighting broke out immediately but the battle was short lived. The pickets gave way, retreating in disorder.

Eye-witnesses said the fighting began with a sudden fury which in an instant reached tornadoic proportions.

Finding their way blocked by the picket force, the loyal workers attempted to shove their way through the lines, and the pickets began wielding their clubs.

Instantly shooting broke out, and workers were locked in hand-to-hand fighting.

The deafening roar of shotgun explosions sounded amid the sharp reports of pistols. Men crouched, yelled and fought with blood streaming in their eyes.

Five Minute Battle

The battle, according to witnesses, lasted not more than five minutes, with members of the picket force breaking into a run to leave the scene.

But many were left lying on the ground, never to move again.

Others writhed in pain in pools of blood, and their cries added to the din of shouts and the diminishing sounds of battle.

Left in possession of the field of battle, the loyal workers began moving along the dead and wounded. Ambulances were summoned and the dead, dying and wounded were removed.

But no one, apparently, thought of work, and no effort was made to place the mill in operation.

Greenville, S. C., Sept. 6.—A striker was killed at the Dunean Mill this morning. Deputy Sheriff R. L. Putnam was arrested for the killing. He claimed self defense.

Augusta, Ga., Sept. 6.—Leon Carroll, strike picket shot by police in disorders here yesterday, died early today at a local hospital.

Will Hutto and Otis Candy, two other strikers shot during the same fighting, remained in grave condition.

The men were shot when officers attempting to quell rioting at the Enterprise Mill were attacked by pickets.

Porterdale, Ga., Sept. 6.—Three strikers were shot and two policemen injured today, when non-union workers clashed with pickets in front of the mills here.

Policemen who attempted to break up the fighting were attacked and retaliated by opening fire. The riot broke when the loyal workers attempted to enter the mills.

Mrs. Pinchot To Make Statement

HARRISBURG Sept. 6.—Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot wife of Pennsylvania's governor today said she would make a definite statement either placing her in the race as an independent candidate for governor or eliminating her entirely.

Petitions in behalf of Mrs. Pinchot are in circulation in several parts of the state. Five o'clock tomorrow afternoon is the deadline for filing them.

violence, declined to budge from their stand.

"Needless Sacrifice"

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

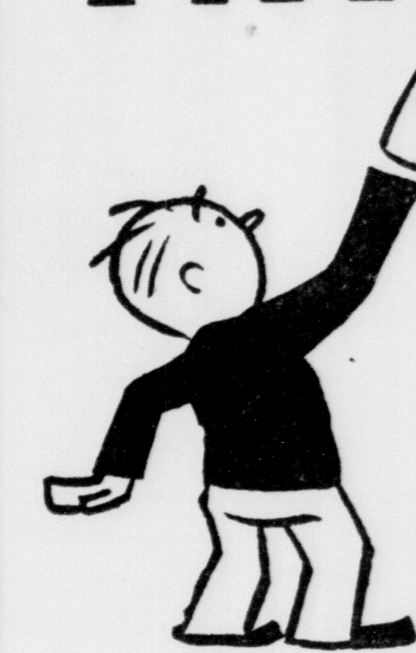

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. See at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

Republicans Get New Platform In Coming Campaign

Party nominees for state-wide offices and a committee of seven Republicans met here yesterday and agreed upon the platform.

Details of the platform were held secret pending the state committee meeting Saturday.

A vigorous assertion for home rule for county and state was considered certain to be one of the principal pledges in the platform which was expected to condemn certain phases of the "new deal" as an encroachment on constitutional liberties.

"Expect" should not be used for "suppose." Say "I suppose it's time for us to go," not "I expect it's time for us to go."

YOUNG FOLKS HAVE SCAVENGER HUNT

To celebrate their last evening of summer freedom before getting down to their studies again at Senior High, a certain group of twelve young couples were delightfully entertained Tuesday evening at a scavenger hunt by Miss Nedra Sergeant of Garfield avenue.

Gathering at the Sergeant home about 8 o'clock, the young people were given their instructions to secure a certain number of hard-to-find articles and the fun began.

Knowing that Fred L. Rentz is a busy man, three of the couples hunted around town until they found him, where they should have gone first, at his home, and nothing would do but he sign his name to a certain line.

With this treasure secured, the folks drove down town and routed a Chinaman out of bed and had him write a letter. Then they refreshed themselves with a chocolate coca cola (they said it was something new).

Later the various groups joined each other for an appetizing lunch at the Sergeant home where the hostess' mother, Mrs. J. C. Sergeant and her sister, Miss Mary Langford had plenty of appetizing food prepared.

Winners of the evening's prizes were awarded to Miss Mary Bowers, John Komarc, Martha Mae Shaffer, Nesbit Bleakley, Nedra Sergeant and William McKnight.

MEET THE MARTYR
SEE THAT WOMAN over there? I mean the pretty one with the wistful expression, with the drooping manner, with the sad eyes.

You say you'd like to meet her? She appeals to you? And you wish someone would introduce you?

I'll do it if you wish, but before I do I feel I ought to warn you.

She's a martyr. She has a talent for it. Somebody is always imposing on her, always laying heavy burdens on her frail shoulders. People are not fair to her. They ask her to do things they wouldn't ask of others. They seem to think that she can stand anything, forgive everything, endure any unfairness. It's her cross, she believes, and she patiently accepts the misfortunes that life imposes upon her.

You'll see. Talk to her a few minutes and you'll hear about her troubles. Your heart will swell with sympathy for her, with admiration for her patience and her courage. And you'll want to offer to help her. She'll sigh and refuse. And then you'll admire her sweet independence.

I'm cynical? I'm unfair? I should not have such thoughts, shouldn't say such things? . . . You may be right, perhaps I am what you say. But I'm convinced that she is a Born Martyr, and that she loves her martyrdom. She likes to carry those burdens, she likes to feel imposed upon. She may not know that, herself, but it is the truth. . . . Sometimes she reminds me of that bold gentleman of France who drew his sword in the public place, when Louis the Sixteenth was having his head cut off, drew it in the midst of a great crowd, and said, "Follow me who would save the king!" and was disarmed on the spot. . . . He could not save the king. He knew it was impossible. All he wished was martyrdom, and somehow you must encourage him for his valiant, foolish courage. . . . But our friend across the room is such a LITTLE martyr. She feeds on such small sacrifices. Her joys are so meager, her comfort is so ingrown and so deformed. She is such a traitor to all the bold, gallant, inspiring martyrs that make brilliant the history of our race, that she cannot weep for her in her troubles.

But still you wish to meet her, have an idea you may be able to help her. . . . Very well, I hope you can.

THINK OF YOUR NEIGHBOR
Do you permit your pets to damage the property of neighbors without exciting your anger to prevent damage or destruction on premises other than your own?

Certainly you have a right to pets; and whatever they do in your own yard is your own affair. But when they damage the property of others they become a menace to the neighborhood.

Some folks treat their pets as over-indulgent parents behave towards their children.

They do not attempt to restrain the pets from doing anything they desire to adjacent property, even when it is obvious the latter are doing damages!

It means expense and hard work to keep premises in good condition. It does not set well to spend money and time in getting everything as neat and attractive as possible, and then have the fruits of your own toil unnecessarily damaged.

Take effort and watchfulness to keep tame and pampered animals from encroaching upon adjacent property once they are allowed to run about.

But those who are not willing to keep their pets at home and, instead, allow them to roam the neighborhood, have no right to possess them. It is selfish for pet owners to ignore the damage that a lot of domestic animals can do if not well trained or restrained in some way.

We shall remember by and by The children's laughter and their song

And it may be that we shall sigh For coats to hang where they belong And toys to gather from the floor When evening comes to close the day.

For all these tasks will be no more When they have grown and gone away.

These countless little cares we do We'll greatly miss in years to be. We'll some day wish that they would strew Their things about so carelessly. The house will seem so still and neat That as we sit together then We'll wish their little muddy feet Would race about the place again.

When age has claimed them as it must And we shall sit at home alone You'll merely have the chairs to dust

And I to tend the telephone. We shall remember then that we Once picked up playthings here and there

And we shall long once more to see Their hats and coats upon a chair.

Many fine things have been said about soap and water; they even say "cleanliness is next to godliness." A Paradox Of Present Strikes "Leftists" May Be Forced In Will World Economic Issue Be Met?

By LESLIE E. HIEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Important events are likely to "clap out" of the present wave of strikes. Hitherto strongly conservative districts are likely to go "radical." And that for a paradoxical reason.

As conservative observers here see it, the forcing of the collective bargaining issue, the determination to seek an NRA show down immediately, the insistence of employers that the issue must be met at once, is developing such a strong opposition side that the Roosevelt administration will not lose power to conservatives or "reactionaries," but to "leftists" or radicals.

Calmer counsel has prevailed in the American Federation of Labor than among groups of manufacturers. Naturally, however, industrialists who see their regime jeopardized must make a stand somewhere along the battle line, or be forced into utter rout.

And workers who feel themselves slipping into an economic abyss also become desperate and fight for their lives.

It is a trying time.

CHIEF ISSUE

The chief issue in the present industrial turmoil is not, however, being met, economists here say.

In actuality the American trouble is economic more than it is social. It may be explained this:

Even if workers owned mills, they could not solve anything at the moment. Why?

There is a currency and trade war. Depreciation of currency really has cheapened labor while increasing costs. And the piling up of debt upon debt is likely to increase that ratio (and more trouble) than decrease it.

The fundamental problem, as economists see it, lies in a world agreement on trade and exchange—not merely a few reciprocal treaties.

If workers and industrialists alike struck for collective bargaining for trade and exchange, for a freer flow of that which creates wealth, then there would appear a possible solution.

As it is, strike or no strike, collective bargaining or no collective bargaining, social standards will fall rather than rise, for all that goes to make for the carrying on of life has been stopped by unnatural barriers against basic economic laws.

A large part of the Roosevelt administration realizes this, but fears to speak out. Why? Because they may be termed "internationalists" by both industrialists and workers. Yet the alternative is a literal industrial war.

OCEAN TONNAGE
Americans are coming face to face with another issue related to its economic life, but of which it knows little.

That is ship subsidy. The Americans as a whole are for an ample merchant marine.

But overproduction of ships since the World War has created as much havoc on the ocean as overproduction in factories. And all that overproduction has been caused not by profits (there have been none) but by a desire of each nation to have a large fleet on the high seas. An ocean mail investigation, to be made by congress, may show, too, that shipbuilders and promoters have been largely influential and have gained the bulk of the millions granted, with wholly demoralizing results.

Aside from all that, however, the question now arises, shall there be a world congress to take up the matter of shipping? It is not, can the center stand the strain of the enormous subsidies to ship operators?

The New York Times, close to the Roosevelt administration, hints that an exchange of views with Great Britain and other maritime powers would be desirable.

The Times adds: "Such a discussion might at least illuminate the fundamental inconsistency of encouraging on the one hand the development of larger merchant marines and prohibiting on the other hand the international trade which they are designed to carry."

That is the nub of the question—why build ships if all trade is shut out?

Warships are more pertinent then—and the United States is spending 300 million or so on warships (more than ever previously in peace time history).

Trade wars are the genesis of actual conflicts.

WHAT TO TAX?
William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, "started something" when he suggested a tax on all vacant property in New York City rather than a tax on business to raise money for relief.

Except that he didn't start it. Henry George advocated that 75 years ago in "Progress and Poverty."

Henry George pointed out that taxes on production and productive efforts simply killed the goose that laid the golden egg and brought about no distribution of wealth.

He urged to tax on the idle investment—and not to tax, for example, as bringing into productive use wealth lying fallow.

Green believes, as did Henry George before him, that rentals would drop and that unoccupied buildings and apartments would be taken again, and that in addition to providing a tax the idea would bring about the distribution of income so essential to recovery.

To quote Green's beliefs: "If reduction of rentals on unoccupied properties were forced by a tax, Green believed families thrown together by excessively high rentals would move apart again. Many small businesses, he said, had been unable to come out of the depression because of high store rentals while many shops in the city stand vacant."

"He did not think that rentals on buildings already occupied would have to be reduced as a result of the penalty plan, since most are already under contract. He believed that rentals on stores, apartments and houses now occupied could later be increased as their new occupants pulled themselves out of depression difficulties."

Green also is said to believe in a tax on working wives if the wife receives more than $30 a week. That's something more to think about.

"Do you mean it's new news?" asked the city editor.

"Yes," replied Bismarck, "new news about the new gun."

"But all news is new."

"Oh, we have some old guns here, but I want to give you some new gun news about the new gun that our old guns have."

"Will you please," pleaded the city editor, "write it and send it in?"

Bismarck did and he noted said: "I was trying to give you some gun news about our two old guns that have a baby gun. Both the old gun and the new gun are doing very well."

"THE BEST LAID PLANS"—ETC.

NOW that Congress has given the administration power to negotiate trade and tariff agreements with other nations for the stated purpose of increasing our agricultural exports in return for greater imports from other nations, it begins to appear that there may not be so many farm commodities to export as we had figured on.

It was stated at Washington the other day that there will be no wheat exports this year because the drouth has arranged things so that we will need all our wheat at home. Thus the back-breaking surplus which the politicians talked about this year has been wiped out in a few weeks by the best crop regulator the world has ever known, Dame Nature.

The statement on our lack of export wheat was issued after words reached Washington that the World Wheat Advisory Committee, which has been attempting to regulate world wheat production, had allotted Uncle Sam an export permit of 100,000,000 bushels.

It is estimated that this year's crop with the carryover from previous years will amount to about 780,000,000 bushels. After the requirements for domestic consumption, seed, livestock feed, etc., are filled it is estimated that there will only be a carryover of something like 80,000,000 bushels into next year. The Agricultural Department states that it would be unsafe to reduce our carryover any lower than that, so that we couldn't safely export even a million bushels.

A few months ago we were told that our export markets were lost because the rest of the world didn't want our wheat. Now it is said they are lost because we haven't any wheat to export. At any rate we won't have to make any tariff agreements to get rid of our grain, for the time being at any rate. All of which goes to prove there are many things in this world which cannot be figured out in advance on the collegiate blackboards of the nation.

A FORTRESS OF PEACE

That the long border between the United States and Canada has been unfortified since the Rush-Bagot treaty was negotiated 117 years ago, and that in all that time there has been no breach of the peace, is an international situation of more than common interest, to which a parallel would be hard to find.

The dedication on Tuesday of old Fort Niagara was a fitting commemoration of this remarkable record of amity. There was bloody fighting for its possession between British and French, and later between English and Americans, to say nothing of the Indians; for the place was the key to the Northwest. The fort has now been restored after years of decay as a peace memorial, and at the celebration French, English and American flags appropriately floated over it.

The chief speaker was Secretary Dern, who reviewed at length the history of the years of conflict. He spoke of "Of old, unhappy, far-off things And battles long ago."

as swelling prologues to the imperial theme of lasting peace. The war of 1812 was the last occasion when the clash of arms was heard at Niagara. No differences between the English and French speaking peoples of what is now a populous territory have had to be settled by force. It is a striking illustration of the value of disarmament, removing a temptation which otherwise might have proved irresistible.

WINTER WORK FOR MILLIONS

Perhaps the most important task confronting the government at Washington just now is that of providing relief in the way of employment for the coming winter. All the predictions about private industry taking up the slack during the past six months have not been realized due to the lack of confidence on the part of business or what the policy of the administration will be—whether more experiments are to be tried or whether those which have proven to be failures are to be dropped. There is, however, the necessity of meeting the unemployment situation immediately. Last fall some 4,000,000 workers were employed on the Civil Works jobs.

The government can go on and on spending money for direct relief but this will not help the situation. Constructive employment of some kind will be better than direct relief even though the taxpayers may in the end be forced to pay just as much in additional taxes. Already the federal government is proposing that the states assume a larger share of the relief expense while each local unit of government is insisting that many of the local burdens of taxation be assumed by the state.

No one who has even a meager conception of the relief problem and of the clamor for reduction of taxes, will envy the job of the state legislators who will be forced to find new and many methods for getting additional revenues.

OF DOUBTFUL VALUE

In an effort to curb reckless driving, New Jersey is preparing to try a plan somewhat similar to one which Ohio experimented with a few years ago.

Ohio authorities erected a wooden cross along the roadside at every spot where an automobile fatality had occurred. New Jersey is to paint white crosses on the road where accidents have occurred.

The Ohio plan apparently failed in its purpose of increasing careful driving, as it was abandoned. It is doubtful if the New Jersey plan will prove more successful.

Confirmed reckless drivers need more than mere reminders of danger to make them less reckless. The experienced careful motorist usually knows without being told when he encounters conditions that are dangerous, and acts accordingly.

Middle class: Anybody poor enough to need help and too proud to say so.

If you think charity the champion coverer of sins, observe a mandate from the people.

No danger of Fascism in America. There aren't jails enough to hold all those who would feel smarter than the dictator.

Happy thought! Persuade cannot fodder to organize and then they'll strike for something or other whenever they're needed.

Many fine things have been said about soap and water; they even say "cleanliness is next to godliness." But it remained for an eighth grade pupil, in the Portage Township School in Ottawa county, Ohio, to tell us some of the benefits of soap and water. In her school paper on the subject, according to the Ohio Health News, Betty Rupp wrote:

"Have you ever thought of how much you owe to soap and water? Nature has given us water and man has supplied soap to give us health and happiness. A freshly washed line of clothes hung out in the sun-shine makes a picture. A freshly bathed baby in sweet-smelling clothes is like a poem.

A Paradox Of Present Strikes
"Leftists" May Be Forced In
Will World Economic Issue Be Met?By LESLIE E. HEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Important events are likely to "clap out" of the present wave of strikes. Hitherto strongly conservative districts are likely to go "radical." And that for a paradoxical reason.

As conservative observers here see it, the forcing of the collective bargaining issue, the determination to seek an NRA show down immediately, the insistence of employers that the issue must be met at once, is developing such a strong opposition side that the Roosevelt administration will not lose power to conservatives, or "reactionaries," but to "leftists" or radicals.

Calmer counsel has prevailed in the American Federation of Labor than among groups of manufacturers. Naturally, however, industrialists who see their regime jeopardized must make a stand somewhere along the battle line, or be forced into utter route.

And workers who feel themselves slipping into an economic abyss also become desperate and fight for their lives.

It is a trying time.

The chief issue in the present industrial turmoil is not, however, being met, economists here say.

In actuality, the American trouble is economic more than it is social. It may be explained this:

Even if workers owned mills, they could not solve anything at the moment. Why?

There is a currency and trade war. Depreciation of currency really has cheapened labor while increasing costs. And the piling up of debt upon debt is likely to increase that ratio (and more trouble) than decrease it.

The fundamental problem, as economists see it, lies in a world agreement on trade and exchange—not merely a few reciprocal treaties.

If workers and industrialists alike struggle for collective bargaining for trade and exchange, for a freer flow of that which creates wealth, then there would appear a possible solution.

As it is, strike or no strike, collective bargaining or no collective bargaining, social standards will fall rather than rise, for all that goes to make for the carrying on of life has been stopped by unnatural barriers against basic economic laws.

A large part of the Roosevelt administration realizes this, but fears to speak out. Why? Because they may be termed "internationalists" by both industrialists and workers. Yet the alternative is a literal industrial war.

TODAY Is The Day

By CLARK KINNAIRD Copyright 1934 Central Press

THURSDAY, SEPT. 6

The World War Day-By-Day—September 6, 1914—It was the anniversary of the battle of Denmark, when allied Prussians, Russians and Swedes under Gen. Von Bulow defeated French.

Again a Von Bulow was facing the French. He was on Von Kluck's left when Maunoury began his attack on the latter's flank on the 5th. The blow caused a crack in a weak joint of the German line, and as Liddell Hart puts it, the penetration of this physical crack in turn produced a moral crack in the German command.

As Maunoury's pressure developed on the German left wing, Von Kluck had to draw off first one part and then the remainder of his army south of the Marne to support his flank guard. Thereby a 30-mile gap was created between Von Bulow's armies, a gap covered only by a screen of cavalry.

Von Kluck was emboldened to take the risk because of the still unchecked retreat of the British, who had their backs to this gaping sector. The French on either side of them were turning in the opposite direction, but the British were still headed south! In this strange state of affairs, lay the unintentional cause of victory, as we shall see later on.

On the evening of the 6th it looks as if the British failure will enable Von Kluck to crass the effects of his blunder. He perceives the indecision of Field Marshal French and withdraws his troops from in front of the English, leaving only cavalry to hold off any attack they might make if they ended their retreat and turned. With the troops thus withdrawn, he launched a counter-attack against Maunoury.

He does not get from these troops the response he expected. Many who had strode so arrogantly toward Paris are now running away. One of them tells us, in a contemporary account:

"It was dark, and it rained. From all directions we heard in the darkness the wounded calling, crying and moaning. The wounded we had with us were likewise moaning and crying. We tore off pieces of our dirty shirts and placed the rags on their sickening wounds. Men were dying one after the other. There were no doctors, no bandages. You had to help the wounded and keep off the French at the same time. It was an unbearable, impossible state of things. It rained hard and harder. We were wet to our skins. We fired blindly into the darkness. The rolling fire of rifles increased, then died away, then increased again.

MEET THE MARTYR

SEE THAT WOMAN over there? I mean the pretty one with the wistful expression, with the drooping manner, with the sad eyes.

You say you'd like to meet her? She appeals to you? And you wish someone would introduce you? I'll do it if you wish, but before I do I feel I ought to warn you.

She's a martyr. She has a talent for it. Somebody is always imposing on her, always laying heavy burdens on her frail shoulders. People are not fair to her. They ask her to do things they wouldn't ask of others. They seem to think that she can stand anything, forgive everything, endure any unfairness. It's her cross, she believes, and she patiently accepts the misfortunes that life imposes upon her.

You'll see. Talk to her a few minutes and you'll hear about her troubles. Your heart will swell with sympathy for her, with admiration for her patience and her courage.

And you'll want to offer to help her. She'll sigh and refuse. And then you'll admire her sweet independence.

I'm cynical? I'm unfair? I should not have such thoughts, shouldn't I say such things? You may be right, perhaps I am what you say.

But I'm convinced that she is a born martyr, and that she loves her martyrdom. She likes to carry those burdens, she likes to feel imposed upon. She may not know that, herself, but it is the truth.

Sometimes she reminds me of that bold gentleman of France who drew his sword in the public place, when Louis the Sixteenth was having his head cut off, drew it in the midst of a great crowd, and said, "Follow me who would save the king!" and was disarmed on the spot.

He could not save the king. He knew it was impossible. All he wished was martyrdom, and somehow you must admire him for his valiant, foolish courage.

But our friend across the room is such a LITTLE martyr. She feeds on such small sacrifices.

Her joys are so meager, her comfort is so ingrown and so deformed. She is such a traitor to all the bold, gallant, inspiring martyrs that make brilliant the history of our race, that I cannot weep for her in her troubles.

But still you wish to meet her, have an idea you may be able to help her. Very well, I hope you can.

THINK OF YOUR NEIGHBOR

Do you permit your pets to damage the property of neighbors without exerting your power to prevent damage or destruction on premises other than your own?

Some folks treat their pets as over-privileged pets, behave towards their children.

They do not attempt to restrain the pets from doing anything they desire to adjacent property, even when it is obvious the latter are doing damages!

It means expense and hard work to keep premises in good condition. It does not set well to spend money and time in getting everything as neat and attractive as possible, and then have the fruits of your own toil unnecessarily damaged.

It takes effort and watchfulness to keep neat and pampered animals from encroaching upon adjacent property, once they are allowed to run about.

It is selfish for pet owners to ignore the damage that a lot of domestic animals can do if not well trained or restrained in some way.

IN JUST A FEW YEARS

We shall remember ay and by The children's laughter and their song

And it may be that we shall sigh For come to hang where they belong

And toys to gather from the floor When evening comes to close the day

For all these tasks will be no more When they have grown and gone away

These countless little cares we do We'll greatly miss in years to be. We'll some day wish that they would strew

Their things about so carelessly. Their house will seem so still and neat That as we sit together then We'll wish their little muddy feet Would race about the place again.

When age has claimed them as it must And we shall sit at home alone You'll merely have the chairs to dust

And I to tend the telephone. We shall remember then that we Once picked up playthings here and there

A Paradox Of Present Strikes
"Leftists" May Be Forced In
Will World Economic Issue Be Met?

By LESLIE E. JIEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Important events are likely to "blow out" of the present wave of strikes. Hitherto strongly conservative districts are likely to go "radical." And that for a paradoxical reason.

As conservative observers here see it, the forcing of the collective bargaining issue, the determination to seek an NRA show down immediately, the insistence of employers that the issue must be met at once, is developing such a strong opposition side that the Roosevelt administration will not lose power to conservatives, or "reactionaries," but to "leftists" or radicals.

Calmer counsel has prevailed in the American Federation of Labor than among groups of manufacturers. Naturally, however, industrialists who see their regime jeopardized must make a stand somewhere along the battle line, or be forced into utter rout.

And workers who feel themselves slipping into an economic abyss also become desperate and fight for their lives.

It is a trying time.

The chief issue in the present industrial turmoil is not, however, being met, economists here say.

In actuality, the American trouble is economic more than it is social. It may be explained thus:

Even if workers owned mills, they could not solve anything at the moment. Why?

There is a currency and trade war. Depreciation of currency really has cheapened labor while increasing costs. And the piling up of debt upon debt is likely to increase that ratio (and more trouble) than decrease it.

The fundamental problem, as economists see it, lies in a world agreement on trade and exchange—not merely a few reciprocal treaties.

If workers and industrialists alike struck for collective bargaining for trade and exchange, for a free flow of that which creates wealth, then there would appear a possible solution.

As it is, strike or no strike, collective bargaining or no collective bargaining, social standards will fall rather than rise for all that goes to make for the carrying on of life has been estopped by unnatural barriers against basic economic laws.

A large part of the Roosevelt administration realizes this, but fears to speak out. Why? Because they are being "bored" by industrialists by both industrialists and workers. Yet the alternative is a literal industrial war.

OCEAN TONNAGE

Americans are coming face to face with another issue related to its economic life, but of which it knows little.

That is ship subsidy.

The Americans as a whole are for an ample merchant marine.

But overproduction of ships since the World War has created as much havoc on the ocean as overproduction in factories. And all that overproduction has been caused not by profits, there have been none, but by a desire of each nation to have a large fleet on the high seas. "An ocean mail investigation, to be made by congress, may show, too, that shipbuilders and promoters have gained the bulk of the millions granted, with wholly demoralizing results."

Aside from all that, however, the question now arises: Shall there be a world congress to take up the matter of shipping? If not, can the countries stand the strain of the enormous subsidies to ship operators?

The New York Times, close to the Roosevelt administration, hints that an exchange of views with Great Britain and other maritime powers would be desirable.

"Such a discussion might at least illuminate the fundamental inconsistency of encouraging on the one hand the development of larger merchant marines and prohibiting on the other hand the international trade which they are designed to carry."

That is the nub of the question—why build ships if all trade is shut out?

Warships are more pertinent than—and the United States is spending 300 million or so on warships more than ever previously in peace time history.

Trade wars are the ponies of actual conflicts.

WHAT TO TAX?

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, "started something" when he suggested a tax on all vacant property in New York City rather than a tax on business to raise money for relief.

Except that he didn't start it. Henry George advocated that 75 years ago in "Progress and Poverty."

Henry George pointed out that taxes on production and productive efforts simply killed the goose that laid the golden egg and brought about no distribution of wealth.

Green's tax on the idle investment—land not in use, for example, as trapping into productive use wealth lying fallow.

Green believed, as did Henry George before him, that rentals would drop and that unoccupied buildings and apartments would be taken again, and that in addition to providing a tax, the idea would bring about the distribution of income so essential to recovery.

To quote Green's beliefs: "If reduction of rentals on unoccupied property was forced by a tax, Green believed families thrown together by excessively high rentals would move apart again. Many small businesses, he said, had been unable to continue or to be started because of the high store rentals while many shops in the city stand vacant."

"He did not think that rentals on buildings already occupied would have to be reduced as a result of the penalty plan, since most are already under contract. He believed that rentals on stores, apartments and houses now occupied could later be increased as their new occupants pulled themselves out of depression difficulties."

THURSDAY, SEPT. 6

The World War Day-By-Day—September 6, 1914—It was the anniversary of the battle of Demewitz, where allied Prussians, Russians and Swedes under Gen. Von Bulow defeated French.

Again a Von Bulow was facing the French. He was on Von Kluck's left when Maunoury began his attack on the latter's flank on the 5th. The blow caused a crack in a weak joint of the German line, and as Liddell Hart puts it, the penetration of this physical crack in turn produced a moral crack in the German command.

As Maunoury's pressure developed on the German left wing, Von Kluck had to draw off first one part and then the remainder of his army south of the Marne to support his flank guard. Thereby a 30-mile gap was created between Von Bulow's armies, a gap covered only by a screen of cavalry.

Von Kluck was emboldened to take the risk because of the still unchecked retreat of the British, who had their back to this gaping sector. The French on either side of them were turning in the opposite direction, but the British were still headed south! In this strange state of affairs, lay the unintentional cause of victory, as we shall see later on.

On the evening of the 6th it looks as if the British failure will enable Von Kluck to crass the effects of his blunder. He perceives the indecision of Field Marshal French and withdraws his troops from in front of the English, leaving only cavalry to hold off any attack they might make if they ended their retreat and turned. With the troops thus withdrawn, he launched a counter-attack against Maunoury.

On the evening of the 6th it looks as if the British failure will enable Von Kluck to crass the effects of his blunder. He perceives the indecision of Field Marshal French and withdraws his troops from in front of the English, leaving only cavalry to hold off any attack they might make if they ended their retreat and turned. With the troops thus withdrawn, he launched a counter-attack against Maunoury.

He does not get from these troops the response he expected. Many who had strode so arrogantly toward Paris are now running away. One of them tells us, in a contemporary account:

"It was dark, and it rained. From all directions one heard in the darkness the wounded calling, crying and moaning. The wounded we had with us were likewise moaning and crying. We took off pieces of our dirty shirts and placed the rags on their sickening wounds. Men were dying one after the other. There were no doctors, no bandages. You had to help the wounded and keep off the French at the same time. It was an unbearable, impossible state of things. It rained harder and harder. We were wet to our skins. We fired blindly into the darkness. The rolling fire of rifles increased, then died away, then increased again."

It's GNU.

When a baby, gnu was born in the San Francisco Zoo, George Eastman, the supreme deity, called upon the city editor of a San Francisco paper to report it. The city editor understood Eastman to say: "We have some news about the news."

"Do you mean it's new news?" asked the city editor.

"Yes," replied Eastman, "new news about the new gnu."

"But all news is new."

"Oh, we have one old gnu here, but I want to give you some new gnu news about the new gnu that our old gnu have."

"Will you please" pleaded the city editor, "write it and send it up?"

For good digestion

—There is nothing that can take the place of your own digestive secretions. Frequently, poor digestion is due to lack of tone in the stomach walls—because of low blood strength. S.S.S., the great, scientifically-tested medicine, is specially designed to fill a two-fold purpose in this respect... it aids in stimulating the flow of natural stomach secretions... and by building up deficient red corpuscles, with their hemo-globin, it restores to a more normal functioning the secretions of the stomach digestive juices... so necessary for good digestion. Property Owners Must Fix Spouts

City Engineer To Instruct Property Owners On Making Repairs

The city street department has about finished resurfacing a number of streets and alleys in the city which are greatly traveled. It has been a difficult job to get this work done in a satisfactory manner owing to the very rough and uneven surface on most of them.

However, it has greatly improved traveling conditions on these thoroughfares, and is therefore a matter of comfort for both drivers and pedestrians, and will also prove to be economical, as the work could not have been delayed longer than next spring at most, when street conditions would undoubtedly have been much worse.

The vital question now is taking care of the rush of water from roofs along the resurfaced places, according to the officials in many instances spouting is several feet above the street or alley; and with a heavy rainfall the flow of water from these elevations must necessarily damage and eventually destroy the resurfacing material, thereby causing the owners of these properties (and all others as well) replacement costs, which mean additional taxes.

In order to prevent this situation owners or tenants will shortly receive notice from Robert White, city solicitor, stating that these changes must be made; and from Mr. Hoskins, city engineer, telling of the easiest and best plan to have them made.

To keep lemons plump put them in a jar. Tighten the cover and they will keep for a long time.

JUVENILE LODGE PLANS FOR PICNIC

The Young Progressives, juvenile lodge order Sons of Italy, held their regular monthly meeting in King Humbert hall, Division street, on Tuesday night.

President Rodgers Pezzone introduced a plan whereby Italian lessons will be taught during the regular meetings.

WASH TAM THIS WAY

A good way to wash tams without shrinking or getting out of shape is to take a china plate the size of tam when dry. Wash tam in suds, rinse in lukewarm water, squeeze some of the moisture out of tam. Then put china plate inside of tam and pull the outer edge of tam smooth. Dry in a warm place with the plate inside.

For good digestion

—there is nothing that can take the place of your own gastric digestive secretions. Frequently, poor digestion is due to lack of tone in the stomach walls—because of low blood strength. S.S.S., the great, scientifically-tested medicine, is specially designed to fill a two-fold purpose in this respect... it aids in stimulating the flow of natural stomach secretions... and by building up deficient red corpuscles, with their hemoglobin, it restores to a more normal functioning the secretions of the stomach digestive juices... so necessary for good digestion. This double value of S.S.S. is important.

By all means try S.S.S. for better health and more happiness. Its benefits are progressive... accumulative... and enduring. Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of digesting food and good digestion... sound sleep... and renewed strength. This is why many say "S.S.S. makes you feel like yourself again."

Do not be misled by the efforts of a few unscrupulous dealers who may suggest that S.S.S. be supplied you on request. In long years of preference, we have a right to your guarantee of satisfaction.

"My neighbor gave me a dig in the ribs. I say," he called out.

"What do you want?" I asked.

"They'll soon come again, those over there; then there'll be fine fun again. Do you hear the others cry?"

"He laughed. Suddenly he began again: 'I always shoot at those who until they leave off crying—that's great fun.'"

"Again he laughed, that time more shrilly than before.

"I knew what was the matter. He had become insane."

Great Days—Sept. 6, 1922—The Victoria sailed into the Quadaquivir and up to Seville with her Captain Sebastian Elcano, the Chevalier Antonio Pigafetta, and 16 others, the first ship that ever made the voyage around the world.

There were five ships and 279 Spaniards, French, Portuguese, Genoese, Sicilians, over Flemings, Greeks, Germans, Africans and Malays and one Englishman when the expedition sailed away from Spain 14 days less than three years before under the command of the ill-fated Ferdinand Magellan.

The first ship to go around the world was 85 tons, and had been declared unseaworthy by a spy of the jealous king of Portugal who inspected it before it sailed!

September 6, 1901—At 4 o'clock in the afternoon smoke and fire burst from the pistol under the bandaged hand of Leon Czolgosz. President William McKinley, one of 100,000 visitors to the Buffalo, Pan-American Exposition, staggered and fell.

As his companions struck at his assailant, he cried, "Don't let them hurt him!"

Eight days later he was dead. Czolgosz would have been, too, if young James Valley, chief of detectives at the exposition, hadn't risked his life to take him away from a mob.

Thereafter, a constant guard of secret service men was set over presidents and presidential nominees. Until then no president had been guarded except in war.

McKinley's successor—Theodore Roosevelt—was the hardest president to guard, because of his active, democratic habits.

September 6, 1908—The world got the first news of the discovery of the North Pole—exactly five months later! Not until he reached Indian Head, Labrador, where there was a wireless station, was Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, U. S. N., able to tell the world that he had reached the Pole on April 6.

September 6, 1918—The first long distance air mail flight was made when Pilot Max Miller sat his plane down in Grant Park, Chicago, 23 hours, 47 minutes after he left New York. His time was slower than a train's.

The air mail can cross the entire continent in two-thirds that time now. The other day the writer traveled between New York and Chicago in one of the regular TWA planes in three hours, 15 minutes.

Notable Nativities—Marie Joseph Paul Roch Yves Gilbert Motier, Marquis de Lafayette, b. 1757. He was married at 16 (to a bride of 13), became an officer in the French army at 17, a major-general in the U. S. army at 20.

Jane Addams, b. 1860, world famous Chicago settlement worker and international peace advocate, regarded by many as America's greatest woman.  Henry Seidel Canby, b. 1878, editor and author.  Arthur Train, b. 1875, lawyer-author, creator of Tull and Mr. Tutt.  Julian Green, b. 1900, French-born son of Virginia parents, who writes novels in French, has to have them translated into English.

First Of All—The first life-saving stations in the United States were established by the Massachusetts Humane society, more than 50 years before the government began the operation of such stations. The first stations were at Nantasket and Lovell's Island. They were carried on with private funds until the government recognized their necessity in 1847.

HOOVER CALLS ON CITIES FOR RELIEF

Wins Ovation From Community Chest Workers As He Opens Drive

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 6.—Former President Herbert Hoover was given a rousing reception Wednesday when he addressed a capacity crowd in the Biltmore hotel here and discussed problems of the Community Chest movement. He remained silent on political matters.

This was Mr. Hoover's first public address here since he left the White House.

In opening the Los Angeles Community Chest's annual drive for funds, Mr. Hoover's nearest inference of a political nature was his opening words.

"In these days when so many think to rid humanity of its faults by discard, also, of its hard-won virtues," said the former president, "it is strengthening to see this great group intent upon resolute organization to maintain the high virtue of charity."

"These are times," he continued, "when the need is greater and when giving is more difficult. They are the years of a great test."

"Relief to others is a spiritual impulse and your labors are the spiritual expression of the community. These are indeed the actions which bring the brotherhood of man infinitely nearer to realization than a thousand-fold greater sum extracted by the tax collector."

"The true hope of progress lies in the spiritual unponderables. No civilization can stand which disregards them," he concluded.

Strikers Make Demonstrations

Mass Drive Is Launched By Pickets In Paterson, New Jersey

(International News Service)

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 6.—One of the greatest mass demonstrations of pickets in this city's history began today as striking silk weavers launched an intensive drive to induce more than 20,000 workers in the silk industry to join the big textile walkout.

While police patrolled the strike sectors vigilantly, flying squads of pickets made the rounds of factories concentrating for the moment on the 5,000 silk "throwsters" who remain at work.

Meanwhile union leaders here eagerly awaited word from strike headquarters in Washington that the 15,000 dyers and finishers in the Passaic Valley had been ordered to walk out.

WARREN, R. I., Sept. 6.—A "flying squadron" group of 200 textile strike pickets and their sympathizers from Fall River invaded Warren today and staged a noisy demonstration in front of the Parker Mill as a force of 800 workers filed through the gates.

The visitors were repelled by a tear gas bomb hurled by local police and returned to Fall River.

This was the only untoward incident reported along the New England textile front today.

"Again he laughed, that time more shrilly than before."

"I knew what was the matter. He had become insane."

Great Days—Sept. 6, 1922—The Victoria sailed into the Quadalquivir and up to Seville with her Captain Sebastian Elcano, the Chevalier Antonio Pigafetta, and 16 others, the first ship that ever made the voyage around the world.

There were five ships and 279 Spaniards, French, Portuguese, Genoese, Sicilians, Flemings, Greeks, Germans, Africans and Malays and one Englishman when the expedition sailed away from Spain 14 days less than three years before under the command of the ill-fated Ferdinand Magellan.

The first ship to go around the world was 85 tons, and had been declared unseaworthy by a spy of the jealous king of Portugal who insisted it before it sailed!

September 6, 1901—At 6 o'clock in the afternoon smoke and fire burst from the pistol under the bandaged hand of Leon Czolgosz. President William McKinley, one of 100,000 visitors to the Buffalo, Pan-American Exposition, staggered and fell. As his companions struck at his assailant, he cried, "Don't let them hurt him!"

Eight days later he was dead. Czolgosz would have been, too, if young James Valley, chief of detectives at the exposition, hadn't risked his life to take him away from a mob.

Thereafter, a constant guard of secret service men was set over presidents and presidential nominees. Until then no president had been guarded except in war.

McKinley's successor—Theodore Roosevelt—was the hardest president to guard, because of his active, democratic habits.

September 6, 1909—The world got the first news of the discovery of the North Pole—exactly five months later! Not until he reached Indian Head, Labrador, where there was a wireless station, was Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, U. S. N., able to tell the world that he had reached the Pole on April 6.

September 6, 1918—The first long distance air mail flight was completed when Pilot Max Miller set his plane down in Grant Park, Chicago, 23 hours, 47 minutes after he left New York. His time was slower than a train's.

The air mail can cross the entire continent in two-thirds that time now. The other day the writer traveled between New York and Chicago in one of the regular TWA planes in three hours, 15 minutes.)

Notable Nativities—Marie Joseph Paul Roch Yves Gilbert Motier, Marquis de Lafayette, b. 1757. He was married at 16 (to a bride of 13), became an officer in the French army at 17, a major-general in the U. S. army at 20.

Jane Addams, b. 1860, world famous Chicago settlement worker and international peace advocate, regarded by many as America's greatest woman.  Henry Seidel Canby, b. 1878, editor and author.  Arthur Train, b. 1875, lawyer-author, creator of Tull and Mr. Tull.  Julian Green, b. 1900, French-born son of Virginia parents, who writes novels in French and has to have them translated into English.

First Of All—The first life-saving stations in the United States were established by the Massachusetts Humane society, more than 50 years before the government began the operation of such stations. The first stations were at Nantasket and Lovell's Island. They were carried on with private funds until the government recognized their necessity in 1847.

HOOVER CALLS ON CITIES FOR RELIEF

Wins Ovation From Community Chest Workers As He Opens Drive

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 6.—Former President Herbert Hoover was given a rousing reception Wednesday when he addressed a capacity crowd in the Biltmore hotel here and discussed problems of the Community Chest movement. He remained silent on political matters.

This was Mr. Hoover's first public address here since he left the White House.

In opening the Los Angeles Community Chest's annual drive for funds, Mr. Hoover's nearest inference of a political nature were his opening words.

"In these days when so many think to rid humanity of its faults by discard, also, of its hard-won virtues," said the former president, "it is strengthening to see this great group intent upon resolute organization to maintain the high virtue of charity."

"These are times," he continued, "when the need is greater and when giving is more difficult. They are the years of a great test."

"Relief to others is a spiritual impulse and your labors are the spiritual expression of the community. These are indeed the actions which bring the brotherhood of man infinitely nearer to realization than a thousand-fold greater sum extracted by the tax collector."

"The true hope of progress lies in the spiritual imperativeness. No civilization can stand which disregards them," he concluded.

(International News Service)

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 6.—One of the greatest mass demonstrations of pickets in this city's history began today as striking silk weavers launched an intensive drive to induce more than 20,000 workers in the silk industry to join the big textile walkout.

While police patrolled the strike sectors vigilantly, flying squads of pickets made the rounds of factories concentrating for the moment on the 5,000 silk "throwsters" who remain at work.

Meanwhile union leaders here eagerly awaited word from strike headquarters in Washington that the 15,000 dyers and finishers in the Passaic Valley had been ordered to walk out.

WARREN, R. I., Sept. 6.—A "flying squadron" group of 200 textile strike pickets and their sympathizers from Fall River invaded Warren today and staged a noisy demonstration in front of the Parker Mill as a force of 800 workers filed through the gates.

The visitors were repelled by a tear gas bomb hurled by local police and returned to Fall River.

Renew Interest In Movement For Recovery Here

New Castle Has Distinction
Of Being One Of Foremost
Backing NRA

BE DISPLAYED SOON

New Castle and Lawrence county, through the excellent cooperation of the vast number in wholehearted support of the NRA, has won the distinction of being one of the foremost, if not the very leading communities, of the United States in responding to the assistance given the NRA.

Through the excellent work of the Women's Clubs, schools, Chamber of Commerce, Service Clubs and all other community agencies, a higher percentage of signatures of the Consumers' League were obtained in New Castle and Lawrence County than in any other area of similar population in the United States.

The Lawrence County Compliance Board under the able direction of Fred L. Rentz and the New Castle Compliance Board under the able direction of Marcus Feuchtwanger are credited with having done probably the most outstanding service in administration of NRA in the United States.

New Castle and the community is now sponsoring a campaign of further cooperation with the NRA under the direction of Marcus Feuchtwanger, general chairman; S. DeGraff Pearson, chairman of the speakers division; and George F. Winter, chairman of publicity.

It is believed that New Castle will be the first city in the United States to sponsor such a movement of renewed interest. New Code Compliance Blue Eagle posters will be distributed to those having the present Code Blue Eagle of the NRA in their possession, within the next few days.

These posters have been prepared by the National Recovery Administration to encourage the conspicuous display of the Blue Eagle, and will be available only to those operating under NRA codes and possessing the Code Blue Eagles. These posters, designed by Charles Colner, who sketched the original Blue Eagle, lend themselves particularly to attractive window advertising displays.

They show the Blue Eagle, representative against a background of red, white, and blue, with the legend, "We operate under an approved code and display the Blue Eagle as a symbol of cooperation."

Charges Earle Uses Relief For Political Ends

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—George H. Earle, Democratic candidate for governor and a polo enthusiast, today stood accused by Attorney General William A. Schnader, his Republican opponent, of "seeking to make a political polo ball of relief."

Digressing from a prepared radio address last night, in which he urged Pennsylvanians to register for this fall's primary, Schnader reiterated his charge that Pennsylvania was being discriminated against in the distribution of federal relief funds.

He charged Earle's refusal to attend the bi-partisan meeting with Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, in New York City last Friday, was based on political reasons.

State Line Road As Relief Project

Mahoning And Lawrence County Commissioners Discuss
Project This Morning

County Commissioners of Mahoning county, O., called upon the local county commissioners this forenoon to enlist their co-operation in improving the state line road, leading from Petersburg to Bessemer. The plan of the Mahoning county commissioners was to have the work done as a relief project. Arrangements have already been made to take care of that section of the road which lies in Ohio as a relief project, but it was pointed out that it is not desirable to improve only one part of the road.

The road is used considerably by school buses and as a mail route and gets bad in the winter. The local commissioners called George Mudhart, head of the local relief work division to see what arrangements could be made for including the road in the work program. It is believed that arrangements can be made to do the work with relief labor, and the expense for materials kept to a minimum. The road has heretofore been kept up by Lawrence and Mahoning counties. Local commissioners will give the Mahoning commissioners a definite answer within a few days.

PINCHOT DELAYS ISSUING CALL

Formal Call For Legislature
May Be Withheld To Monday

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—The formal proclamation covering the legislature into special session for Wednesday noon and outlining subjects it can consider may not be issued until Monday, according to reports on Capitol Hill today.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot himself refused to discuss when the call will be finished and made public.

Observers saw a desire on the part of the governor to wait until the Republican party adopts its fall campaign platform in Pittsburgh Saturday before determining what subjects to include in the call. It was pointed out that Friday is the last day for independent candidates to file for the fall election and that Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, the governor's wife, whose petitions are in circulation, must decide by tomorrow whether she intends to run for governor.

The call can be issued anytime until noon Wednesday and also can be changed up to that time.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today described as "sheer nonsense" a report that he had decided to throw his support behind the Republican gubernatorial candidacy of Attorney General William A. Schnader in exchange for assurances that three of his appointments to the public service commission will be confirmed by the senate.

The three commissioners named most likely to be confirmed were C. J. Goodnough, chairman; F. Stephen Stahlacker, at one time the governor's secretary; and Herman Goldberg, a former deputy attorney general.

Renew Interest In Movement For Recovery Here

New Castle Has Distinction
Of Being One Of Foremost

BE DISPLAYED SOON

New Castle and Lawrence county, through the excellent cooperation of the vast number in wholehearted support of the NRA, has won the distinction of being one of the foremost, if not the very leading communities, of the United States in responding to the assistance given the NRA.

Through the excellent work of the Women's Clubs, schools, Chamber of Commerce, Service Clubs and all other community agencies, a higher percentage of signatures of the Consumers' League were obtained in New Castle and Lawrence County than in any other area of similar population in the United States.

The Lawrence County Compliance Board under the able direction of Fred L. Rentz and the New Castle Compliance Board under the able direction of Marcus Feuchtwanger are credited with having done probably the most outstanding service in administration of NRA in the United States.

New Castle and the community is now sponsoring a campaign of further cooperation with the NRA under the direction of Marcus Feuchtwanger, general chairman; S. DeGraff Pearson, chairman of the speakers division; and George F. Winter, chairman of publicity.

It is believed that New Castle will be the first city in the United States to sponsor such a movement of renewed interest. New Code Compliance Blue Eagle posters will be distributed to those having the present Code Blue Eagle of the NRA in their possession, within the next few days.

These posters have been prepared by the National Recovery Administration to encourage the conspicuous display of the Blue Eagle, and will be available only to those operating under NRA codes and possessing the Code Blue Eagles. These posters, designed by Charles Corner, who sketched the original Blue Eagle, lend themselves particularly to attractive window advertising displays.

They show the Blue Eagle, resplendent against a background of red, white, and blue, with the legend, "We operate under an approved code and display the Blue Eagle as a symbol of cooperation."

(International News Service)

day stood accused by Attorney General William A. Schnader, his Republican opponent, of "seeking to make a political polo ball of relief."

The local commissioners called George Mudhart, head of the local relief work division to see what arrangements could be made for including the road in the work program. It is believed that arrangements can be made to do the work with relief labor, and the expense for materials would be small. The road has heretofore been kept up by Lawrence and Mahoning counties. Local commissioners will give the Mahoning commissioners a definite answer within a few days.

Formal Call For Legislature
Monday

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—The formal proclamation convening the legislature into special session for Wednesday noon and outlining subjects it can consider may not be issued until Monday, according to reports on Capitol Hill today.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot himself refused to discuss when the call will be finished and made public.

Observers saw a desire on the part of the governor to wait until the Republican party adopts its fall campaign platform in Pittsburgh Saturday before determining what subjects to include in the call. It was pointed out that Friday is the last day for independent candidates to file for the fall election and that Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, the governor's wife, whose petitions are in circulation, must decide by tomorrow whether she intends to run for governor.

The call can be issued anytime until noon Wednesday and also can be changed up to that time.

Pinchot Denies Political Rumors

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today described as "sheer nonsense" a report that he had decided to throw his support behind the Republican gubernatorial candidacy of Attorney General William A. Schnader in exchange for assurances that three of his appointments to the public service commission will be confirmed by the senate.

The three commissioners named most likely to be confirmed were C. J. Goodnough, chairman; P. Stephen Stahlnecker, at one time the governor's secretary, and Herman Goldberg, a former deputy attorney general.

The famous round-the-world record holder was waiting at Curtiss-Reynolds airport today for clear weather and a high pressure area moving toward Chicago before taking off.

His goal, Post said, will be a 50,000-foot ascent into the stratosphere to break the present altitude record of 47,532 feet.

Landing after a three-hour flight that carried him well above the 40,000-foot level Post late yesterday declared that his monoplane and all of the special equipment for the flight had functioned perfectly.

Renew Interest In Movement For Recovery Here

New Castle Has Distinction
Of Being One Of Foremost

BE DISPLAYED SOON

New Castle and Lawrence county through the excellent cooperation of the vast number in wholehearted support of the NRA, has won the distinction of being one of the foremost, if not the very leading communities, of the United States in responding to the assistance given the NRA.

Through the excellent work of the Women's Clubs, schools, Chamber of Commerce, Service Clubs and all other community agencies, a higher percentage of signatures of the Consumers' League were obtained in New Castle and Lawrence County than in any other area of similar population in the United States.

The Lawrence County Compliance Board under the able direction of Fred L. Renz and the New Castle Compliance Board under the able direction of Marcus Feuchtwanger are credited with having done probably the most outstanding service in administration of NRA in the United States.

New Castle and the community is now sponsoring a campaign of further cooperation with the NRA under the direction of Marcus Feuchtwanger, general chairman; S. DeGraff Pearson, chairman of the speakers division; and George F. Winter, chairman of publicity.

It is believed that New Castle will be the first city in the United States to sponsor such a movement of renewed interest. New Code Compliance Blue Eagle posters will be distributed to those having the present Code Blue Eagle of the NRA in their possession, within the next few days.

These posters have been prepared by the National Recovery Administration to encourage the conspicuous display of the Blue Eagle, and will be available only to those operating under NRA codes and possessing the Code Blue Eagles. These posters, designed by Charles Coier, who sketched the original Blue Eagle, lend themselves particularly to attractive window advertising displays.

They show the Blue Eagle, superimposed against a background of red, white, and blue, with the legend, "We operate under an approved code and display the Blue Eagle as a symbol of cooperation."

Charges Earle Uses Relief For Political Ends

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—George H. Earle, Democratic candidate for governor and a polo enthusiast, today stood accused by Attorney General William A. Schnader, his Republican opponent, of "seeking to make a political pole of relief."

Dismissing from a prepared radio address last night, in which he urged Pennsylvanians to register for this fall's primary, Schnader reiterated his charge that Pennsylvania was being discriminated against in the distribution of federal relief funds.

He charged Earle's refusal to attend the bi-partisan meeting with Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, in New York City last Friday, was based on political reasons.

State Line Road As Relief Project

Mahoning And Lawrence County Commissioners Discuss
Project This Morning

County Commissioners of Mahoning county, O., called upon the local county commissioners this forenoon to enlist their co-operation in improving the state line road, leading from Petersburg to Bessemer. The plan of the Mahoning county commissioners was to have the work done as a relief project. Arrangements have already been made to take care of that section of the road which lies in Ohio as a relief project, but it was pointed out that it is not desirable to improve only one part of the road.

The road is used considerably by school busses and as a mail route and gets bad in the winter. The local commissioners called George Midhart, head of the local relief work division to see what arrangements could be made for including the road in the work program. It is believed that arrangements can be made to do the work with relief labor, and the expense for materials would be small. The road has heretofore been kept up by Lawrence and Mahoning counties. Local commissioners will give the Mahoning commissioners a definite answer within a few days.

Liquor Dealers Prepare Battle

Will Test Ruling Of State Board That Beer Cannot Be Served Over Counter

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6.—The Retail Liquor Dealers Association of Philadelphia today girded itself for a finish battle against the state liquor control board's drive on beer drinking at bars.

Forteen saloon keepers in this city within the past 24 hours have been served with warrants summoning them to hearings on charges of violating the liquor laws of Pennsylvania by serving mugs of foaming suds over counters to patrons standing at the bar.

Sounding the keynote to the battle, Neil Bonner, president of the Liquor Dealers Association, declared that "to insist a man who wants to drink, say one glass of beer, must sit down at a table is ridiculous." The association, fortified by brilliant legal counsel, announced today that it will make a test case of the issue.

Work Relief In State To Resume During Month

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The federal emergency relief administration has allotted $10,500,000 to continue relief work in Pennsylvania in September, with further grants depending upon action of the state legislature.

Eric Biddle, state relief administrator, said the allotment would permit relief to be carried on this month as usual. The work relief program, which has been virtually suspended, will get under way the latter part of September, he said.

Biddle said the grant of $10,500,000 was made without a decision on the proportion of federal funds to be advanced Pennsylvania for relief in the future.

TAKE STEEL VOTE AT HUNTINGTON

Workers Deciding Union Affiliation At Labor Board Election

(International News Service)
HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 6.—While a detachment of state troopers was ordered here as a precautionary measure, the eyes of the steel industry were focused on Huntington today as employees of West Virginia rail interests voted whether an American Federation of Labor union or a company union should represent them in negotiations with the company.

Said to be the first election of its kind, the balloting was ordered by the recently created steel labor relations board and the outcome, as well as the manner in which the balloting is conducted, was expected to have a bearing on similar controversies in the Pittsburgh area.

The polls were opened from noon to nine p. m., for the employees to cast their votes under the watchful eyes of the state troopers and John E. Dewey, a candidate for both the Department of Labor and the Steel Labor Relations Board. Dewey explained that the presence of state troopers was "purely a precautionary move."

Labor leaders and company officials also said that they did not expect trouble. Wages and working hours were not issues in the balloting and the dispute centered over the question whether the employees should be represented by the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers or the company union known as the Huntington Steel Workers Union.

Company officials said that they would not interfere in the voting and "any future action will be determined after the election is held."

What Is Going On In Harrisburg—And Why

By GIFFORD PINCHOT Governor of Pennsylvania

I have just put a state planning board to work.

Planning is just as important in government as good housekeeping is in the home.

With the aid of this board, when I go out of office I shall turn over to my successor, and to the next session of the legislature, a thoughtful, helpful plan for the development of the social and economic life of Pennsylvania.

There will be nothing narrow or sectional in this plan, for it is part of a nationwide movement.

As a matter of fact, planning boards are being set up in most of the states to work with a national planning board in the Public Works Administration.

Our state planning board has a definite, concrete job before it—neither visionary nor theoretical.

In the first place, it will examine all the new federal legislation affecting housing, agriculture and industry, and make recommendations to the state legislature, so that Pennsylvania will be able to take full advantage of the opportunities the federal government is providing. Much of the federal recovery legislation brings with it no direct benefits to Pennsylvania unless our legislature takes action to obtain its share of those benefits.

The board also will make recommendations for the handling of the immediate pressing problems confronting our state—the unemployment problem, the school problem and that most important problem of taxation.

On the other hand, the board must look into the future. For example, it must cooperate with the national planning board in its investigation of the use of land, of transportation and public works.

I fully expect that the planning board, in cooperation with the national body, will make a land survey in Pennsylvania to find out whether large sections of the state now half used in agriculture cannot be retired and put to use for forestry, game lands or recreation grounds. Some of this land, which is called "marginal", is so poor that it supports a very sparse population, with the result that the people who live on it can barely keep up schools, county governments and roads.

So far we have given larger and larger grants from the state for schools on these marginal lands, and have taken over more and more of the road tax burden. But there is a real need to find out whether or not we should continue to farm many acres of poor, rocky or worn-out land.

The board will also study our transportation system. Such questions as whether and under what restrictions we are going to permit the use of highways for hauling freight must be studied and solved. We ought to know definitely where and how far we are going in expanding our road system.

Everyone realizes that there is a great need for long range planning of public works. Such great improvements as the Fymatung dam did not come about overnight. We need more such great public improvements and we ought to be planning for them now.

When the Civil Works Administration got under way, local governments had few plans ready. The result was that those that were ready were approved with little study and in a haphazard fashion while many more important projects fell by the wayside. If we had planned in advance the Civil Works Administration would have been a far bigger success than it was, although, under the circumstances, it did a good job.

The Governor Says

What Is Going On In Harrisburg—
And Why

By GIFFORD PINCHOT
Governor of Pennsylvania

I have just put a state planning board to work. Planning is just as important in government as good housekeeping is in the home.

With the aid of this board, when I go out of office I shall turn over to my successor, and to the next session of the legislature, a thoughtful, helpful plan for the development of the social and economic life of Pennsylvania.

There will be nothing narrow or sectional in this plan, for it is part of a nation-wide movement.

As a matter of fact, planning boards are being set up in most of the states to work with a national planning board in the Public Works Administration.

Our state planning board has a definite, concrete job before it—neither visionary nor theoretical. In the first place, it will examine all the new federal legislation affecting housing, agriculture and industries, and make recommendations to the state legislature, so that Pennsylvania will be able to take full advantage of the opportunities the federal government is providing.

Much of the federal recovery legislation brings with it no direct benefits to Pennsylvania unless our legislature takes action to obtain its share of those benefits.

The board also will make recommendations for the handling of the immediate pressing problems confronting our state—the unemployment problem, the school problem and that most important problem of taxation.

On the other hand, the board must look into the future. For example, it must cooperate with the national planning board in its investigation of the use of land, of transportation and public works.

I fully expect that the planning board, in cooperation with the national body, will make a land survey in Pennsylvania to find out whether large sections of the state now half used in agriculture cannot be reformed and put to use for forestry, game lands or recreation grounds. Some of this land, which is called "marginal," is so poor that it supports a very sparse population, with the result that the people who live on it can barely keep up schools, county governments and roads.

So far we have given larger and larger grants from the state for schools on these marginal lands, and have taken over more and more of the road tax burden. But there is a real need to find out whether or not we should continue to farm many acres of poor, rocky or worn-out land.

The board will also study our transportation system. Such questions as whether and under what restrictions we are going to permit the use of highways for hauling freight must be studied and solved. We ought to know definitely where and how far we are going in expanding our road system.

Everyone realizes that there is a great need for long range planning of public works. Such great improvements as the Pymatuning dam did not come about overnight. We need more such great public improvements and we ought to be planning for them now.

When the Civil Works Administration got under way, local governments had few plans ready. The result was that those that were ready were approved with little study and in a haphazard fashion while many more important projects fell by the wayside. If we had planned in advance the Civil Works Administration would have been a far bigger success than it was, although, under the circumstances, it did a good job.

HITLER REVIEWS SHOCK TROOPS OF LABOR

Spectacle Is Provided For 200,000 Spectators In "Zeppelin Meadow"

SPADES ARE USED IN PLACE OF ARMS

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent
Copyright, 1934, International News Service

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—Fifty thousand Nazi troops of labor presented arms to Hitler today and gave 200,000 Nazi spectators in the vast "Zeppelin Meadow" a thrill of exultation in the picture they gave of Germany's power. Their arms were spades, their name "voluntary labor service," but their drill was like one of West Point Cadets and they goose-stepped in the best tradition of Germany's old army.

All over the Reich, in 1,000 labor camps, 180,000 such soldiers of labor were drilled today. It was a spectacle to impress the coldest observers.

Use Spades For Drill
On a field 21 acres square, big enough to hold ten American football grids, bordered by a grandstand seating 200,000 persons and fringed by 100 huge hooked-cross flags, stood these 50,000 soldiers of labor.

In their dark uniforms the 50,000 looked like a somber lake of green until suddenly at one barked order they presented arms. With a single movement, 50,000 spades came up and mirrored in the sunshine turned the field into a blazing cauldron of light.

They stood in ranks of 1,000 men each, shouldered to shoulder, facing Hitler's tribute with its silver Nazi eagle 50 feet high. Each man bore a full marching kit and a brightly polished spade.

Through the entrance sped Hitler's black Mercedes automobile, behind it a bodyguard of eight Schutz Staffel men in black, all standing up in their automobiles, scanning every spectator within reach of Der Fuehrer.

Goose Step In Unison
Hitler took his place. Around him stood Goering, Goebbels, Frick, fifty bugles blared. From the mass of troops ten battalions moved behind 100 flagbearers. Goose-stepping in perfect unison they shook the ground, raised clouds of dust and brought a roar of spontaneous applause from the crowd.

Again the bugles sounded and a hundred flagbearers for five minutes swung their swastika banners in rhythmic movement. One long trumpet call brought the flags to the ground, while the music of massed bands, played the Ullan Lament, "I had a comrade" for the Nazi dead.

Hitler rose. From 50,000 throats as from a college football crowd trained by a cheer leader came 50 short sentences. "We want. One leader. One Reich. Nothing for us. Everything for Germany. Heil Hitler."

Hitler spoke for fifteen minutes. His words, echoing through fifty loud speakers, were unintelligible, but when he finished a quarter of a million voices belatedly:

"Heil Hitler!"
For the next two hours Hitler, standing on Adolf Hitlerplatz took the march past of his labor troops for this was their day.

Tonight their 45 special trains will take them back to their labor camps and to work.

"The whole nation will have to go through your school. The time will come when no German will be able to join the community of our people who has not first gone through your community."

This remark, which won stormy applause, was interpreted by his hearers to mean that obligatory labor corps will eventually be made law.

Today

Going Places.
Easy Constitution.
Mr. Hoover Speaks.
Profits Not Barred.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
CITIZENS ARE on their way to something, they do not know exactly what. Some, respectable ones, prosperous, and heard with reverence, are now pushed aside, as young people push furniture aside, preparing for a dance.

This government has yoked itself to an ideal and started up-hill, toward a great improvement on all the old utopias. To guess at details would be rash, but they surely include distribution of government money among those in need, and elimination of the industrialists so-called "right-to-run his own business" in his own way.

MAYOR LA GUARDIA, making a Labor Day speech in Chicago, finds that the Constitution stands in nobody's way. It can be "fixed" to eliminate the hitherto impossible, and it will be fixed to create a "new order." There is nothing extravagant about that statement. The Constitution has often been fixed—to permit abolition of slavery, to allow taxation of incomes, to snatch the beer glass from the palsied lip and substitute ice water, for a little while, and to change women from the class of idiots and Indians not voting, to real voters.

HERBERT HOOVER, wishing to help Republican candidates at the coming election, making his first political announcement, through the Saturday Evening Post "views with alarm," as good Republicans always do. The administration, he says, has made a wide shift from the American system, and now according to the former President, "man" is "but a pawn of the state." Mr. Hoover suggests that the nation give up following will-o'-the-wisps and "return to paths of progress."

MR. HOOVER, who calls his article "The Challenge to Liberty," fears that we are getting our share of the dictatorial governments of the world. He does not mention President Roosevelt, but he remembers "Plymouth Rock, Lexington, Valley Forge, Yorktown, New Orleans, Appomattox, San Juan Hill, the Argonne" and the graves of all those places, and he worries.

BECAUSE THE "Challenge to Liberty" article is aimed straight at the President, bringing in his distant cousin, Theodore's San Juan Hill, Mr. Roosevelt will doubtless reply also without aiming his remarks at any one in particular.

It would be in keeping with the spirit of the times for the President to ask bluntly "What did YOU do in the big depression?" and say no more.

ASIDE FROM all that, which will be forgotten after we shall have drifted back as we shall drift into our old-fashioned "get all you can, and the devil take the hindmost" system, you observe with interest that:

A lady, Miss Booth, has been elected head of the Salvation Army that her father started. It is a heavy task, with responsibilities all over the world including millions in United States real estate.

ANOTHER COURAGEOUS flier, Douglas Davis, was killed while striving to win the Thompson trophy race at Cleveland just after he had broken another record. Colonel Roscoe Turner, who last week again broke the Pacific to Atlantic record, won the Thompson trophy.

Davis, a modest young Georgian, just before his death had beaten the land-speed record, going above three hundred and six miles an hour. He will be content to have that record engraved on the tombstone. Wedell, who set the previous record, was killed recently trying to do better. This country has many brave fliers.

MISS FRANCES PERKINS, Labor Secretary, broadcast her belief that it is not wise to abolish profits in business. On the contrary the New Deal seeks to establish "steady profits" because a close relationship exists between profits and good wages. He who thinks that good men will work hard merely for love of their kind do not know able men well.

Miss Perkins' broadcast will cheer businessmen, almost convinced that they would never again see "profits" except in the dictionary. Samuel Johnson said no man ever wrote well, except for pay. No man ever established a great industry with big payrolls, as a matter of theory, although with the ablest men, the accomplishment is more important than the money.

HIRAM JOHNSON, of California, who will be re-elected with a bang, says nothing unconstitutional has been done by the administration, although there has been much "expansion." He praises the administration's "titanic" effort.

PRESIDENT GREEN, of the American Federation of Labor, demands the five-day thirty-hour working week as vital, because the forty-hour week will not supply employment for all workers. Without the thirty-hour week, says Mr. Green, the government this winter

"Hurrah, dad!"
"we're on concrete again!"

"CONCRETE BEGINS"—most welcome sign to a weary motorist. You relax. Sit back in the seat. Ease up your grip on the wheel.

Concrete roads are safer... you're less apt to skid... you'll stop more quickly, more smoothly... your tires are less apt to blow out. Your visibility is better. Your car operates more economically. Because you're relaxed, you drive more easily, more surely.

will be compelled to supply "the elemental needs" of ten millions idle, which, with their dependents, would mean caring for at least forty million human beings. And "such a condition would constitute a menace to the existing social order."

THAT MR. GREEN sees no miracles worked by the New Deal in partnership with labor as yet is made clear by his statement "we are facing the worst winter." Some men of experience feel that even a working week of five days, six hours a day will not employ all idle workers unless something is done to encourage those that supply jobs. The door mouse at the mad hatter's tea party, trying to mend his watch, put in it "the best butter," but nothing seems to please it.

A watchmaker could have done better without the butter. Perhaps there is a lesson in that for well meaning who feel that ENOUGH government butter will make anything work.

HITLER REVIEWS SHOCK TROOPS OF LABOR

Spectacle Is Provided For 200,000 Spectators In "Zeppelin Meadow"

International News Service Staff Correspondent

NUREMBERG, Sept. 6.—Fifty thousand Nazi shock troops of labor presented arms to Hitler today and gave 200,000 Nazi spectators in the vast "Zeppelin Meadow" a thrill of exultation, in the picture they gave of Germany's power. The "voluntary labor service" but their drill was like one by West Point Cadets and they goose-stepped in the best tradition of Germany's old army.

All over the Reich, in 1,000 labor camps, 180,000 such soldiers of labor were drilled today. It was a spectacle to impress the coldest observers.

Use Spades For Drill
On a field 21 acres square, big enough to hold ten American football grids, bordered by a grandstand seating 200,000 persons and fringed by 100 huge hooked-cross flags, stood these 50,000 soldiers of labor.

In their dark uniforms the 50,000 looked like a somber lake of green until suddenly at one barked order they presented arms. With a single movement 50,000 spades came up and mirroring in the sunshine turned the field into a blazing cauldron of light.

They stood in ranks of 1,000 men each, should to shoulder, facing Hitler's tribute with its silver Nazi eagle 50 feet high. Each man bore a full marching kit and a brightly polished spade.

Goose Step In Unison
Hitler took his place. Around him stood Goering, Goebbels, Frick, fifty bugles blared. From the mass of troops ten battalions moved behind 100 flagbearers. Goose-stepping in perfect unison they shook the ground, raised clouds of dust and brought a roar of spontaneous applause from the crowd.

Again the bugles sounded and a hundred flagbearers for five minutes swung their swastika banners in rhythmic movement. One long trumpet call brought the flags to the ground, while the music of massed bands, played the Ullan Lament, "I had a comrade" for the Nazi dead.

Hitler rose. From 50,000 throats as from a college football crowd trained by a cheer leader came six short sentences. "We want. One leader. One Reich. Nothing for us. Everything for Germany. Heil Hitler!"

Hitler spoke for fifteen minutes. His words, echoing through fifty loud speakers, were unintelligible, but when he finished a quarter of a million voices belted out:

"Heil Hitler!"

For the next two hours Hitler, standing on Adolph Hitlerplatz took the march past of his labor troops for this was their day.

Tonight their 45 special trains will take them back to their labor camps and to work.

"The whole nation will have to go through your school. The time will come when no German will be able to join the community of our people who has not first gone through your community."

beer glass from the palsied lip and substitute ice water, for a little while, and to change women from the class of idiots and Indians not voting, to real voters.

HERBERT HOOVER, wishing to help Republican candidates at the coming election, making his first political announcement, through the Saturday Evening Post "views with alarm," as good Republicans always do. The administration, he says, has made a wide shift from the American system, and now according to the former President, "man" is "but a pawn of the state." Mr. Hoover suggests that the nation give up following will-o-the-wisps and "return to paths of progress."

MR. HOOVER, who calls his article "The Challenge to Liberty," fears that we are getting our share of the dictatorial governments of the world. He does not mention President Roosevelt, but he remembers "Plymouth Rock, Lexington, Valley Forge, Yorktown, New Orleans, Appomattox, San Juan Hill, the Argonne" and the graves of all those places, and he worries.

BECAUSE THE "Challenge to Liberty" article is aimed straight at the President, bringing in his distant cousin, Theodore's San Juan Hill, Mr. Roosevelt will doubtless reply also without aiming his remarks at any one in particular.

It would be in keeping with the spirit of the times for the President to ask bluntly "What did YOU do in the big depression?" and say no more.

ASIDE FROM all that, which will be forgotten after we shall have drifted back as we shall drift into our old-fashioned "get all you can, and the devil take the hindmost" system, you observe with interest that:

A lady, Miss Booth, has been elected head of the Salvation Army that her father started. It is a heavy task, with responsibilities all over the world including millions in United States real estate.

ANOTHER COURAGEOUS flier, Douglas Davis, was killed while striving to win the Thompson trophy race at Cleveland just after he had broken another record. Colonel Roscoe Turner, who last week again broke the Pacific to Atlantic record, won the Thompson trophy.

Davis, a modest young Georgian, just before his death had beaten the land-speed record, going above three hundred and six miles an hour. He will be content to have that record engraved on the tombstone. Wedell, who set the previous record, was killed recently trying to do better. This country has many brave fliers.

MISS FRANCES PERKINS, Labor Secretary, broadcasts her belief that it is not wise to abolish profits in business. On the contrary the New Deal seeks to establish "steady profits" because a close relationship exists between profits and good wages. He who thinks that able men will work hard merely for love of their kind do not know able men well.

Miss Perkins' broadcast will cheer businessmen, almost convinced that they would never again see "profits" except in the dictionary. Samuel Johnson said no man ever wrote well, except for pay. No man ever established a great industry with big payrolls, as a matter of theory, although with the ablest men, the accomplishment is more important than the money.

HIRAM JOHNSON, of California, who will be re-elected with a bang, says nothing unconstitutional has been done by the administration, although there has been much "experimentation." He praises the administration's "titanic" effort.

PRESIDENT GREEN, of the American Federation of Labor, demands the five-day thirty-hour working week as vital, because the forty-hour week will not supply employment for all workers. Without the thirty-hour week, says Mr. Green, the government this winter

"Hurray, dad!" "we're on concrete again!"

SPADES ARE USED IN PLACE OF ARMS

NUREMBERG, Sept. 6.—Fifty thousand Nazi shock troops of labor presented arms to Hitler today and gave 200,000 Nazi spectators in the vast "Zeppelin Meadow" a thrill of exultation in the picture they gave of Germany's power. Their arms were spades, their name "voluntary labor service" but their drill was like one by West Point Cadets and they goose-stepped in the best tradition of Germany's old army.

All over the Reich, in 1,000 labor camps, 180,000 such soldiers of labor were drilled today. It was a spectacle to impress the coldest observers.

Use Spades For Drill
On a field 21 acres square, big enough to hold ten American football gridirons, bordered by a grand stand seating 200,000 persons and fringed by 100 huge hooked-cross flags, stood these 50,000 soldiers of labor.

In their dark uniforms the 50,000 looked like a somber lake of green until suddenly at one barked order they presented arms. With a single movement 50,000 spades came up and mirroring in the sunshine turned the field into a blazing cauldron of light.

They stood in ranks of 1,000 men each, should to shoulder, facing Hitler's tribune with its silver Nazi eagle 50 feet high. Each man bore a full marching kit and a brightly polished spade.

Through the entrance sped Hitler's black Mercedes, behind it a bodyguard of eight Schutz Staffeln men in black, all standing tip in their automobiles, scanning every spectator within reach of Der Fuehrer.

Goose Step In Unison
Hitler took his place. Around him stood Goering, Goebbels, Frick, fifty bugles blared. From the tribune in troops ten battalions moved behind the flagbearers. Goose-stepping in perfect unison they shook the ground, raised clouds of dust and brought a roar of spontaneous applause from the crowd.

Again the bugles sounded and a hundred flagbearers for five minutes swung their swastika banners in rhythmic movement. One long trumpet call brought the flags to the ground, while the music of massed bands, played the Ullan Lament, "I had a comrade" for the Nazi dead.

Hitler rose. From 50,000 throats as from a college football crowd, trained by a cheer leader came six short sentences. "We want. One leader. One Reich. Nothing for us. Every thing for Germany. Heil Hitler."

Hitler spoke for fifteen minutes. His words, echoing through fifty loud speakers, were unintelligible, but when he finished a quarter of a million voices belatedly:

"Heil Hitler!"

For the next two hours Hitler, standing on Adolph Hitlerplatz took the march past of his labor troops for this was their day.

Tonight their 45 special trains will take them back to their labor camps and to work.

"The whole nation will have to go through your school. The time will come when no German will be able to join the community of our people who has not first gone through your community."

This remark, which won stormy applause, was interpreted by his hearers to mean that obligatory labor corps will eventually be made law.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

CITIZENS ARE on their way to something, they do not know exactly what. Some, respectable once, prosperous, and heard with reverence, are now pushed aside, as young people push furniture aside, preparing for a dance.

This government has yoked itself to an ideal and started up-hill, toward a great improvement on all the old utopias. To guess at details would be rash, but they surely include distribution of government money among those in need, and elimination of the industrialists' so-called "right-to-run his own business in his own way."

MAYOR I. A. GUARDIA, making a Labor Day speech in Chicago, finds that the Constitution stands in nobody's way. It can be "fixed" to eliminate the hitherto impossible, and it will be fixed to create a "new order." There is nothing extravagant about that statement. "The Constitution has often been fixed—to permit abolition of slavery, to allow taxation of incomes, to snatch the beer glass from the palsied lip and substitute ice water for a little while, and to change women from the class of idiots and Indians not voting, to real voters.

HERBERT HOOVER, wishing to help Republican candidates at the coming election, making his first political announcement, through the Saturday Evening Post, "views with alarm," as good Republicans always do. The administration, he says, has made a wide shift from the American system, and now according to the former President, "man" is "but a pawn of the state." Mr. Hoover suggests that the nation give up following wild-cat adventures and "return to paths of progress."

MR. HOOVER, who calls his article "The Challenge to Liberty," fears that we are getting our share of the dictatorial governments of the world. He does not mention President Roosevelt, but he remembers "Plymouth Rock, Lexington, Valley Forge, Yorktown, New Orleans, Appomattox, San Juan Hill, the Argonne" and the graves of all those places, and he worries.

BECAUSE THE "Challenge to Liberty" article is aimed straight at the President, bringing in his distant cousin, Theodore's San Juan Hill, Mr. Roosevelt will doubtless reply also without aiming his remarks at any one in particular.

It would be in keeping with the spirit of the times for the President to ask bluntly "What did YOU do in the big depression?" and say no more.

ASIDE FROM all that, which will be forgotten after we shall have drifted back as we shall drift into our old-fashioned "What did YOU do, and the devil take the hindmost" system, you observe with interest that:

A lady, Miss Booth, has been elected head of the Salvation Army that her father started. It is a heavy task, with responsibilities all over the world including millions in United States real estate.

ANOTHER COURAGEOUS flier, Douglas Davis, was killed while striving to win the Thompson trophy race at Cleveland just after he had broken another record. Colonel Roscoe Turner, who last week again broke the Pacific to Atlantic record, won the Thompson trophy.

Davis, a modest young Georgian, just before his death had beaten the land-speed record, going above three hundred and six miles an hour. He will be content to have that record engraved on the tombstone. Wedell, who set the previous record, was killed recently trying to do better. This country has many brave fliers.

MISS FRANCES PERKINS, Labor Secretary, broadcasts her belief that it is not wise to abolish profits in business. On the contrary the New Deal seeks to establish "steady profits" because a close relationship exists between profits and good wages. He who thinks that able men will work hard merely for love of their kind do not know able men well.

Miss Perkins' broadcast will cheer businessmen, almost convinced that they would never again see "profits" except in the dictionary. Samuel Johnson said no man ever worked well, except for pay. No man ever established a great industry with big payrolls, as a matter of theory, although with the ablest men, the accomplishment is more important than the money.

HIRAM JOHNSON, of California, who will be re-elected with a bang, says nothing unconstitutional has been done by the administration, although there has been much "experimentation." He praises the administration's "titanic" effort.

PRESIDENT GREEN, of the American Federation of Labor, demands the five-day thirty-hour working week as vital, because the forty-hour week will not supply employment for all workers. Without the thirty-hour week, says Mr. Green, the government this winter will be compelled to supply "the elemental needs" of ten millions idle, which, with their dependents, would mean caring for at least forty million human beings. And "such a condition would constitute a menace to the existing social order."

THAT MR. GREEN sees no miracles worked by the New Deal in partnership with labor as yet is made clear by his statement "we are facing the worst winter."

Some men of experience feel that even a working week of five days, six hours a day will not employ all idle workers unless something is done to encourage those that supply jobs. The door mouse at the mad hatter's tea party, trying to mend his watch, put in it "the best butter," but nothing seems to please it.

A watchmaker could have done better without the butter. Perhaps there is a lesson in that for well meaning who feel that ENOUGH government butter will make anything work.

STRATOSPHERE BALLOON BURNS

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, Sept. 6.—An attempt to break the stratosphere flight record which was to have been made at dawn today was prevented by a fire. A Zeppelin airship which destroyed the balloon, the same one which broke the stratosphere record in 1933 by reaching an altitude of more than ten miles.

The fire occurred from an undetermined cause while the balloon was being inflated. No one was injured.

Claim Neutrality Broken By Bishops

(International News Service)

GENEVA, Sept. 6.—Charges that two German Catholic bishops had failed to observe the proper neutrality in the Saar Valley were contained today in a letter sent to the League of Nations by the chairman of the Saar Plebiscite Commission. The complaint was based on the action of the Bishops of Treves in the Rhineland and Speyer, Bavaria, in connection with a meeting of Catholic youth held in the Saar on July 29.

"NATURALLY SKINNY GIRL"

Gains 7 lbs. in 10 days

Never Felt Better!

"I've been taking Kelp-A-Malt tablets for 10 days and have gained 7 lbs. and want to say I have never felt better in my life," says Mrs. E. W. This report is typical of thousands of thin, rundown, underweight men and women who have found Kelp-A-Malt the most successful weight builder they have ever tried.

Kelp-A-Malt acts "3 ways" in building lasting extra pounds of solid flesh. First, it is a rich supply of practically every needed body mineral, nourishes the digestive glands that produce the juices needed to digest food and scurries—the weight building elements in food.

Next, it contains an amazingly effective digestive stimulant that actually can digest 4 times its own weight in flesh building food. Third, Kelp-A-Malt's generous amount of natural iodine concentrates the over-active internal glands that keep down body weight. It prevents wastes from being too quickly broken down and consumed—burnt up by the body.

Start: Kelp-A-Malt today and watch new pounds of solid flustering flesh quickly appear in place of scrawny hollows. Notice how much better you feel. How ordinary stomach distress and indigestion disappear in 1 week or the trial costs you nothing.

Strike Board Begins Efforts

Board Named By President
To Seek Settlement Of Textile Strike

PRESIDENT SILENT ON STRIKE MATTER

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 6.—A special mediation board named by President Roosevelt and instructed to investigate a possible settlement of the textile strike was hard at work today, while the executive resumed the silence he maintained regarding the strike until yesterday.

Mr. Roosevelt named the members of the special board late yesterday. Gov. John G. Winant of New Hampshire, a Progressive Republican, was picked as chairman. Other members were Marion Smith, Atlanta attorney, and Raymond Ingersoll, president of the Brooklyn borough.

To Report October 1

The mediation board was directed to report to the President through the Secretary of Labor, not later than October 1. Until this report is made, there appeared little likelihood that the President would take further action in naming the board acted at the suggestion of his National Labor Relations Board, headed by Lloyd Garrison. The National Board chairman wrote the President a letter pointing out that the work of a special mediation board would be more effective in working out a peaceful solution of the national labor disturbance than would the national body.

Confers With Eastman

Today the President turned from the problems involved in the strike and called in for an all-day conference Federal Railroad Coordinator Joseph B. Eastman. There was no information available regarding the subject of the scheduled conference between the President and Eastman. Coming, as it did, within 24 hours of the meeting between the President and J. P. Pelley, president of the N. Y. N. H. and H. R. R., however, today's conference was regarded as important. Pelley, after his chat with the executive refused to reveal details, but did reveal that he and the nation's chief discussed rates, indebtedness and similar matters.

Sees Waterways Ratification

Eastman was the only scheduled caller today. Meanwhile the President mulled over in his mind the cheering words of Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the New York state power authority, embraced in a prediction that the next session of congress would ratify the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty. The last congress rejected Mr. Roosevelt's proposal that the pact be ratified, but the President did not give up. The proposed waterway from the mid-west to the sea, has long been a Roosevelt dream, and the executive expects to re-submit the treaty to congress when it convenes in January. Walsh openly predicted that the fight would be successful during the next twelve months.

Jewish Holiday To Be Celebrated

Rosh Hashanah Will Be Observed With Services In The Temple Sunday And Monday

Temple Israel, Highland and Moody avenues, will usher in the Holiday of Rosh Hashanah (the Jewish New Year) with special services which will take place Sunday evening, September 9, at 8 o'clock, and Monday morning, September 10, at 10 o'clock. Rabbi Avery Jonah Grossfield officiating. The topic of the sermon for Sunday evening will be: "She-he-chai-yu-nu—A New Year Prayer." The Monday morning sermon will be on the topic: "Who Is A Religious Man?" The prayers of the ritual will be rendered in the traditional melodies of the season, and the Shofar (ram's horn) will be blown.

A contribution to the Temple Floral fund has been received from Mr. and Mrs. William L. Cosel, in celebration of the birthday of their daughter Carolyn, which takes place on September 8.

Contributions have been received by the Temple Memorial Fund from Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Feichtwanger in loving memory of their mother, Rose F. Sunstein, the anniversary of whose death was recently observed, and of their sister Josephine Aron, who passed to the Great Beyond two weeks ago.

The flowers that will adorn the pulpit during the Rosh Hashanah Holiday have been offered by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Klaffer in loving memory of their parents and dear ones who have since departed to the realm of Life Everlasting.

Senate Armament Probe Continues

Fail To Deter Probe

Sessions

By EUGENE J. CADOU
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Protests by United States government departments failed to deter the senate armaments committee today in its investigation of purported alliances between federal officials and the world armament ring.

Committee investigators are ready to submit evidence concerning the conversion of a U. S. navy cruiser into a "demonstrator" for the Driggs Engineering and Ordnance Company, a concern located in this country, which was trying to sell naval guns to Turkey.

Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota, committee chairman, and Senator Pope (D) of Idaho, committee member, admitted that objections to the revelation of certain documents had been made by at least one department of government. Nye said that in June he had appealed to President Roosevelt to forestall the reticence of governmental departments to aid the inquiry and that the president had ordered all governmental units to cooperate.

But Nye added that some departments now appear to be "unduly exercised" about the committee's disclosures.

The committee will hear evidence concerning the dispatching of the U. S. Cruiser Raleigh to Istanbul, Turkey, to aid Driggs Company's sales campaign.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 6.—A special mediation board named by President Roosevelt and instructed to investigate a possible settlement of the textile strike was hard at work today, while the executive resumed the silence he maintained regarding the strike until yesterday.

Mr. Roosevelt named the members of the special board late yesterday. Gov. John G. Winant of New Hampshire, a Progressive Republican, was picked as chairman. Other members were Marion Smith, Atlanta attorney, and Raymond Ingersoll, president of the Brooklyn borough.

To Report October 1

The mediation board was directed to report to the President through the Secretary of Labor, not later than October 1. Until this report is made, there appeared little likelihood that the President would take further action in naming the board acted at the suggestion of his National Labor Relations Board, headed by Lloyd Garrison. The National Board chairman wrote the President a letter pointing out that the work of a special mediation board would be more effective in working out a peaceful solution of the national labor disturbance than would the national body.

Today the President turned from the problems involved in the strike and called in for an all-day conference Federal Railroad Coordinator Joseph B. Eastman. There was no information available regarding the subject of the scheduled conference between the President and Eastman. Coming, as it did, within 24 hours of the meeting between the President and J. P. Pelley, president of the N. Y. N. H. and H. R. R., however, today's conference was regarded as important. Pelley, after his chat with the executive refused to reveal details, but did reveal that he and the nation's chief discussed rates, indebtedness and similar matters.

Eastman was the only scheduled caller today. Meanwhile the President mulled over in his mind the cheering words of Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the New York state power authority, embraced in a prediction that the next session of congress would ratify the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty. The last congress rejected Mr. Roosevelt's proposal that the pact be ratified, but the President did not give up. The proposed waterway from the mid-west to the sea, has long been a Roosevelt dream, and the executive expects to re-submit the treaty to congress when it convenes in January. Walsh openly predicted that the fight would be successful during the next twelve months.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Protests by United States government departments failed to deter the senate armaments committee today in its investigation of purported alliances between federal officials and the world armament ring.

Committee investigators are ready to submit evidence concerning the conversion of a U. S. navy cruiser into a "demonstrator" for the Driggs Engineering and Ordnance Company, a concern located in this country, which was trying to sell naval guns to Turkey.

Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota, committee chairman, and Senator Pope (D) of Idaho, committee member, admitted that objections to the revelation of certain documents had been made by at least one department of government. Nye said that in June he had appealed to President Roosevelt to forestall the reticence of governmental departments to aid the inquiry and that the president had ordered all governmental units to cooperate.

But Nye added that some departments now appear to be "unduly exercised" about the committee's disclosures.

Your Stomach

—and what it means to your Health

The function of your stomach is to digest your food, extracting from it that which gives you strength, energy and vitality. A healthy stomach has no difficulty in performing its functions properly. When it fails to do its duty, you are apt to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia, gas or intestinal bloating. You feel tired, nervous and your sleep is broken. Boils, pimples and skin eruptions are caused by impure blood. Neuritis, rheumatism come from acid impurities.

The signs of stomach trouble cannot be mistaken and should be heeded without delay. Give nature a little assistance in overcoming these troubles and start on the road to health with a strong, active stomach.

The new tonic VENDOR is made from the juices and extracts of many herbal plants that combine pleasantly with the digestive juices of the stomach, and the relief which this excellent medicine gives is astonishing in many instances.

VENDOR is not a "physic" in the ordinary sense of the word, so do not confuse Vendor with the many purgatives, cathartics, salts, mineral oils, etc., that treat your system in an unnatural way. Many of these merely empty the bowels by irritating the lining of the intestines, arousing the bowel to harsh, unnatural action, frequently causing increased sluggishness of the bowels and the constipation becomes worse.

The basic ingredients of Vendor act upon those organs of the body whose duty it is to supply the natural digestive and laxative fluids of the human system, and in this way Nature works in her own natural manner, which is the proper way of treating these disorders.

Come to the New Castle Drug Company, 31 E. Washington Street or 24 N. Mill Street, and let them explain all about Vendor. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Protests by United States government departments failed to deter the senate munitions committee today in its investigation of purported alliances between federal officials and the world armament ring.

Rosh Hashanah—The New Year

Beginning with Sunday evening, September 9, 1934, Jewry the world over will usher in the festival of New Year, known in Hebrew as "Rosh Hashanah." Reform Judaism observes this holy day for one day—while Orthodox Jews observe two days. With the celebration of the New Year the Jewish people will open the year 5695 of the Hebrew calendar.

In ancient days when the Jewish people lived in Palestine and agriculture was their chief occupation, the Hebrew New Year's Day marked the opening of the economic year. It occurred in the beginning of autumn, because the season of the sowing of seeds began with the fall. This system of the agricultural cycle of the year was used by all Semitic peoples. The Bible does not refer to this festival as the New Year's Day, but the Jewish people, no doubt, considered it as such at a very early date. In the days of the Temple at Jerusalem they observed this day by abstaining from all labor, by bringing special offerings to the Temple, and by blowing the Shofar—the ram's horn.

With the exile of the Jewish people from Palestine and their wide dispersion, the agricultural and economic background disappeared. The Jews however, continued to observe the New Year's Day as a purely religious festival, endowing it with a significant spiritual value. Rabbinic tradition identified it with the anniversary of the day upon which God had created the world and set it aside as the day upon which every human being and every living creature pass before God's judgment seat. For this reason, the Jewish New Year's Day has been called the "Day of Judgment." This idea gave rise to an elaborate liturgy and ritual which were to awaken man to the message of the Day and bring him to a state of penitence.

With the coming of the modern era in Jewish life this idea of the festival as a Day of Judgment has been greatly developed. Self-examination, self-criticism, repentance, and reconciliation with men and God became the chief values of the day; they are especially dominant in the Reform Jewish liturgy, making it a New Year of the heart rather than of the calendar. The Shofar or ram's horn, is still blown in the Synagogue today. Its purpose is to stir the heart of man and awaken him to the spirit of the solemn day; it is to remind him of his responsibilities to his fellowmen and of his obligations to God.

Your Stomach

—and what it means to your Health

The function of your stomach is to digest your food, extracting from it that which gives you strength, energy and vitality. A healthy stomach has no difficulty in performing its functions properly. When it fails to do its duty, you are apt to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia, gas or bloating. You feel tired, nervous and your sleep is broken. Boils, pimples and skin eruptions are caused by impure blood. Neuritis, rheumatism come from acid impurities.

The signs of stomach trouble cannot be mistaken and should be heeded without delay. Give nature a little assistance in overcoming these troubles and start on the road to health with a strong, active stomach.

The new tonic VENDOL is made from the juices and extracts of many herbal plants that combine pleasantly with the digestive juices of the stomach, and the relief which this excellent medicine gives is astonishing in many instances.

VENDOL is not a "physic" in the ordinary sense of the word, so do not confuse Vendol with the many purgatives, cathartics, salts, mineral oils, etc., that treat your system in an unnatural way. Many of these merely empty the bowels by irritating the lining of the intestines, arousing the bowel to harsh, unnatural action, frequently causing increased sluggishness of the bowels and the constipation becomes worse. The basic ingredients of Vendol act upon those organs of the body whose duty it is to supply the natural digestive and laxative fluids of the human system, and in this way Nature works in her own natural manner, which is the proper way of treating these disorders.

Come to the New Castle Drug Company, 31 E. Washington Street or 24 N. Mill Street, and let them explain all about Vendol. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

No Strike Halt By Board Naming

Leader Says Textile Strike
To Continue Until Concessions Are Made

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Aroused by the slaying of one of its members in Georgia and the wounding of others in that state and elsewhere, by peace authorities, a feeling of high tension spread throughout the ranks of the great national textile strike today.

The union leaders continued to induce workers to quit the factory rooms in spite of President Roosevelt's action in appointing a special board of mediation, and avowed the strike will go on "until we get some concessions."

"We've depended on boards too many times in the past without getting any results," said Francis J. Gorman, national strike chairman.

"I hope the board's inquiry leads to a fair settlement but we're going to keep on striking until we get some concessions," he said, and made public a seven-point program of settlement which the United Textile Workers of America insist must be agreed upon before the strike is called off.

It was obvious the union leaders as well as the striking employees, now estimated by Gorman to number 450,000, are happy over Mr. Roosevelt's action in naming three prominent men to investigate the causes of the strike from both the workers' and employers' viewpoint. Gorman said the union will cooperate with the board in its task and give it access to its records.

No Strike Halt By Board Naming

To Continue Until Concessions Are Made

(International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Aroused by the slaying of one of its members in Georgia and the wounding of others in that state and elsewhere, by peace authorities, a feeling of high tension spread throughout the ranks of the great national textile strike today.

"The union leaders continued to induce workers to quit the factory rooms in spite of President Roosevelt's action in appointing a special board of mediation, and avowed the strike will go on 'until we get some concessions.'"

"We've depended on boards too many times in the past without getting any results," said Francis J. Gorman, national strike chairman. "I hope the board's inquiry leads to a fair settlement but we're going to keep on striking until we get some concessions," he said, and made public a seven-point program of settlement which the United Textile Workers of America insist must be agreed upon before the strike is called off.

It was obvious the union leaders as well as the striking employees, now estimated by Gorman to number 450,000, are happy over Mr. Roosevelt's action in naming three prominent men to investigate the causes of the strike from both the workers' and employers' viewpoint. Gorman said the union will cooperate with the board in its task and give it access to its records.

Strike Board Begins Efforts

Board Named By President
To Seek Settlement Of Textile Strike

PRESIDENT SILENT ON STRIKE MATTER

By EDWARD E. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 6.—A special mediation board named by President Roosevelt and instructed to investigate the causes of the general textile strike was hard at work today, while the executive resumed the silence he maintained regarding the strike until yesterday.

Mr. Roosevelt named the members of the special board late yesterday. Gov. John G. Winant of New Hampshire, a Progressive Republican, was picked as chairman. Other members were Marion Smith, Atlanta attorney, and Raymond Ingersoll, president of the Brooklyn borough.

To Report October 1
The mediation board was directed to report to the President through the Secretary of Labor, not later than October 1. Until this report is made, there appeared little likelihood that the President would take further action.

Mr. Roosevelt in naming the board acted at the suggestion of his National Labor Relations Board, headed by Lloyd Garrison. The National Board chairman wrote the President a letter pointing out that the work of a special mediation board would be more effective in working out a peaceful solution of the national labor disturbance than would the national body.

Confers With Eastman
Today the President turned from the problems involved in the strike and called in for an all-day conference Federal Railroad Coordinator Joseph B. Eastman. There was no information available regarding the subject of the scheduled conference between the President and Eastman. Coming, as it did, within 24 hours of the meeting between the President and J. P. Kelley, president of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R., however, today's conference was regarded as important.

Peirce, after his conference with the executive refused to reveal details, but did reveal that he and the nation's chief discussed rates, indebtedness and similar matters.

Sees Waterways Ratification
Eastman was the only scheduled caller today. Meanwhile the President mulled over in his mind the cheering words of Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the New York state power authority, embraced in a prediction that the next session of congress would ratify the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty. The last congress rejected Mr. Roosevelt's proposal that the pact be ratified, but the President did not give up. The proposed waterway from the mid-west to the sea, has long been a Roosevelt dream, and the executive expects to re-submit the treaty to congress when it convenes in January. Walsh openly predicted that the fight would be successful during the next twelve months.

Senate Armament Probe Continues

Sessions

By EUGENE J. CADOU
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Protests by United States government departments failed to deter the senate munitions committee today in its investigation of purported alliance between federal officials and the world armament ring.

Committee investigators are ready to submit evidence concerning the conversion of a U. S. navy cruiser into a "demonstrator" for the Driggs Engineering and Ordnance Company, a concern located in this country, which was trying to sell naval guns to Turkey.

Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota, committee chairman, and Senator Pope (D) of Idaho, committee member, admitted that objections to the revelation of certain documents had been made by at least one department of government. Nye said that in June he had appealed to President Roosevelt to forestall the revelation of governmental departments to aid the committee and that the president had ordered all governmental units to cooperate.

But Nye added that some departments now appear to be "unduly exercised" about the committee's disclosures.

The committee will hear evidence concerning the dispatching of the U. S. Cruiser Raleigh to Istanbul, Turkey, to aid Driggs Company's sales campaign.

It was learned the cruiser was in Mediterranean waters in 1928, when the navy department sent orders for it to proceed to Istanbul. There the Turkish officials inspected it, which were of the same type as that proposed for sale by the Driggs Company.

Unfortunately for the Driggs organization, the Turks failed to buy. Other evidence showed the Electric Boat Company paid in 1928 for the transportation to Europe of the wife and son of Capt. Alfred G. Howe, chief of the United Naval Mission to Peru. The company was selling submarines to Peru and the naval mission was a profound factor in the sales situation, according to the investigators.

The committee also will receive evidence concerning armament sales in Cuba before and after the flight of President Machado. Investigators have data indicating that American armaments corporation played a prominent part in the tempestuous revolutions and counter-revolutions in the pearl of the antilles.

ROSH HASHANAH—THE NEW YEAR

Beginning with Sunday evening, September 9, 1934, Jewry the world over will usher in the festival of New Year. Known in Hebrew as "Rosh Hashanah", Reform Judaism observes this holy day for one day—while Orthodox Jews observe two days. With the celebration of the New Year the Jewish people will open the year 5695 of the Hebrew calendar.

In ancient days when the Jewish people lived in Palestine and agriculture was their chief occupation, the Hebrew New Year's Day marked the opening of the economic year. It occurred in the beginning of autumn, because the season of the sowing of seeds began with the fall. This system of the agricultural cycle of the year was followed by Semite peoples. The Bible does not refer to this festival as the New Year's Day, but the Jewish people, no doubt, considered it as such at a very early date. In the days of the Temple at Jerusalem they observed this day by abstaining from all labor, by bringing special offerings to the Temple, and by blowing the Shofar—the ram's horn.

With the exile of the Jewish people from Palestine and their worldwide dispersion, the agricultural and economic background disappeared. The Jews however, continued to observe the New Year's Day as a purely religious festival, endowing it with a significant spiritual value. Rabbinic tradition identified it with the anniversary of the day upon which God had created the world and set it aside as the day upon which every human being and every living creature pass before God's judgment seat. For this reason, the Jewish New Year's Day has been called the "Day of Judgment". This idea gave rise to a elaborate liturgy and ritual which were to awaken man to the message of the Day and bring him to a state of penitence.

With the coming of the modern era in Jewish life this idea of the festival as a Day of Judgment has been greatly developed. Self-criticism, self-examination, repentance and the reconciliation with men and God became the chief values of the day; they are especially dominant in the Reform Jewish liturgy, making it a New Year of the heart rather than of the calendar.

The Shofar, or ram's horn, is still blown in the Synagogue today. Its purpose is to stir the heart of man and awaken him to the spirit of the solemn day. It is to remind man of his responsibilities to his fellowmen and of his obligations to God.

Cubs And Cards Staging Battle

Giants Are "About In";
Cubs And Cards Battling
For Second Money

By GENE LAWRENCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Now that everyone, including the grandstand managers, have agreed the New York Giants will meet the Detroit Tigers in the October World's Series baseball fans are turning interest toward the battle between the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs for runner-up place in the National League.

Today only one game separates them for the coveted position but that's because the one and only Jerome "Dizzy" Dean rang up his 24th mound victory of the season pitching the Brooklyn Dodgers into submission after the Giants walked the Cubs.

Dean Wins Again
However, with about 25 more games to be played before the 1935 season ends anything can happen.

As usual, Dean was effective, holding the Dodgers to three scattered hits as he won the game 2-1.

A three-run spurt in the sixth inning and Hal Schumacher's steady pitching enabled the Giants to beat the Cubs 5 to 1.

Pittsburgh picked up a full game on the fourth place Boston Braves when they defeated them 8 to 2. Swift allowed the Braves eight hits, one a home; by "Shanty" Hogan.

Bartell-Adams Scrap
To add a bit of spice to the Fays program Dick Bartell, of the Phillies and Sparky Adams, of the Reds, engaged in a bit of fistfighting during the game which Philadelphia won 1 to 0.

An argument over a decision on Bartell who was called out attempting to steal second started the fireworks. The boys traded punches but the players halted the scrap.

Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe, who couldn't beat Johnny Marcum to set a new American League pitching record with 17 straight victories last week turned the trick yesterday. He hurled the Detroit Tigers to a 4-2 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics in his first start since his string was broken. It was his 21st of the year.

Tigers Increase Lead
The Tigers moved six games in front of the New York Yankees who were idle.

The Cleveland Indians tightened their hold on third place, pounding out an 11-2 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

The St. Louis Browns turned back the Washington Senators 6 to 4 in the other game.

Gets Large Bass
In Wolf Creek

GROVE CITY, Sept. 6.—The 18 inch bass caught in Wolf Creek by G. A. Clay establishes the record catch out of the stream of the fish of which there is a record. E. H. Smith with a 14 inch bass out of Montgomery Dam is also a record. The average bass caught at the country club this year is 12 inches. The record catch of the year is 14 inches. The club rules do not admit of taking fish under 12 inches. But four a day are allowed.

SINGLE MEN WIN GAME
Single Men of the Shenango Tin Mill defeated the Married Men 16 to 5 in a football game at Cedar street field. J. Slosserick held the Married Men to nine scattered hits. Eight errors were hung up by the losers. This was the fifth game of the current series between the two teams. The Single Men carried off the championship. The Married Men won two out of the five games played.

Joe Bach—The boys look pretty good out there, but don't forget about nine of these eleven regulars of last year who are missing this season.

Punch will reign king in the Madison Square garden bowl in Long Island tonight and the Milk Fund of New York city should realize a handsome sum from the battle between Jimmy McLarnin and Barney Ross, former and present welterweight champion. Barney took the title from McLarnin recently in addition to which he owns the lightweight crown. Odds favor Ross to repeat his victory. McLarnin carries a splendid punch in his right hand while Barney's suit is cleverness and his followers are pinning on science to beat punch.

The ballyhoo for the Teddy Yarosz-Vince Dundee middleweight championship fight took on a different color today with the arrival of Jack Dempsey in Pittsburgh. It was due to Dempsey's liking for Bus Vogel, the matchmaker the championship scrap landed in Pittsburgh. Teddy has twice beaten Dundee. They will battle Tuesday night and the house it is reported must gross at least $50,000, before the promoters pocket a dime.

Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., yesterday eliminated Miss Marion E. Miley of Lexington, Ky., from the Mason and Sixon women's golf championship with a 1 up win in the quarter final round at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Germans Unsuccessful In Effort To Sell Submarines To Spain

(International News Service)
MADRID, Sept. 6.—German manufacturers have used "high pressure salesmanship" methods recently in an effort to sell submarines to Spain, it was learned today as high official sources gave careful study to cables telling of the munitions quiz disclosures in Washington.

The offers were rejected, it was learned, mainly because of Spain's decision to build her own submarine fleet as part of a large naval expansion program in the near future.

The German salesmen, it was said, concentrated their activities on the most modern and up-to-date "pocket type" undersea craft. Details of the salesmanship methods attempted were not revealed.

NEW WILMINGTON BASEBALL SEASON BROUGHT TO END

Climaxing one of the most successful seasons in recent years, the New Wilmington A. A. nine turned in their baseball suits on Labor Day after a split in a twin bill with the East Brook nine the morning encounter going to the East Brookers with the College Teachers winning out in the afternoon game.

Baseball, for many years, conspicuous by its absence in the community, hit a new high this year, and the local athletes went into every game with a decided fervor to win. Twenty eight games were won by the local aggregation and twelve were dropped. Eagleson and Patterson were credited with most of the wins.

The New Wilmington Juniors also folded up their equipment on Labor Day. Bob Eagleson bore the brunt of the attack for the Midget Club and is credited with ten wins, four losses.

Expect Big Crowd
The second meeting of New York's favorite fighter and the little man who is fast becoming so has the town by the throat all over again and when they ring the bell tonight for the start over the fifteen round championship distance, the crowd should be 35,000 and the gross will be over $100,000 with local Christmas fund benefiting accordingly. It will be the last big money fight of a season that has played to surprisingly brisk business.

The original Ross-McLarnin fight had its part in this renaissance. Supposed to be a common gallop for the one-punch man, it incited the witnesses to a point where they climbed over the backs of their chairs and finished blithering in the aisles. One official gave McLarnin twelve of the fifteen rounds. The other two gave him the back of their necks and, while dissenting opinions were by no means few, the majority concurred in the finding. Nevertheless, it was close.

They'll go in the scales with Ross fighting to stay a little more than 137. He has been around town for several days, apparently as indifferent as a man with the society news. McLarnin has remained smoldering up there at Orangeburg, sticking with his original plan to remain in camp until the morning of the fight. This time he had trained for a punching fight and doesn't figure to be under 145.

He's all for strength and durability, in fact, and apparently means to keep shooting with is punch until something happens.

McLarnin-Ross Fight Tonight

Barney Ross Is Favored To Defeat Jimmy McLarnin For Title

By DAVIS J. WALSH

International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Down there where the incandescents are as white as a bleaching bone, everything that remains of the one-punch man known as Jimmy McLarnin is to be staked tonight in a final desperate fling at the welterweight championship he lost somewhere down the middle of a split decision three months ago to Barney Ross.

No longer held in disdain as the short-ender, Ross was 7 to 5 in the betting this morning and ever was liable to leave James and his intellect irrevocably estranged, according to some including Ross. McLarnin, meantime, remained grim and uncommunicative, his very silence an over threat.

Cubs And Cards Staging Battle

Giants Are "About In";
Cubs And Cards Battling
For Second Money

By GENE LAWRENCE

International News Service Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Now that everyone, including the grandstand managers, have agreed the New York Giants will meet the Detroit Tigers in the October Series baseball fans are turning interest toward the battle between the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs for runner-up place in the National League.

Today only one game separates them for the coveted position, but that's because the one and only Jerome "Dizzy" Dean rang up his 24th mound victory of the season pitching the Brooklyn Dodgers into submission after the Giants wallowed the Cubs.

Dean Wins Again

However, with about 25 more games to be played before the 1934 season ends, anything can happen. As usual, Dean was effective, holding the Dodgers to three scattered hits as he won the game 2-1.

A three-run spurt in the sixth inning and Hal Schumacher's steady pitching enabled the Giants to beat the Cubs 5 to 1.

Pittsburgh picked up a full game on the fourth place Boston Braves when they defeated them 8 to 2. Swift followed the Braves eight hits, one a home, by "Shanty" Hogan.

Bartell-Adams Scrap

To add a bit of spice to the Fays program Dick Bartell, of the Phillies and Sparky Adams, of the Reds, engaged in a bit of fisticuffing during the game which Philadelphia won 1-0.

An argument over a decision on Bartell who was called out attempting to steal second started the fireworks. The boys traded punches but the players halted the scrap.

Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe, who couldn't beat Johnny Marcum to set a new American League pitching record with 17 straight victories last week turned the trick yesterday. He hurled the Detroit Tigers to a 4-2 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics in his first start since his string was broken. It was his 21st of the year.

Tigers Increase Lead

The Tigers moved six games in front of the New York Yankees who were idle.

The Cleveland Indians tightened their hold on third place pounding out an 11-2 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

The St. Louis Browns turned back the Washington Senators 6 to 4 in the other game.

Gets Large Bass
In Wolf Creek

GROVE CITY, Sept. 6.—The 18 inch bass caught in Wolf Creek by G. A. Clay establishes the record catch out of the stream of the fish of which there is a record. E. H. Smith with a 14 inch bass out of Montgomery Dam is also a record. The average bass caught at the country club this year is 12 inches. The record catch of the year is 14 inches. The club rules do not admit of taking fish under 12 inches. But four a day are allowed.

SINGLE MEN WIN GAME

Single Men of the Shenango Tin Mill defeated the Married Men 16 to 5 in a football game at Cedar street field. J. Slosser held the Married Men to nine scattered hits. Eight errors were hung up by the losers. This was the fifth game of the current series between the two teams. The Single Men carried off the championship. The Married Men won two out of the five games played.

LISTEN TO THIS

Harry Dubinsky, who recently defeated Tony Canzoneri, is the seventeen child in a family of 21 children. Windsor Lad was the third son of Blanford to win the English Derby, the others being Trigo in 1929 and Blenheim in 1930. Begolly is an end on this season's Geneva football team. Roger Bresnahan, old Giant catcher, was the first player to use shin guards. The 300 pound "Man Mountain" Dean who has been touring the country as a wrestler is an old timer. More than 10 years ago he was a 250 pound grappler known as Soldier Leavitt. Bill Tilden has only half of the second finger on his right hand, and he swings his racket right-handed. Jack Medina University of Washington swimming champion, estimates that he swims 30 miles a year. Baby Arizmendi, who recently won the featherweight title in New York, is a son of one of Pancho Villa's generals.

The great What-a-Man Shires, who baseball fans will remember as a player fighter with Chicago, Washington, and the Braves, is now Manager Art Shires. He was recently appointed to lead the Fort Worth team of the Texas league. Art boasts that he has settled down and is now a family man. Al Simmons, Whitesox star, is known to his pals as Duke. Ty Cobb led the American league batters for 9 successive seasons from 1907 to 1915 inclusive. In the National league Rogers Hornsby had a string of six years as a leader from 1920 through 1925. Leslie Munns, 6 foot 3, and Nick Tremark 5 feet, 4 and 3-4 inches, are roommates with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Joe Cicero, Italian outfielder in the New York Pennsylvania league is a cousin of Clark Gable, film star. Fred McLeod pro at the Columbia course at Washington, D. C., has used the same aluminum headed, wooden-shafted putter for 23 years.

Frank Navin, owner of the Tigers received a hot tip on a mound prospect in West Virginia. He dispatched a scout in a hurry who discovered to his amazement that the pitcher in question was a soft ball tosser. Sid Farrar, who played first base for the Philadelphia Nationals from 1882 through 1890 is the father of Geraldine Farrar, the opera singer. Babe Phelps, who is the same Phelps that played first base a few seasons ago with Youngstown in the Middle Atlantic league. A Baltimore chop is a bouncer that hits the plate and bounces high in the air. A base runner should not be credited with a stolen base when anyone trying a double or a triple steal with him is caught. The "Perfect Golf Course" built at Atlanta, Ga., by Bobby Jones, is really a composite of links on which the former champion has played in other lands. Every hole is, in part, reproduced from some favorite hole Bobby has encountered in his search for golfing honors.

Art Lasky—The percentage of Hebrew blood in Baer's veins is not nearly as large as the challenger's. He got for the Carnera fight. Why, he doesn't even observe the holidays.

Schoolboy Rowe—How my doin'? Frank Doljak—Schoolboy will take care of Carl Hubbell and then we should win in no more than five games.

Joe Bach—The boys look pretty good out there, but don't forget about nine of these eleven regulars of last year who are missing this season.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Leaders in the International Circuit race since the beginning of the season, the Newark Bears today were proudly waving the 1934 pennant following their win over the Syracuse Chiefs 4 to 1 yesterday.

A full five games ahead of the others, the Bears growled the Chiefs into submission in the ninth when Roy Schalk hit a homer with two on and two out to break a 1-1 tie. The honor of pitching Newark into the pennant went to Frank Mackosky, rookie right-hander and only New Jersey resident of the team.

Germans Unsuccessful In Effort To Sell Submarines To Spain

(International News Service)

MADRID, Sept. 6.—German manufacturers have used "high pressure salesmanship" methods recently in an effort to sell submarines to Spain, it was learned today as high official sources gave careful study to cables telling of the munitions quiz disclosures in Washington.

The offers were rejected, it was learned, mainly because of Spain's decision to build her own submarine force as part of a large naval expansion program in the near future.

The German salesmen, it was said, concentrated their activities on the most modern and up-to-date "pocket type" undersea craft. Details of the salesmanship methods attempted were not revealed.

McLarnin-Ross Fight Tonight

Barney Ross Is Favored To Defeat Jimmy McLarnin For Title

By DAVIS J. WALSH

International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Down there where the incandescents are as white as a bleaching bone, everything that remains of the one-punch man known as Jimmy McLarnin is to be staked tonight in a final desperate fling at the welterweight championship he lost somewhere down the middle of a split-decision three months ago to Barney Ross.

No longer held in disdain as the short-ender, Ross was 7 to 5 in the betting this morning and even was liable to leave James and his intellect irrevocably estranged, according to some including Ross. McLarnin, meantime, remained grim and uncommunicative, his very silence an over threat.

Expect Big Crowd

The second meeting of New York's favorite fighter and the little man who is fast becoming so has the town by the throat all over again and when they ring the bell tonight for the start over the fifteen round championship distance, the crowd should be 35,000 and the gross will be $150,000 with local Christmas fund benefiting accordingly. It will be the last big money fight of a season that has played to surprisingly brisk business.

The original Ross-McLarnin fight had its part in this renaissance. Supposed to be a common gallop for the one-punch man, it incited the witnesses to a point where they climbed over the backs of their chairs and finished blithering in the aisles. One official gave McLarnin twelve of the fifteen rounds. The other two gave him the back of their necks.

While dissenting opinions were by no means few, the majority concurred in the finding. Nevertheless, it was close.

They'll go in the scales with Ross figuring to do little more than 137. He has been around town for several days, apparently as indifferent as a man with the society news. McLarnin has remained smoldering up there at Orangeburg, sticking with his original plan to remain in camp until the morning of the fight. This time he had trained for a punching fight and doesn't figure to be under 145.

He's all for strength and durability, in fact, and apparently means to keep shooting with is punch until something happens.

Second thoughts oftentimes are the very worst of all thoughts—Shenstone.

On Court House Hill

Welfare Director, M. B. Hogue, is back at work again after a short vacation.

Letters testamentary in the estate of the late Dorothy Hill have been issued by the register and recorder to Peter J. Hill.

In the estate of the late Joseph Gurgel of Youngstown, O., a certificate showing the appointment of Mary Gurgel, as executor has been filed at the register and recorder's office.

Common pleas argument list for the September term of court has been issued by Prothonotary R. M. Campbell. It shows twelve cases on the common pleas docket, two in orphans' court and two in quarter sessions.

County Treasurer William O. Pitus has received a supply of hunting license blanks from Harrisburg and is now ready to issue 1934 licenses. The blanks had been held up owing to a rush at the printing department.

Another petition, that of Plaingrove township, has been filed at the county commissioners' office, asking that the Plaingrove ballots for the November election, contain a space for voting on the question of local option. This makes eight districts that have now filed similar petitions.

Records at the office of Register and Recorder William R. Hanna show that 1199 instruments of various kinds were filed during the month of August. This is the greatest number for any one month in several years. The total has been swayed by the recording of a large number of Home Owners Loan Corporation mortgages and by re-financing mortgages of building and loan associations. During the month there were 153 satisfactions of mortgages. The same causes operated to increase the number of satisfactions as old mortgages are satisfied when the Home Owners Loan Corporation or building and loans place new ones. Letters were granted in thirty estates during the month.

Application by Oleen E. Waltenbaugh, 108 North Mill street, for a divorce from George I. Waltenbaugh, North Cedar street, has been filed at the probatory's office, on the grounds of cruelty. The couple were married in April 1912 at Warren, Pa., and lived together until August, 1934. Accompanying the application is a petition for alimony, pending a disposition of the case, and for counsel fees. Judge Hildebrand issued a rule on the respondent to show cause why the prayer should not be granted. The rule is returnable September 10.

Among the cases which will come up for argument on a motion for a new trial at the September term of court, is that of Inex M. Holy, use of R. J. Totten against I. D. and Annie Long. This case grew out of a controversy over the payment of a mortgage on a farm in Neshannock township. Long's the purchasers, claiming that the amount of coal under the farm was not as represented at the time of purchase. The verdict was in favor of the defendants, and the plaintiff asked for a new trial and judgment notwithstanding the verdict.

New Wilmington borough citizens have presented a petition to the county commissioners, expressing a desire to have voting machines, and asking that electors of the borough be permitted to vote on the question at the November election. The commissioners are asked to have a space on the ballot which will enable voters to express their desires for or against the machines. The petition is signed by 65 residents of the borough. If it is carried at the election the county of Lawrence would be expected to purchase the machines. Several attempts have been made to have the county adopt voting machines, but the project has received very scant support. Machines cost something over $1000 apiece and are expensive to keep up. In addition there must be an inspector before each election to see if the machine is in working order. The county would have the same expense for election board as at present.

Cubs And Cards Staging Battle

Giants Are "About In";
Cubs And Cards Battling
For Second Money

By GENE LAWRENCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Now that everyone, including the grandstand managers, have agreed that the New York Giants will meet the Detroit Tigers in the October World Series baseball fans are turning interest toward the battle between the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs for runner-up place in the National League.

Today only one game separates them for the coveted position, but that's because the one and only Jerome "Lizzy" Dean rang up his 24th mound victory of the season pitching the Brooklyn Dodgers into submission after the Giants walked the Cubs.

Dean Wins Again
However, with about 25 more games to be played before the 1934 season ends, anything can happen.

As usual, Dean was effective, holding the Dodgers to three hits and two runs in a 2-1 victory. A three-run spurt in the sixth inning and Hal Schumacher's steady pitching enabled the Giants to beat the Cubs 5 to 1.

Pittsburgh picked up a full game on the fourth place Boston Braves when they defeated them 2 to 1. Swift allowed the Braves eight hits, one a home by "Shanty" Hogan.

Bartell Wins Scrap
To add a bit of spice to the Fays program Dick Bartell, of the Phillies and Sucky Adams, of the Reds, engaged in a bit of fistfighting during the game which Philadelphia won 1-0.

An argument over a decision on Bartell who was called out attempting to steal, second started the fireworks. The boys traded punches but the players halted the scrap.

Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe, who couldn't beat Johnny Marcum to set a new American League pitching record with 17 straight victories last week turned the trick yesterday. He hurled the Detroit Tigers to a 4-2 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics in his first start since his string was broken. It was his 21st of the year.

Tigers Increase Lead
The Tigers moved six games in front of the New York Yankees who were idle.

The Cleveland Indians tightened their hold on third place pounding out an 11-2 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

The St. Louis Browns turned back the Washington Senators 6 to 4 in the other game.

Begolly is an end on this season's Geneva football team. Rogger Bresnahan, old Giant catcher, was the first player to use shin guards. The 300 pound "Man Mountain" Dean who has been touring the country for 10 years ago he was a 250 pound grapple known as Soldier Levitt. Bill Tilden has only half of the second finger on his right hand, and he swings his racket right-handed. Jack Medina University of Washington swimming champion, estimates that he swims 30 miles a year. Baby Arizmendi, who recently won the featherweight title in New York is a son of one of Pancho Villa's generals.

The great What-a-Man Shires, who baseball fans will remember as a player fighting with Chicago, Washington, and the Braves, is now Manager Art Shires. He was recently appointed to lead the Fort Worth team of the Texas League. Art boasts that he has settled down and is now a family man. At Simmons, Whitesox star, is known to his pals as "Big Boy" Cobb led the American League batters for 9 successive seasons from 1907 to 1915. In the National League Rogers Hornsby had a string of six years as a leader from 1920 through 1925. Leslie Munns, 6 foot 3, and Nick Treanor 5 feet 4 and 3-4 inches, are roommates with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Joe Cicero, Italian outfielder in the New York Pennsylvania league is a cousin of Clark Gable, film star. Fred McLeod pro at the Columbia course at Washington, D. C. has used the same aluminum headed, wooden-shafted putter for 23 years.

Frank Navin, owner of the Tigers received a hot tip on a mound prospect in West Virginia. He dispatched a scout in a hurry who discovered to his amazement that the pitcher in question was a soft ball tosser. Sid Farrar, who played first base for the Philadelphia Nationals from 1882 through 1880 is the father of Geraldine Farrar, the opera singer. Babe Phelps, who is the same Phelps that played first base a few seasons ago with Youngstown in the Middle Atlantic league. A Baltimore chop is a bouncer that hits the plate and bounces high in the air. A base runner should not be credited with a stolen base when anyone trying a double or a triple steal with him is caught. Every hole is, in part, reproduced from some favorite hole Bobby has encountered in his search for golfing honors.

Art Lasky—The percentage of Hober blood in Baer's veins is not nearly as large as the challenger's out he got for the Carnera fight. Why, he doesn't even observe the holidays.
Schoolboy Rowe—How my doin'? Frank Doljak—Schoolboy will take care of Carl Hubbell and then we should win in no more than five games.
Joe Bach—The boys look pretty good out there, but don't forget about nine of these eleven regulars of last year who are missing this season.

Punch will reign king in the Madison Square garden bowl in Long Island tonight and the Milk Fund of New York city should realize a handsome sum from the battle between Jimmy McLarin and Barney Ross, former and present welterweight champion. Barney took the title from McLarin recently in addition to which he owns the lightweight crown. Odds favor Ross to repeat his victory. McLarin carries a splendid punch in his right hand while Barney's suit is cleverness and his followers are pinning on science to beat punch.

The ballyhoo for the Teddy Yarns-Vince Dundee middleweight championship fight took on a different color today with the arrival of Jack Dempsey in Pittsburgh. It was due to Dempsey's liking for Gus Vogel, the matchmaker the championship scrap landed in Pittsburgh. Teddy has twice beaten Dundee. They will battle Tuesday night and the house it is reported must gross at least $50,000, before the promoters pocket a dime.

McLarin-Ross Fight Tonight

Barney Ross Is Favored To Defeat Jimmy McLarin For Title

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Down there where the incandescents are as white as a bleaching bone, everything that remains of the one-punch man known as Jimmy McLarin is to be staked tonight in a final desperate fling at the welterweight championship he lost somewhere down the middle of a split-decision three months ago to Barney Ross.

No longer held in disdain as the short-ender, Ross was 7 to 5 in the betting this morning and even was liable to leave James and his intellect irrevocably estranged, according to some including Ross. McLarin, meantime, remained grim and uncommunicative, his very silence an over threat.

Expect Big Crowd
The second meeting of New York's favorite fighter and the little man who is fast becoming so has the town by the throat all over again and when they ring the bell tonight for the start over the fifteen round championship distance, the crowd should do $50,000 and the gross well beyond $150,000 with local Christmas fund benefiting accordingly. It will be the last big money fight of a season that has played to surprisingly brisk business.

The original Ross-McLarin fight had its part in this renaissance. Supposed to be a common gallop for the one-punch man, it ended the witnesses to a point where they climbed over the backs of their chairs and finished blithering in the aisles. One official gave McLarin twelve of the fifteen rounds. The other two gave him the back of their necks and, while dissenting opinions were by no means few, the majority concurred in the finding. Nevertheless, it was clear.

They'll go in the series with Ross figuring to do little more than 137. He has been around town for several days, apparently as indifferent as a man with the society news. McLarin has remained smoldering up there at Orangeburg, sticking to his original plan to remain in camp till the morning of the fight. This time he had trained for a punching fight and doesn't figure to be under 145.

He's all for strength and durability, in fact, and apparently means to keep shooting with is punch until something happens.

Germans Unsuccessful In Effort To Sell Submarines To Spain

(International News Service)
MADRID, Sept. 6.—German manufacturers have used "high pressure salesmanship" methods recently in an effort to sell submarines to Spain. It was learned today as high official sources gave careful study to cables telling of the munitions quiz disclosures in Washington.

The offers were rejected. It was learned, mainly because of Spain's decision to build her own submarines here as part of a large naval expansion program in the near future.

The German salesmen, it was said, concentrated their activities on the most modern and up-to-date "pocket type" undersize craft. Details of the salesmanship methods attempted were not revealed.

New Wilmington Baseball Season Brought To End

Climaxing one of the most successful seasons in recent years, the New Wilmington A. A. nine turned in their baseball suits on Labor Day after a split in a twin bill with the East Brook nine, the morning encounter going to the East Brookers with the College Towners winning out in the afternoon game.

Baseball, for many years, conspicuous by its absence in the community, hit a new high this year, and the local athletes went into every game with a decided fervor to win. Twenty eight games were won by the local aggregation and twelve were dropped. Eagleson and Patterson were credited with most of the wins.

The New Wilmington Juniors also folded up their equipment on Labor Day. Bob Eagleson bore the brunt of the attack for the Midnet Club and is credited with ten wins, four losses.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—Eddie McCluskey, Johnstown's red-headed ex-puglist mayor, today opened his independent campaign for the United States senatorship with a blast at the Republican and Democratic nominees, United States Senator David A. Reed and Joseph F. McGuffey.

"Reed and McGuffey are just a pair of Siamese twins as far as I'm concerned," said Johnstown's outspoken mayor. "They're both Mellon men and one's as bad as the other."

Nominating petitions placing McCluskey in the race as the candidate of the national organized unions ticket were filed at the state bureau of elections late yesterday afternoon.

LEGAL NOTICES

On Court House Hill

Welfare Director, M. B. Hogue, is back at work again after a short vacation.

Letters testamentary in the estate of the late Dorothy Hill have been issued by the register and recorder to Peter J. Hill.

In the estate of the late Josef Gurgi of Youngstown, O., a certificate showing the appointment of Maria Gurgi, as executor has been filed at the register and recorder's office.

Common pleas argument list for the September term of court has been issued by Prothonotary R. M. Campbell. It shows twelve cases on the common pleas docket, two in orphan's court and two in quarter sessions.

County Treasurer William O. Pitts has received a supply of hunting license blanks from Harrisburg, and is now ready to issue 1934 licenses. The blanks had been held up owing to a rush at the printing department.

Another petition, that of Plaingrove township, has been filed at the county commissioners' office, asking that the township be set apart for the November election, contain a space for voting on the question of local option. This makes eight districts that have now filed similar petitions.

Records at the office of Register and Recorder William R. Hanna show that 1199 instruments of various kinds were filed during the month of August. This is the greatest number for any one month in several years. The total has been swelled by the recording of a large number of Home Owners Loan corporation mortgages and by re-financing mortgages of building and loan associations. During the month there were 153 satisfactions of mortgages. The same causes operated to increase the number of satisfactions as old mortgages are satisfied when the Home Owners Loan Corporation or building and loans place new ones. Letters were granted in thirty estates during the month.

Application by Oileen E. Waltenbaugh, 108 North Mill street, for a divorce from George I. Waltenbaugh, North Cedar street, has been filed at the prothonotary's office, on the grounds of cruelty. The couple were married in April 1912 at Warren, Pa., and lived together until August, 1934. Accompanying the application is a petition for alimony, pending a disposition of the case, and for counsel fees. Judge Hildebrand issued a rule on the respondent to show cause why the prayer should not be granted. The rule is returnable September 10.

Among the cases which will come up for argument on a motion for a new trial at the September term of court, is that of Inex M. Holy, use of R. J. Totten against I. D. and Annie Long. This case grew out of a controversy over the payment of a mortgage on a farm in Nesmith township, Long's the purchasers, claiming that the amount of coal under the farm was not as represented at the time of purchase. The verdict was in favor of the defendants, and the plaintiff asked for a new trial and judgment notwithstanding the verdict.

New Wilmington borough citizens have presented a petition to the county commissioners, expressing a desire to have voting machines, and asking that electors of the borough be permitted to vote on the question at the November election. The commissioners are asked to have a space on the ballot which will enable voters to express their desires for or against the machines. The petition is signed by 65 residents of the borough. If it is carried at the election the county of Lawrence would be expected to purchase the machines. Several attempts have been made to have the county adopt voting machines, but the project has received very scant support. Machines cost something over $1000 apiece and are expensive to keep up. In addition there must be an inspector before each election to see if the machine is in working order. The county would have the same expense for election board as at present.

Stock Market Rally Halted
Market Makes Feeble Effort
To Carry Through General
Rally Of Wednesday

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The stock market made a feeble attempt to carry through with yesterday's general rally, but met with little success today. The easier tone which was apparent in the list right from the opening came in the face of renewed strength in commodity markets. Weakness developed in the steel shares. Bethlehem and United States Steel opened fractionally lower, as did a number of other industrial shares.

Alaska Juneau was a conspicuous weak spot in the gold shares, getting down a point to its year's low. Other mining shares were comparatively steady.

In the motor group there was little activity, and both General Motors and Chrysler held in a narrow range.

Plan To Fortify
Midway Islands

United States Will Fortify
Pacific Islands If Japan
Carries Out Threat

Fortification Plans Provide
For Aerial Bases And Defense Strengthening

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Modern plans were completed today by the navy department for fortifying the midway islands, Guam, Samoa and other American possessions in the Pacific if Japan carries out its threat to abrogate the Washington naval treaty.

Meanwhile the navy high command moved forward with plans to increase generally the defensive powers of the American fleet in the Pacific.

Make Thorough Study

In fact, the navy has made a thorough study of the question of strengthening the U. S. defense position in the so-called American sphere of the Pacific in view of the uncertain state of affairs in the Far East and the danger of a conflict between Japan and Soviet Russia.

This study has extended to Alaska, where data now is being gathered for plans to strengthen the defense works and even fortify that northern territory. Naval experts are convinced that if the United States become involved in a war with any oriental power, the first battleground probably would be the fog-bound and treacherous waters of the Aleutian Islands.

The United States agreed under the Washington Treaty not to fortify Guam, Samoa, the Midway Islands and other American possessions not then fortified.

However, Secretary of the Navy Swanson said only last May that the willingness of the United States to restrict its naval fortifications in the Pacific would have to be reconsidered if Japan decided to abrogate the Washington Treaty.

DELIVER NEW MOTORCYCLE

Police Department Equipment Enhanced By Boxing Bouts

Delivery of a new Harley-Davidson motorcycle was made to the city police department today. The cycle was purchased from some of the money made by the boxing show which was staged at Taggart stadium, August 10.

The motorcycle is a cobalt blue with orange trimmings. The under part is painted black. The side car which will be attached will also be painted to harmonize with the rest of the machine.

It has a siren and also a radio receiver. It is said that it is one of the first motorcycles to be equipped for the reception of police radio messages.

It will not be put into operation until the return of Motorcycle Patrolman Ray Shalter, who is confined to his home by illness.

ELLWOOD ELEVEN
SHAPING UP WELL

Many Veteran Men Cause
Coaches And Local Fans
To Be Enthused

ONLY WEEK AWAY

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 6.—Local sports fans who have been watching the workouts of the Ellwood High grid squad for nearly two weeks, have done so with eyes open wide, as they viewed the energetic ability of a veteran squad. The result is, that there is much enthusiasm being expressed over Ellwood High's prospects for the 1934 grid season.

Even the pessimistic local coaches have been tactful when questioned as to the prospects this year, which is more or less a favorable sign. During the workouts for the past two weeks there was little said, but much work done. The squad of over 60 aspirants is well conditioned and drilled in fundamentals.

The workouts and two recent scrimmage sessions impress the writer that the strongest eleven to represent Ellwood High in the past three years will be on the field. Much zest and determination is being evinced on the practice field. There is a merry battle on for positions. An impressive thing is that there is a wealth of material to work with. And more interesting yet—that this material is nearly all veteran.

In other words Coach "Ganz" Benedict and his assistant, Mike Ferrara, have two teams that have had two years of experience with them. They have one set of light, speedy, and elusive backfield men and two forward walls that would brighten the face and heart of any high school coach. Another set of backs of new material is being rapidly developed. Out of last year's varsity team only the center was lost. Mike Kraynak and Abe Pratt are having a merry battle for this. Alex Roebuck and Mazzano of last year's reserves seem to be the best prospects for the signal barking position held by Ken Bunney last year. Bill Young and John Lamenza, halfbacks, and Tony Scopellite, fullback, have seen sufficient varsity ball last year to be classed as regulars and are back again this year.

A veteran line of Bettini and Loccasiano at the ends, Rocco and Marcini at the tackles, Steckman and Kaufman at the guards, and Pratt or Kraynak at center has been lining up. Jeannette, last year's regular left end, has also been seen frequently in the line-up. This makes it a strong, heavy, and aggressive forward wall.

Other valuable men who are expected to see much action are Hughes, Flanagan, Dadds, Metz, H. Young, L. French, Dave Luxenberg, J. Pishonieri, Heisner, Deemer, Bogansky, Cusato, Stillwagon, Arkwright, Ottoviano, Frisk and Thornhill.

King again will be in his position as fullback and key man to Coach Hank Dyer of Lawrence, where he played a stellar role last year before being injured. High School Diploma
Can Be Acquired In Night School Here

Many Local People To Be Given Opportunity To Finish Their Course

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 6.—The Ellwood City night school is interested in getting 20 or 30 more women who wish to graduate from high school. The high school is offering these courses this year in a special attempt to interest those who quit school before graduation.

For those who have finished the eighth grade the school offers English and civics and for those who are more advanced business law will be given. These courses carry full high school credit and can be used by anyone needing these credits for graduation.

The night school administration is especially anxious to help those who were unfortunate enough to leave school without a high school diploma. In some cases only a few credits are necessary for graduation in others, four years work must be accomplished. The night school plan calls for a rotation of courses year after year so that eventually anyone needing credits to graduate will have the opportunity to earn them. A consultation with the night school director is advised for anyone interested.

You can register for these courses September 12 and 14 in the Lincoln building from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Mayor Semmes Walmsley Of New Orleans Is "Warming Up" In Great Style

THOUSANDS CHEER FOR CONTESTANTS

By ROBERT G. NIXON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 6.—As fast as Huey Long sets 'em up—Mayor Semmes Walmsley knocks 'em down. This was the titillating added attraction in Louisiana's political side-show that today held the natives spellbound.

In fact, with the lotteries, dice games and roulette wheels nailed shut under the hammer of Senator "I-Ain't-Had-A-Drink-In-Eight-Months" Long's moral crusade, the boys and girls were laying bets along Canal street and in Exchange alley on the outcome of this bucolic, country fair game of "the nigger."

Walmsley Warm's Up

The odds were fast falling on Huey for Semmes was warming up his pitching arm in fine shape and putting the ball where he wanted. Two of Huey's star testifiers in his heard-but-not-seen radio show have been pasted squarely on the noggin.

One was recovering today behind jail bars, the other spent a night in jail and faces a recorder's judgement.

Everybody down New Orleans was having been asking "what's Semmes going to do about it?"—and Semmes is showing them.

Semmes, it seems, is on trial. A lot of his boys are on trial, too—his police chief, some of his judges, his prosecuting attorney, his commission councilmen, most of his police force.

REPORTS CONFLICT ON STRIKE EFFECT

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6.—Joined by additional thousands, the ranks of striking textile workers continued to mount hourly today throughout the vast realm of the eastern Pennsylvania textile industry.

While mill operations in many sections of the state continued to minimize the extent of the walkout, union leaders in Philadelphia claimed the general textile strike has now become 50 to 60 per cent effective in Pennsylvania.

Although reports from all mill centers in Pennsylvania indicated a "spotty" condition prevailing everywhere, several strategic points declared the strike 100 per cent effective, chief among the latter were Lebanon, Columbia, Shamokin and Kutztown.

The vast majority of strikers were in the silk industry, while only a "scattering" of cotton employees—in whose aid the other textile trades walked out—had left their looms in Pennsylvania.

Reports indicated that 30,000 silk workers are in the strike ranks, now estimated to have reached a maximum of 65,000.

A threatening situation presented itself today in many upstate towns where workers of closed mills were laying plans for invading neighboring towns with picket lines.

No Disturbance.

Thus far, Pennsylvania has been virtually free from disorder or violence of any sort. Picketing has been conducted quietly.

Latest reports from the central mill centers affected by the strike were received as follows:

Philadelphia—William F. Kelly, generalissimo of the strike in Pennsylvania, announced the closing of two additional mills in Philadelphia, bringing the total number of strikers to 7,000. Seven pickets were arrested on disorderly conduct charges for hurling verbal jibes at strike-breakers.

Conshohocken—A menacing situation presented itself here today. About 150 strikers from nearby Norristown, who late yesterday held employees barricaded in the H. C. Jones woolen mill for nearly an hour, were laying plans to renew the siege. A union leader ended the trouble yesterday, but warned workers serious trouble would follow if they attempted to enter the plant today.

Lebanon—With all nine mills, employing 1500, closed down, strikers were on picket duty.

Allentown—The 125 workers at the Majestic silk mill joined the strike as plans are made for concentrating the union's drive next week in Allentown. Eastern and other spots where response to the walkout call has not met expectations.

York—Union leaders report seven out of eight mills closed and only 25 of 400 workers at their looms in the eighth plant.

Bethlehem—Labor leaders predicted a complete tieup of the silk industry here within two days. At present 50 per cent of the workers are out. Pickets were on the job early today.

Shamokin—Not a single picket was on duty here, although all plants, employing 3300 silk workers, are shut down. Operators were making no effort to run their mills with strike-breakers.

Columbia—The general textile strike was 100 per cent effective here. Five mills are closed.

Strike

REPORTS CONFLICT ON STRIKE EFFECT

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6.—Joined by additional thousands, the ranks of striking textile workers continued to mount hourly today throughout the vast realm of the eastern Pennsylvania textile industry.

While mill operations in many sections of the state continued to minimize the extent of the walkout, union leaders in Philadelphia claimed the general textile strike has now become 50 to 60 per cent effective in Pennsylvania.

Although reports from all mill centers in Pennsylvania indicated a "spotty" condition prevailing everywhere, several strategic points declared the strike 100 per cent effective, chief among the latter were Lebanon, Columbia, Shamokin and Kutztown.

The vast majority of strikers were in the silk industry, while only a "scattering" of cotton employees—in whose aid the other textile trades walked out—had left their looms in Pennsylvania.

Reports indicated that 30,000 silk workers are in the strike ranks, now estimated to have reached a maximum of 65,000.

A threatening situation presented itself today in many upstate towns where workers of closed mills were laying plans for invading neighboring towns with picket lines.

No Disturbance.

Thus far, Pennsylvania has been virtually free from disorder or violence of any sort. Picketing has been conducted quietly.

Latest reports from the central mill centers affected by the strike were received as follows:

Philadelphia—William F. Kelly, generalissimo of the strike in Pennsylvania, announced the closing of two additional mills in Philadelphia, bringing the total number of strikers to 7,000. Seven pickets were arrested on disorderly conduct charges for hurling verbal jibes at strikebreakers.

Conshohocken—A menacing situation presented itself here today. About 150 strikers from nearby Norristown, who late yesterday held employees barricaded in the H. C. Jones woolen mill for nearly an hour, were laying plans to renew the siege. A union leader ended the trouble yesterday, but warned workers serious trouble would follow if they attempted to enter the plant today.

Lebanon—With all nine mills, employing 1500, closed down, strikers were on picket duty.

Allentown—The 125 workers at the Majestic silk mill joined the strike as plans are made for concentrating the union's drive next week in Allentown, Easton and other spots where response to the walkout call has not met expectations.

York—Union leaders report seven out of eight mills closed and only 25 of 400 workers at their looms in the eighth plant.

Bethlehem—Labor leaders predicted a complete tieup of the silk industry here within two days. At present 50 per cent of the workers are out. Pickets were on the job early today.

Shamokin—Not a single picket was on duty here, although all plants employing 3300 silk workers are shut down. Operators were making no effort to run their mills with strikebreakers.

Columbia—The general textile strike was 100 per cent effective here. Five mills are closed.

Stock Market Rally Halted
Market Makes Feeble Effort
To Carry Through General
Rally Of Wednesday

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The stock market made a feeble attempt to carry through yesterday's general rally, but met with little success today. The easier tone which was apparent in the last right from the opening came in the face of renewed strength in commodity markets. Weakness developed in the steel shares. Bethlehem and United States Steel opened fractionally lower, as did a number of other industrial shares.

Alaska Juneau was a conspicuous weak spot in the gold share, retreating down a point to its year low. Other mining shares were comparatively steady.

In the motor group there was little activity, and both General Motors and Chrysler held in a narrow range.

Plan To Fortify
Midway Islands

United States Will Fortify
Pacific Islands If Japan
Carries Out Threat

Fortification Plans Provide
For Aerial Bases And Defense Strengthening

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
(Copyright, 1934, International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Modern plans were completed today by the navy department for fortifying the Midway Islands, Guam, Samoa and other American possessions in the Pacific if Japan carries out its threat to abrogate the Washington naval treaty.

Meanwhile the navy high command moved forward with plans to increase generally the defensive powers of the American fleet in the Pacific.

The fortification plans provide for establishment of aerial bases on several of those islands and strengthening of the defense works in the Hawaiian, in case of aerial attack, and at Pearl Harbor.

Whether the plans would be put into effect if Japan renounces the Washington treaty would be up to President Roosevelt to decide, but the navy has decided to be fully prepared if such action is deemed necessary.

Make Thorough Study

In fact, the navy has made a thorough study of the question of strengthening the U. S. defense position in the so-called American sphere of the Pacific in view of the uncertain state of affairs in the Far East and the danger of a conflict between Japan and Soviet Russia.

This study has extended to Alaska, where data now is being gathered for plans to strengthen the defense works and even Naval operations in that territory. Naval operations have been involved in a war with any oriental power, the first battle-ground probably would be the fog-bound and treacherous waters of the Aleutian Islands.

The United States agreed under the Washington Treaty not to fortify Guam, Samoa, the Midway Islands and other American possessions not then fortified.

However, Secretary of the Navy, C. G. Messersmith, said today that the willingness of the United States to respect the treaty would be reconsidered if Japan decided to abrogate the Washington Treaty.

SHAPING UP WELL

Many Veteran Men Cause
Coaches And Local Fans
To Be Enthused

ONLY WEEK AWAY

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 6.—Local sports fans who have been watching the workouts of the Ellwood High grid squad for nearly two weeks, have done so with eyes open wide, as they viewed the energetic ability of a veteran squad.

High's prospects for the 1934 grid season.

Even the pessimistic local coaches have been taciturn when questioned as to the prospects this year, which is more or less a favorable sign.

During the workouts for the past two weeks there was little said, but much work done. The squad of over 60 aspirants is well conditioned and drilled in fundamentals.

The workouts and two recent scrimmage sessions impress the writer as the strongest eleven to represent Ellwood High in the past three years will be on the field. Much zest and determination is being evinced on the practice field. There is a merry battle on for positions. An impressive thing is that there is a wealth of material to work with. And more interesting yet—this is that this material is nearly all veteran.

In other words Coach "Gandy" Benedict and his assistant, Mike Ferrare, have two teams that have had two years of experience with them. They have one set of light, speedy, and elusive backfield men and two forward walls that would brighten the face and heart of any high school coach.

Another set of backs of new material is being rapidly developed. Out of last year's varsity team only the center was left. Mike Krzyzak and Abe Pratt are having a merry battle for last year's reserves. Scen to be the best prospects for the signal, barking position held by Ken Bunney last year. Bill Young and John Lamenza, half-backs, and Tony Scopellito, fullback, have seen sufficient varsity ball last year to be classed as regulars and are back again this year.

A veteran line of Bettini and Locasciano at the ends, Rocco and Marcus at the tackles, Steckman and Kaufman at the guards, and Pratt or Krzyzak at center has been lining up. Jeannette, last year's regular left end, has also been seen in the line-up. This makes it a strong, heavy, and aggressive forward wall.

Other valuable men who are expected to see much action are Hughes, Flannagan, Dadds, Metz, H. Young, L. French, Dave Luxenberg, Boshonier, Helsner, Deemer, Bogansky, Gusato, Sullivan, Arkwright, Ottaviano, Frisk and Thornhill.

High School Diploma
Can Be Acquired In Night School Here

Many Local People To Be Given Opportunity To Finish Their Course

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 6.—The Ellwood City night school is interested in getting 20 or 30 men or women who wish to graduate from high school. The high school is offering those courses this year in a special attempt to interest those who quit school before graduation.

For those who have finished the eighth grade the school offers English and civics and for those who are more advanced business law will be given. These courses can be used by anyone needing these credits for graduation.

The night school administration is especially anxious to help those who were unfortunate enough to leave school without a high school diploma. In some cases only a few credits are necessary for graduation in others, four years work must be accomplished. The night school plan calls for a rotation of courses year after year so that eventually anyone needing credits to graduate will have the opportunity to earn them. A consultation with the night school director is advised for anyone interested.

You can register for these courses September 12 and 14 in the Lincoln building from 7 to 9 o'clock.

REPORTS CONFLICT ON STRIKE EFFECT

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6.—Joined by additional thousands, the ranks of striking textile workers continued to mount hourly today throughout the vast realm of the eastern Pennsylvania textile industry.

While mill operations in many sections of the state continued to minimize the extent of the walkout, union leaders in Philadelphia claimed the general textile strike has now become 50 to 60 per cent effective in Pennsylvania.

Although reports from all mill centers in Pennsylvania indicated a "spotty" condition prevailing everywhere, several strategic points declared the strike 100 per cent effective, chief among the latter were Lebanon, Columbia, Shamokin and Kutztown.

The vast majority of strikers were in the silk industry, while only a "scattering" of cotton employees—in whose aid the other textile trades walked out—had left their looms in Pennsylvania.

Reports indicated that 30,000 silk workers are in the strike ranks, now estimated to have reached a maximum of 65,000.

A threatening situation presented itself today in many upstate towns where workers of closed mills were laying plans for invading neighboring towns with picket lines.

No Disturbance.
Thus far, Pennsylvania has been virtually free from disorder or violence of any sort. Picketing has been conducted quietly.

Latest reports from the central mill centers affected by the strike were received as follows:

Philadelphia—William F. Kelly, generalissimo of the strike in Pennsylvania, announced the closing of two additional mills in Philadelphia, bringing the total number of strikers to 7,000. Seven pickets were arrested on disorderly conduct charges for hurling verbal jibes at strike-breakers.

Conshohocken—A menacing situation presented itself here today. About 150 strikers from nearby Norristown, who late yesterday held emblems barricaded in the H. C. Jones woolen mill for nearly an hour, were laying plans to renew the siege. A union leader ended the trouble yesterday, but warned workers serious trouble would follow if they attempted to enter the plant today.

Lebanon—With all nine mills, employing 1500, closed down, strikers were on picket duty.

Allentown—The 125 workers at the majestic silk mill joined the strike as plans are made for concentrating the union's drive next week in Allentown, Easton and other spots where response to the walkout call has not met expectations.

York—Union leaders report seven out of eight mills closed and only 25 of 400 workers at their looms in the eighth plant.

Bethlehem—Labor leaders predicted a complete tieup of the silk industry here within two days. At present 50 per cent of the workers are out. Pickets were on the job early today.

Shamokin—Not a single picket was on duty here, although all plants, employing 3300 silk workers, are shut down. Operators were making no effort to run their mills with strike-breakers.

Columbia—The general textile strike was 100 per cent effective here. Five mills are closed.

Cases Of Alleged Dillinger Aides Before Grand Jury

Attorney And Doctors Are Defendants—Girl To Give Testimony

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—Federal grand jury action was anticipated today in the case of Attorney Louis Piquett, former city prosecutor, two physicians and three others charged with harboring the late John Dillinger and his slain henchman, Homer Van Meter.

Among those to testify during the six hour session was Marie Comforti, reputed sweetheart of Van Meter before he met death in a St. Paul police trap.

Federal authorities charged that Piquett, who acted as attorney for the quick-shooting Dillinger, was the payoff man in arranging for the plastic surgery operations that gave Dillinger and Van Meter facial disguises. The two physicians charged with performing the operations, Harold Bernard Cassidy and Wilhelm Loeser, are among the seven under arrest for harboring Dillinger.

(International News Service)
HONEA PATH, S. C.,
Sept. 6.—Six cotton textile strikers were killed and
nearly a score wounded to-
mill.

The dead and practically all of the wounded were pickets, who, armed with clubs, attempted to prevent the day shift from going on duty.

The loyal workers, all of whom had been deputized, opened fire with shot guns and pistols, driving off
the pickets.

When the riotous scene had subsided, the ground was studded with
the dead, dying and seriously
wounded.

Ambulances, summoned from Anderson, nearby, rushed the seriously injured to the hospital at Anderson, where it was found that at least six pickets had suffered serious
wounds. One of these was so seriously shot that his recovery was doubtful.

The Dead:
Lee Crawford, 25,
Yancey (CQ) Yarbrough, 50.
Dr. Davis, 22.
Bill Knight, 50.

PA NEW OBSERVES

At the corner of East Washington and Mill streets on Wednesday afternoon, Young Pa Newc counted eight motorists making left hand turns at this point. The sign on the bottom of the stop light which reads "no left turns" is hard to read.
Perhaps a little paint might help.
Young Pa Newc suggests.

Late summer flower gardens were never more beautiful than they are at the present time. The extremely wet weather during the latter part of July and all through August has brought flower gardens to a wonderful stage of perfection.

Workmen are today painting the exterior window frames of the First National Bank Building.

Still more down town alley ways are being resurfaced Pa Newc notes.

Rather more than usual registrations were received at the second precinct headquarters of the second ward, East North street, this morning. The rush never occurs until the afternoon hours however. When Pa Newc was in there Civil War Veteran Philip Wagner was being registered.

Russian Debt Parley Near Final Break

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Complete collapse of the debt negotiations between the United States and
acting Secretary of State R. Walton
Moore today.

He announced that an American
move to revive the negotiations had failed owing to Moscow's adamant stand on excessive demands as the price for its willingness to meet
American debt and damage claims.

Confessing that the situation appeared hopeless, Moore said this government would make no further effort to continue discussions with Soviet Russia unless Moscow took
the initiative.

(International News Service)
BRACEBRIDGE, Ont., Sept. 6.—
The hideout cottage in which John Labatt, wealthy London, Ont. brewer, was held by kidnappers, has been found, and police have learned that it was rented by three Americans who said they were from Flint, Mich.

This was disclosed today as the investigation into the mysterious "snatching" and subsequent release of Labatt took new life.

The kidnappers hideout, according to high authorities here, was a clapboard cottage on the shores of Lake Muskoka, about 15 miles from Bracebridge.

Horace E. Prouse, owner of the cottage, said he showed it to three Americans on Aug. 4.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—
The federal cash spigot was turned on again today to supply the state's 300,000 needy families with $10,500,000 for September relief
while Gov. Gifford Pinchot labored on the text of his proclamation calling the legislature into special session next Wednesday at noon.

The State Emergency Relief board will meet at 2:30 (EST) this afternoon to apportion the federal funds to the counties.

Announcement of the September grant was made in Washington by Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, after a conference with Eric H. Biddle, executive director of the Pennsylvania State Emergency Relief board.

Hopkins had previously indicated that the federal pocketbook would again be opened to the state upon convocation of the legislature to deal with the relief question.

Scope of Session Unsettled.

Here After Six Years Missionary Service Among Chinese People

A vivid picture of Catholic missionary work in China was painted
in words this morning by Mother
Genevieve of the St. Joseph's motherhouse at Beian, as she talked enthusiastically of the past six and one half years which she spent at
St. Paul's Mission in Yuencho,
Hunan, China.

Mother Genevieve said she was loathe to leave China as she had become very fond of her work among the orphans and aged principally, as
at the mission they have a boys'
school, a girls' school and an old ladies' home. The orphans and old persons are principally from the very poor class of Chinese and the dispensary, which is connected with the mission, is a busy place, as the sick of the community come here
for treatment.

At the mission are six nuns and two priests, two of the nuns are graduate nurses and two more are trained in nursing. Mother Genevieve said they become very fond of the Chinese children and they respond most kindly to the gentle
treatment they receive in the home.
She said the nuns have access to

Worst Clash Of Day Occurs In South Carolina; Six Pickets
Shot To Death; Both Sides Firm In Strike Stand Despite Bloodshed; Strike Committee Head Declares
There'll Be No Arbitration Until All Mills Are Closed.

International News Service
Open warfare between strikers and non-strikers
flamed in the south today as the general textile strike
tightened its grip on the nation's industrial areas and death toll of riots rose to ten.

Six strike pickets were killed at Honea Path, S. C.,
and nearly a score more were wounded, several seriously,
when loyal workers of the Chiquola mill opened fire on a picket line seeking to prevent the day shift starting work.

Clubbing fiercely, the pickets charged the workers who refused to join the strike. Most of the latter had been deputized and opened fire with shotguns and pistols.

When the bloody outbreak ended the ground near the mill
was studded with dead and dying.

At Greenville, S. C., a strike picket was shot and killed at the Dumean mill by a deputy sheriff who claimed self-defense.

Riots in Georgia swelled the death list. A strike picket died at Augusta following a fierce flareup there last night. At Trion, Ga., a deputy and a picket were killed in a clash between strikers and non-strikers.

Councilmen About Ready To Make Final Decision On Project

ABANDON IDEA OF BUILDING LIBRARY

Community Building Project
For Dean Park May Be Erected

Mayor Mayne and councilmanic colleagues convened in special meeting at the city building today and discussed the probable purchase of the Shenango Valley hospital by the city. No decision was arrived at during the session this morning and council adjourned until late this afternoon when a decision may be made.

It was the consensus of opinion this morning that the materials which could be obtained from the building are worth from $5,000 to $6,000.

Oppose Library Idea Officials expressed themselves as being in favor of the construction of a community recreation building in Dean park if the deal is consummated. R. W. D. labor will be used.
The price at which the city hopes to obtain the building and materials, if the city decides to buy, is several times less than its reported value.

Several of the councilmen said they did not favor the rebuilding of the public library and it was indicated this phase would be abandoned.

Razing Of Hospital Recalls Charity Ball

Decision of the directors of the Jameson Memorial hospital to tear down the old Shenango Valley hospital, built in 1893, and dedicated March 12, 1894, recalls to mind the big charity ball which was an event on April 9, 1895, to raise money for the hospital.

An interesting account of the ball and reception was published in the old Courant-Guardian of April 22, 1895, a clipping from which was saved by Mrs. James K. Pollock, widow of the late Dr. J. K. Pollock, and which is presented herewith.

It is interesting to note that the price of admission to the ball was $5. The total amount raised was $1,256.10, which was no small sum of money in those days.

The names of many of New Castle's outstanding citizens will be found listed on the committee and among the solicitors.

The story of this big social event follows:

"Through the courtesy of the committee who had charge of the charity ball which was given for the benefit of the Shenango Valley hospital in Masonic hall on the evening of the 9th of April, the Courant-Guardian has obtained the entire proceedings of that committee. The amount of money raised, all of which is given in the report made by the committee, was as follows:

"To the President and Directors of the Shenango Valley hospital, I append herewith statement of the Charity Ball given for the benefit of the hospital April 9, 1895. New Castle, Pa., April 16, 1895. On March 10 the directors of the hospital found their resources about $700 in arrears and accordingly called a meeting of a number of gentlemen who have heretofore taken an interest in the affairs of the institution, to be held at the office of Walter D. Clark on March 12, 1895. The meeting was called to order by the election of John C. Wallace as chairman and Frank Tidball as secretary. In the absence of Frank Tidball, Horace G. Miller acted as secretary. Director E. I. Phillips explained the object of the meeting as stated and said the hospital must have $700. After considerable discussion it was decided to give a charity ball provided the Masonic rooms could be secured for this purpose, and a committee was appointed to make an investigation and report at a meeting to be held on the 14th inst. The following executive committee was appointed: John C. Wallace, James N. Parris, Horace G. Miller, Joseph A. Fleckenstein, David Dickey, John W. Keast, E. I. Phillips, Frank G. Blackford, Frank Tidball. Pursuant to adjournment the committee met on the 14th at the office of W. D. Clark and the sub-committee reported that the Masonic rooms could be had for this purpose, when it was decided to give a charity ball for the benefit of the hospital and $5.00 was the price decided upon for tickets. Horace G. Miller was elected secretary and treasurer and all the sub-committees to arrange the details were appointed, together with a soliciting committee whose names will appear in the report. We think the most important of all these committees was the one of which E. I. Phillips was the chairman ex-officio. While in fact Mrs. George W. Moody acted in the capacity of chairman and deserves great credit, not only for her own services, but for the work of the ladies she associated with her. As the report will show, the ladies did nobly and I know they have the hearty thanks of the committee as well as the directors of the Shenango Valley hospital. The committee met almost daily until the date of the reception, April 9. The newspapers were very kind in publishing everything pertaining to the benefit and the general public have the thanks of the committee for responding so generously. Below will be found different solicitors to gether with an itemized statement of the expenses, etc. The names of those purchasing tickets have already been published. Below will be found the individual work of the different solicitors and itemized list of the expenses. Receipts—J. N. Parris, $342.50, John C. Wallace, $70, Edwin C. Wilson, $59, David Dickey, $75, Fred Wilder, $10, Charles Steph, $5, F. G. Blackford, $15; Ollie Moore, $10, E. N. Ohi, $50, Rev. J. P. Gallagher, $10, John W. Travers, $60.25, Frank Tidball, $5, John W. Keast, $140, John Elder, Jr., $10, George L. Patterson, $70, John R. Patterson, $30, Horace G. Miller, $45, John Riley, $45, W. H. McBride, $45, James Gunning, $37, W. J. Erce, $5, A. Fleckenstein, $5, J. A. Fleckenstein, $20, E. I. Phillips, $20 cash at door $5; proceeds ladies' supper, $1,000.00, etc., $151.70. Total, $1,256.10. Expenses—George T. O'Connell, $48; R. W. Clendenin, music, $8; G. W. Keller, janitor, $4; Wm. Parsons, music, $5; New Castle Courant-Guardian, postal cards, etc., $5; J. W. Keast ex. charges, $5; Mrs. Minnie Sullivan, services, $7; Daniel Mooney, services, $5. Total, $84.25. By net proceeds, $1,256.10.

"Respectfully submitted,
"HORACE G. MILLER,

Softball Season To Close Tonight

National League Softball Season Will End Tonight With Playing Of Three Games

National league softball season will be brought to a close tonight with the playing of three games if the weather permits. If the games cannot be played because of the rain, the league will close its doors anyhow.

The National Radiators have won the first and second half title and it is useless for the teams to play out the few remaining games. The 1934 season has been a big success and the Rads deserve the bunting and the trophy cup that was donated by William Wignall of the East Side.

The three games that are scheduled tonight are as follows: Cascades at Radiators. E. S. Merchants at St. Andrews. Ellwood City Millers at W. S. Merchants.

New stamp-vending machines being introduced by the British postal department accept the new florins, which are only half silver, and reject the old half-silver Victorian coins.

Charges Milk Control Board All Politics

Dr. Howard C. Reynolds Was Forced To Resign Post On State Control Board

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—Declaring that his resignation from the Pennsylvania Milk Control board was "forced," Dr. Howard C. Reynolds today was on record with the further accusation that the milk control act is being loosely enforced by the attorney general's office.

Reynolds' assertions were embodied in a signed statement published in "The Breeder and Dairyman." Announcement of Reynolds' resignation from the board was announced July 27 by Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

Reynolds aired his charges as the board's new "basic utilization" plan from controlling the state's milk surplus went into effect today.

Reynolds averred that he "did not quit the milk board willingly as Governor Pinchot made it appear, but was forced to resign presumably to satisfy the demands of the 'milk trust' and the political group serving the trust."

"At the outset," wrote Reynolds, "I realized the board was placed at a disadvantage in that the attorney general's department had not, in my opinion, demonstrated any willingness to serve the interests of the farmers or to protect the interests of the independent milk distributors."

Reynolds urged that the board employ "an experienced lawyer, whose loyalty to the interests for which the board was created would be unquestioned."

REYNOLDSTOWN PUPILS AGAIN HOLD SESSIONS

report of Treasurer Robert Whaley and the minutes by Mrs. Ella Newell Pollock were given and approved.

Former Teachers There.

Mrs. McGurk called on Little Catherine Wilcox to recite a poem which had been composed by Mrs. Emma Williams Glover about Fred L. Rentz, which proved very apropos to the occasion. She also gave an interesting reading in addition.

Four former teachers who were present were asked to stand. They were Mrs. Lizzie Simpson Cubbison, Mrs. Lavinia Patterson Durant, Mrs. John C. Northcutt, and Mrs. Emma Williams Glover.

Two were present, in Mrs. Martha McKarnes and Robert H. Whaley who had attended every reunion, and there were fourteen in attendance who had been present at the first one.

Mrs. Laura Warnock read a poem which had been composed for the first high school graduation exercises by Miss Horner, one of the members of the class, in 1879. The graduation exercises were held in the home of one of the teachers, Miss McMath on Court street. Three members of that class, were present at the reunion.

Phippis Gives Talk

Charles Phipps, of Cleveland, gave a splendid talk, in which he stated that the humble pleasures of life, the doing of good for others, had come to mean more to him as he acquired wealth. Such gatherings as the Reynolds school reunion, were, he said, fraught with the richest of memories.

Mr. Phipps was unable to attend last year because of the illness of his wife, who passed away a month ago.

William J. Crombie, of Philadelphia, head of the physical education department at the University of Pennsylvania, who was present for his first time, in a number of years, also gave a splendid talk and expressed his intention of returning again.

Fred L. Rentz gave several interesting reminiscences, and recalled how he and Snyder had started the reunions 27 years ago, and of the effort he had put forth to have the thing advertised which had resulted in the reunion becoming a really big affair each year.

He recalled the fact that when he attended the old Reynolds school in its beginning, that there were few houses around the school, the hillside in that vicinity being to drink had to be carried from the old tan yard, where Reario's store now stands or from over in Wolf swamp.

Others called upon briefly were William T. Butz, E. E. Marshall, Mrs. Northcutt, Mrs. Lydia McCandless Taylor, Mrs. Sam Armstrong, and Mrs. Lavinia Durant and Alderman O. H. P. Green.

The following letter was read from one of the pupils unable to attend:

7107 Ranter Avenue, Seattle, Wash.

My Dear Mrs. Pollock:

My sister Anne (Mrs. LeRoy Welch) from Washington City, is here now visiting and the Old Timers Association has been one of our very pleasant topics.

We can't be with you this year, much to our regret, because we realize now that the annual picnics of the Old Timers Association have been the great spots of real pleasure in our memories. I hope we may both be able to be with you in the grand march at Cascade Park (Big Run Falls) next year.

With best wishes to every member of the old timers and to yourself personally in which I am joined by sister Anne, I remain,

Very truly yours,

HAMILTON PLATT.

This letter was mailed Sunday evening at 5 o'clock and got in New Castle Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, via airmail.

Mrs. McGurk recalled a list of old places and persons, which brought back fond old memories to all, and also recited a school poem of considerable length.

Old Officers Re-named.

In the annual election of officers, the old ones were renamed for the coming year, as follows:

President, Mrs. Annie Tobin McGurk; secretary, Mrs. Ella Newell Pollock; and treasurer, Robert H. Whaley.

It was voted to continue the reunion next year with the meeting in the school house, the day prior to Old Timers Day, and that the sessions would be followed by a picnic dinner in the school building.

After the meeting adjourned, at 5 o'clock the former pupils assembled for a picnic dinner in an adjoining room in the building.

Others Declare Prisoner Sought To Fleece Them

Macione Identified As Having Worked Scheme On Funeral Directors

August Macione, a stranger here, was identified today by several persons in police court as the man who had fleeced them of money recently. He was taken into custody by a city detective yesterday on a charge of larceny by trick.

Among those who identified Macione was David Marshall of Wampum and also a florist of Ellwood City. He is said to be wanted on the same charges in McKees Rocks, Sewickley and other western Pennsylvania cities.

It is said that he will be held for further possible identification today by funeral directors of various parts of western Pennsylvania after which he will receive an aldermanic hearing for a long time.

He was arrested here when he visited several funeral directors and said his wife was dying in a hospital. He said he had left the hospital too late to get into a bank and asked for a loan.

The funeral directors summoned police and he was arrested. A state police teletype message brought information to Detectives Chief McMullen that he was wanted in several places.

Ropp Home Outing Attracts Scoutmen

Nearly forty boy scout leaders and their ladies assembled at the Ropp home in New Bedford last night for the regular monthly meeting of the Scout Leaders' club and for a social hour. In the absence of President John Wilson, A. S. Hainsworth, vice president, presided over the short business session in which matters relating to local leader work were discussed and passed on. Trophies of the district commissioner contest and the camping contest were called in, and a recommendation regarding mass camping next year was made.

The social hour followed, and it was not hard to take. With roast corn, boiled corn, steamed corn and other eatables, the scout couples made out remarkably well. No one kept any accurate record of the corn cobs that piled up, but it was certain that the men did their duty nobly. The Roppes proved themselves the delightful hosts they have had a reputation for, and with horseshoe pitching, some improvised vocalizing on the part of the leaders' quartette, and the big campfire, everyone present had a real time.

The date of the next session was set for Wednesday, September 19, the meeting to be held at Camp Phillips, weather permitting. This will be a regular program, in preparation for the fall and winter activities.

TIME FOR A DECISION

CONDEMNATION of the navy dirigible, Los Angeles, as unsafe for further active service will have the effect of reviving the question of the value of airships as weapons of national defense.

The issue has been debated for years, with no decision recorded. Supposed experts in such matters are divided in their opinions. Tests have been made, but these have not served to settle the controversy.

With the Los Angeles out of commission, the country has only one dirigible, the Macon, in active service. It participated in the recent maneuvers of the fleet on the latter's passage from the Pacific to the Atlantic, and a report on its performance now is before naval authorities. Unofficial reports at the time credited the Macon with doing valuable work.

Several million dollars have been expended by the United States in experimenting with dirigibles. These experiments have been marked by disasters that have taken a number of lives. They are not to be condemned merely because of this. Nearly all progress is purchased at the sacrifice of life.

It seems, though, that the experiments by now should have furnished sufficient reliable data on which to base a decision as to the value of dirigibles in warfare. Before indulging in further costly tests, the government would do well to make a serious and expert study of the results to date, in an effort to determine whether new expenditures and risks would be justified.

LOCAL POLICE HANDICAPPED

Department of Justice agents have cut another notch in their guns and given municipal police an inferiority complex. They are living nobly up to their reputation of getting their man. The big mistake in the career of "Dangerous John" Dillinger seems to have been the unlawful transportation of a stolen automobile across a state line, the crime for which he was sought by the federal government.

Advocates of a system of federal police to supplant all municipal and state police will use the slaying of Dillinger with good effect as propaganda. Where several states and great cities had failed the federal government had succeeded.

What lesson the desperado fraternity shall learn from this latest chapter in the amazing history of crime in America it is too early to say. Some may turn to making a living honestly or at least within the law; others may just make it an inviolable rule to stay away from state lines with stolen automobiles.

As for the American public it is now more convinced than ever that if crime is to be put down in the United States the federal government will have to do it. And yet that is unfair to the other law enforcement officers, who are less at fault than the system under which they operate. The department of justice agent gets his man because he takes no time off from the hunt to slow down motorists, or shoot stray dogs. You cannot stop to shoot squirrels while hunting wolves.

Reading of the taking of Dillinger, dead or alive, a society outraged by the brutal Lindbergh kidnapping and murder will take new hope that some day the perpetrators of that atrocity will be overtaken by retributive justice.

DECLINING BIRTH RATE

If viewed merely in the light of the great army of unemployed that now constitutes the country's biggest problem, the nation's declining birth rate fails to take on the alarming proportions attributed to it by Dr. Oliver M. Baker, senior economist of the department of agriculture. Were the country's population suddenly reduced by from 10,000,000 to 15,000,000, the present economic situation would take on a quite different and improved appearance.

Dr. Baker, however, takes a long-range view of the situation. He naturally expects that industrial and economic conditions eventually will return to normal when there will be plenty of work for everybody who wants to work and food for those willing to earn it.

The country's population, he says, is approaching a stationary point, which may be reached within the next 50 years. Should the birth rate then continue to drop, there would be precipitated a serious economic situation marked by lessened demand for farm and industrial products.

Nature, however, has a way of correcting matters and readjusting conditions that can not always be foreseen by man.

HISTORIC FINALE

When Secretary of the Navy Swanson recently signed an order directing the scrapping of 17 over-age destroyers, he closed the careers of some rather historic vessels.

For among these 17 obsolete warships were five which once played a spectacular role. They were the first American fighting ships to enter the European war zone, and play an active part in it, after the United States declared war on Germany.

This country had been in the war only a few weeks when that little destroyer flotilla reached an English port. They were the first visible, tangible sign of American participation in the conflict; as such, they bore significance infinitely greater than that of any other ships in our whole navy.

And now they're going out of existence—the destroyers Conyngham, Porter, McDougal, Wainwright and Davis. Their passing is a reminder of a historic event.

NO HEROISM ABOUT DILLINGER

No amount of sentiment, by any stretch of the imagination, can make heroes of men of the Dillinger type. The phrase "public enemies" describes them with relentless accuracy. Not the faintest tinge of romance can be honestly woven about the career of John Dillinger. No phase of it calls for admiration. Many of his "girl friends" are now serving terms in prison for mistakenly trying to protect him from the law.

His life and death should be a stern lesson to misguided youths who may be tempted to follow in the tinsel path of this cheap desperado. For the community at large his eradication is an incentive to the authorities to go ahead with their well-planned program of ridding the nation of thugs.

Another cause of heart trouble is the idea that a 50-year-old heart can take a 10-year-old's exercise.

College men make good prisoners, says Warden Lawes of Sing Sing. Now, have you any doubt as to the value of an education?

NO MORE PRIVATE WORLDS

We make private worlds for ourselves. We think we can escape from the irritating world by going indoors and turning the lock on life—and then we'll be safe and secure and happy.

But if you try to escape, you can't do it. When you run away you run straight into a self-made prison, and if you shut the doors tight enough and lock all the windows and pull down the blinds and stuff every crack, in time you go a little mad or entirely mad. . . . That's what is wrong with insane people, and that's what is wrong with permanently unhappy people of all kinds. People who whimper or snarl and complain that the world is not cut to their measure.

But what can an unhappy mortal do?" you may ask.

He can unlock his doors," says Phyllis Eustonia, "and stand open to life." And if he does that he will be happy and useful, with a clean wind blowing through his house.

"The way I look at it now," says a man named Arnold in Phyllis Eustonia's "Private Worlds," "is that there mustn't be any private worlds! Letting oneself be cut off by pride—or shutting oneself up completely in a dangerous intimacy—or hiding because of fear—well, those things aren't the escapes they look like. There is in all of them a sort of solitary confinement—even in the intimacy; one's got to belong to the outside world as well! Then one's all right! I don't mean that one need go on about talking—but one mustn't keep the best of oneself up one's sleeve. One must stand open to life. . . . One needn't bother about individuals letting one down. What is it Nietzsche says: 'In the end man experiences only his true self.' It's the way one takes what one goes through, not what one goes through, that is to be trusted or distrusted.

When you come to think of it, you can't do anyone more good than he'll let you, either! No patient in this hospital, for instance, can be cured if he becomes inaccessible! The private world is complete then, and has unhitched itself forever from mankind."

The man who speaks these words was once a madman, shut away from himself. He hated and distrusted the world and would not come out.

But at last, through the trust of other men, he came to trust himself and to live easily and freely once more, in the wide world instead of his private world.

Once Overs

TAKE THE BLAME WHEN YOU DESERVE IT

Why do you always blame another person when you make a fool of yourself?

If you impute too freely, you claim that it was a case of the crowd forcing you to take more than you should have taken.

If you step out a bit, you assert that your home is not congenial. If you sustain a heavy loss in a game of draw, you allege that it was necessary for you to bet in order to make the game interesting for the other fellows.

If you remain out too late at night, you say you did not want to break up the party by leaving at the time you should have left.

If you plunge out on a horse race, you claim that the crowd was making up a pot and needed what you put in. If you engage in a quarrel in your home, you insist that the other person in the dispute was responsible.

If you get into a fight, you say you were not the aggressor. Always excusing yourself and never admitting your weakness.

As an adult, in full possession of your faculties, you should be able to regulate your actions.

Can't you see that always blaming another for your misdeeds makes you out a pretty weak brother?

THE DITCH DIGGER TALKS

A youngster to his father said: "I ran away from school today. I thought I'd rather work instead. And earn a grown man's pay."

"For all you said I failed to heed, But I have had a talk today With one who scarce can write and read, And I am back at home to stay."

"A digger of a ditch was he, Who said, while learning on his spade, 'This only strong you have to be To learn my very common trade."

"I could have gone to school but I, About the self same age as you, Threw every chance for knowledge by To get a job that I could do."

"Man gets no further than his will, In spite of blunders and mistakes, The place in life which he shall fill Is settled by the choice he makes."

"If nothing more you wish to be Than I am now, then run away; But, youngster, take this tip from me, This is a cheerless place to stay."

IDEA FOR COLLECTING DELINQUENT ACCOUNTS Playwrights well know the importance of ending the play just before the wedding—they leave that to the imagination.

The same principal might well be applied to stopping some collection letters just before you get ready to ask for the money—on the theory that a collection letter which does not ask for a check is so unusual that it is outstanding.

This may not be in order when the amount of the account is large but it has possibilities in collecting small bills where it is essentially important to get the money and leave the customer feeling kindly toward you.

Such a letter has been used for some time with success by the editor of a Missouri newspaper to delinquent subscribers. He lets the dollar sign do the asking.

Great Problems Await President
What Will The Answer Be?
Are These Views Of His Advisers?

By LESLIE EICHEL, Central Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK, July 26.—Momentous problems await President Roosevelt's arrival on American shores August 2 at Portland, Ore.

Dramatic events have occurred in his absence—the most dramatic having been the San Francisco strike and the so-called Vigilante raids following it.

Beneath the surface, however, there has been more. France has suffered a severe financial crisis, Germany has headed definitely toward devaluation.

In the United States, a drought has blighted million of acres, cost of living has outstripped wages, and industrial production has declined (although good business has been promised for autumn).

What will the president's words to the nation be? What action will he take, or what action can he take?

Those are questions repeatedly asked of this writer.

BASIC TROUBLE? Agitators have been blamed for the San Francisco, Seattle, Minneapolis strikes. Persons in the Roosevelt administration who have made a study of the labor problem and who undoubtedly influence the president do not take this view. They see the lack of strong government agency, such as was provided in the original Wagner labor bill, as the reason for failure to effect an immediate settlement.

The New York Times probably expresses the administration point of view on this when it states: "The point is that if one is going to insist upon the maintenance of law, he must not himself violate it. If he is resolved to demand, as President Roosevelt did, 'common sense and good order' in others, he must not himself act like a disorderly fanatic."

DISTRIBUTION Economists being widely read in New York today blame today's widespread disturbances far beyond elements generally accepted.

Stuart Chase, for example (one of the best sellers), is of the opinion, shared by some of the largest financiers, that the world problem now is one of distribution, and that the on, say, such a matter as NRA labor provisions, will not stand idly by as the government "encroaches" and "dictates." No group willingly will permit itself to be deprived of its rule. It is not human nature to surrender might and power with meek consent.

"Nor will the workers who thought they had begun to see the light stop their own movement at an imaginary line."

"The president's weakness lies chiefly in his dependence on political sagacity."

"Economic events, because they touch the very bread and butter of man, provoke the most uncontrollable emotional crises. The battle for existence has remained paramount through the ages."

THE WORLD WAR 20 YEARS AGO Today—July 26, 1914—The German victory over Russia, the first of the Serbian reply to the Austro-Hungarian demands for the first time. His ally had not cared to send him a copy of it, he learns the contents through Serbia! He is relieved, and he writes in the margin (as we know from the original document revealed after the German revolution in 1918):

"This is more than one could have expected! A great moral victory for Vienna; but with it every reason for war drops away, and Giesl might have remained quietly in Belgrade! On the strength of this I should never have ordered mobilization!"

The Kaiser, like his ministers, is deceived by Vienna.

The imperial chancellor, Count von Bethmann-Hollweg, telegraphs the German ambassador at London, Prince Lichnowsky (a kinsman of the Russian ambassador there):

"Austria-Hungary has declared officially and solemnly in St. Petersburg that she contemplates no acquisition of territory in Serbia, and that she will not endanger the continuance of the kingdom but wishes only to secure peace. According to report, she is here in Russia, is about to summon several bodies of reservists immediately, which would be equivalent to mobilization against us. If this news is corroborated, we shall be forced against our will to take measures to meet it. Today our efforts are still directed toward localizing the trouble and maintaining the peace in the Balkans. For this reason the strongest possible pressure be brought to bear in St. Petersburg for achieving this end."

Great Days—July 26, 1281—A typhoon of cyclonic force and peculiar violence, occurring in the China sea, saved Japan from the Mongol invader that had conquered all the rest of Asia.

Kublai Khan, who inspired the classic pages of Marco Polo (his servant for 17 years), dispatched 100,000 of his warriors in 3,000 ships to capture the island empire. The typhoon wrecked the fleet on its shores, and 65,000 of the troops were drowned. The others, demoralized, were butchered by the Japanese.

July 26, 1775—Service was begun over post-routes between Falmouth, Me., and Savannah, Ga., by the first "constitutional" postal system, instituted by the Continental congress with Benjamin Franklin as postmaster general.

To this postal system must go a large share of the credit for the success of the Revolution. Without a system of communication free from British control and espionage, the colonies could not have been drawn into and kept in cooperation.

July 26, 1788—New York ratified the constitution and became the 11th state. Motto: Excelsior. Flower: Rose.

July 26, 1915—U. S. marines were landed in Haiti, ostensibly to restore order, but actually to prevent the possibility of German seizure of the island as a naval base.

(They're still there, but this October, President Roosevelt promises the Haitians the evacuation that has cost the U. S. $50,000,000 will be ended.)

His first novel was rejected. Aldous Huxley, b. 1894, writer, great son of a great father (Thomas Henry Huxley). Sergei Koussevitzky, b. 1874, and Sergei Schelling, b. 1876, orchestra conductors. First Of All—The first parachute jump in America was made by Thomas Scott Baldwin, Jan. 30, 1897, before 300,000 persons, gathered in Golden Gate park, San Francisco.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

VERY OLD

The oldest known live creature in the world is an alligator on exhibition at St. Augustine, Florida, known as "Old Ponce."

He is named for Ponce de Leon, but was about five hundred years old at the time that explorer discovered Florida. Old Ponce's present age is estimated at nine hundred years.

He lies immovable for hours showing no signs of life until food comes. Then he is as vigorous and youthful as his youngest great-great-great-grandson, fifty times removed.

He weighs 1,200 pounds and eats seventy-five pounds of meat one meal.

"Please ask father," she answered, as she sank for the second time.
